DAILY ADVICE FOR JANUARY, FEBRUARY AND MARCH

What Strange Powers Did The Ancients Possess?

EVERY important discovery relating to mind power, sound thinking and cause and effect, as applied to self-advancement, was known centuries ago, before the masses could read and write.

Much has been written about the wise men of old. A popular fallacy has it that their secrets of personal power and successful living were lost to the world. Knowledge of nature's laws, accumulated through the ages, is never lost. At times the great truths possessed by the sages were hidden from unscrupulous men in high places, but never destroyed.

Why Were Their Secrets Closely Guarded?

Only recently, as time is measured; not more than twenty generations ago, less than 1/100th of 1% of the earth's people were thought capable of receiving basic knowledge about the laws of life, for it is an elementary truism that knowledge is power and that power cannot be entrusted to the ignorant and the unworthy. Wisdom is not readily attainable by the general public; nor recognized when right within reach. The average person absorbs a multitude of details about things, but goes through life without ever knowing where and how to acquire mastery of the fundamentals of the inner mind—that mysterious silent something which "whispers" to you from within.

Fundamental Laws of Nature

Your habits, accomplishments and weaknesses are the effects of causes. Your thoughts and actions are governed by fundamental laws. Example: The law of compensation is as fundamental as the laws of breathing, eating and sleeping. All fixed laws of nature are as fascinating to study as they are vital to understand for success in life.

You can learn to find and follow every basic law of life. You can begin at any time to discover a whole new world of interesting truths. You can start at once to awaken your inner powers of self-understanding and self-advancement. You can learn from one of the world's oldest institutions, first known in America in 1694. Enjoying the high regard of hundreds of leaders, thinkers and teachers, the order is known as the Rosicrucian Brotherhood. Its complete name is the "Ancient and Mystical Order Rosae Crucis," abbreviated by the initials "AMORC." The teachings of the Order are not sold, for it is not a commercial organization, nor is it a religious sect. It is a non-profit fraternity, a brotherhood in the true sense.

Not For General Distribution

Sincere men and women, in search of the truth —those who wish to fit in with the ways of the world—are invited to write for a complimentary copy of the sealed booklet, "The Mastery of Life." It tells how to contact the librarian of the archives of AMORC for this rare knowledge. This booklet is not intended for general distribution; nor is it sent without request. It is therefore suggested that you write for your copy to Scribe Z. S. R.

Message to Americans

from
The Secretary of the Treasury

America has much to be thankful for.

Abroad we have overcome enemies whose strength not long ago sent a shudder of fear throughout the world.

At home we have checked an enemy that would have impaired our economy and our American way of life. That enemy was inflation—runaway prices.

The credit for this achievement, like the credit for military victory, belongs to the people.

You—the individual American citizen—have kept our economy strong in the face of the greatest inflationary threat this nation ever faced.

You did it by simple, everyday acts of good citizenship.

You put, on the average, nearly one-fourth of your income into War Bonds and other savings. The 85,000,000 owners of War Bonds not only helped pay the costs of war, but also contributed greatly to a stable, prosperous postwar nation.

You, the individual American citizen, also helped by cooperation with rationing, price and wage controls, by exercising restraint in your buying and by accepting high wartime taxes.

All these things relieved the pressure on prices.

THE TASK AHEAD

We now set our faces toward this future: a prosperous, stable postwar America—an America with jobs and an opportunity for all.

To achieve this we must steer a firm course between an inflationary price rise such as followed World War I and a deflation that might mean prolonged unemployment. Prices rose more sharply after the last war than they did during the conflict and paved the way for the depression that followed—a depression which meant unemployment, business failures and farm foreclosures for many.

Today you can help steer our course toward a prosperous America:

—by buying all the Victory Bonds you can afford and by holding on to the War Bonds you now have

—by cooperating with such price, rationing and other controls as may be necessary for a while longer

—by continuing to exercise patience and good sense with high faith in our future.

The challenge to America of switching from war to peace with a minimum of clashing gears is a big one.

But it is a small one compared to the tasks this nation has accomplished since Sunday, December 7, 1941.

1946 and CAPRICORN

(Those born Dec. 22nd to Jan. 19th inclusive)

New values in a new world issue a warning to all ambitious Capricornians: proceed in conformity with the spirit of the New Age. Aim at achievement rather than material success in your chosen career. Old economic standards are toppling in 1946 and new vistas loom in practical life. Unless you adjust your vocational horizons, you may have to learn the bitter lesson of loss.

A Cardinal Cross ushers in the New Year. Not only are the Sun and Venus situated in Capricorn, but after the 9th, Mercury will be there also. Neptune and Jupiter are in your affliction sign Libra, heavily harassed by Saturn and Mars in Cancer. Add to that the dire fact that Saturn and Mars are weak in the sign of the Crab and you have a picture of disturbances and delays. These are likely to involve associates and partnerships in your business or private life, and may have an unpleasant reaction on your reputation.

This affects each and every one in this sign. So remember, make use of diplomacy, tact, wisdom, and your Saturnian virtue patience, if you want to overcome these obstacles and prevent criticism of your conduct.

On the other hand, while this Cross operates between January 1st and April 22nd, when Mars enters Leo, you may not have a dull time at all. Opportunity and activity beckon. If practical foresight sits at the control of your efforts, you should be able to mark the first four months of 1946 as extra-profitable, though hectic.

Neptune hovers in the first decanate of Libra throughout the entire year. This is apt to affect those whose birthdays fall in December and on January first: your otherwise remarkable sense of value and proportion may be somewhat upset. Just watch your step in technical and legal matters. However, at the same time unique enterprises and original endeavors may surprise you by their profitable results. Romance is also to the fore!

"Do not bite off more than you can chew" is the advice to those who celebrate their birthday between the 13th and 19th of January. This applies to the fields of law and finance in particular—so curb your spending impulses, especially in August and September.

All Capricorns should note September 24th as an important day, when the fortunate planet Jupiter enters their favorable sign Scorpio and conjoins Mars who is strong there until October 13th. This is a beautifully energizing ray, harmonious, deliberate and crowned by common sense and practical vision. All Capricornians will—or should—feel exhilarated until November 6th, and be full of initiative and enterprise. Those born in December, particularly, may look forward to patronage, good luck, or pleasant surprises between September 24th and November 16th. Romance and marriage, too, are on the Fall horizon.

A generally harmonious period for all should be June 20th to August 9th. This favors journeys, advertising, sports and promotion. However, wait until October for that rush to the inkwell, in case important legal signatures have to be affixed.

1946 and AQUARIUS

(Those born Jan. 20th to Feb. 19th inclusive)

The major part of 1946 is marked by propelling aspects for all Aquarians. The intellectual or air signs—your own triplicity—are activated by a strong stimulus for progress. Consult your individual horoscope to determine just through which department of your life these rays flow.

Those who saw the light in January will experience a favorable undercurrent from Neptune in Libra. This planet has great affinity with your finances and somehow ties up with legal and foreign interests. Note the periods August 10th to 31st and November 7th to 24th as highly auspicious for initiative in technical matters.

However, August introduces mixed vibrations and you would do well to guard your health. Plan your activities with perfect balance (Libra) in mind. Unwise expenditure then (mid-Summer) may cause dire disappointments between September 24th and October 11th.

An extra joyous birthday should be celebrated by those born between February 1st and 10th inclusive. Your own ruler Uranus radiates strength, originality and daring, which should lend you energy and initiative. New contacts may open up fresh vistas along career or vocational lines. Plan something worthwhile for May, June and July. Do not turn down unexpected propositions without investigating them.

All Aquarians born in February may look to September as an extremely important and active month. Journeys of an unexpected nature may come up between November 24th and December 16th. Uranus ladies may find their calendars crowded with pleasant dates in which gallantry and romance may play an important role. All interests involving the opposite sex should be to the fore at that time.

A very fine period for sociability and public appearances for all should be the latter part of the summer, including Labor Day weekend. So if you plan your vacation with a lot of activity and fun in mind, select August and early September. This entire period is marked by helpful vibrations for expansion, patronage and success along social and business avenues. Yet, strange as it may seem, the affairs of the heart are under a slight cloud just then. So treat your intimate relationships with kid gloves.

The Fall brings important changes in your planetary setup. The good luck planet Jupiter then leaves your harmonious sign Libra and conjoins Mars in your afflicting sign Scorpio. This bit of advice goes to all: between September 25th and November 6th use caution in matters of law, finance and associations. Do not plunge into hazardous ventures. Curb tendency toward extravagance. Avoid penning impulsive effusions. This is strictly a period for discretion and moderation in all undertakings.

December should be pleasant and active. If your birthday falls in the first half of February, a surprise in the form of a promotion or bonus may fall into your lap. The career man or woman may find recognition and effective publicity at the end of the year.

1946 should bring in the tide for most Water-Bearers. And if, in addition, your individual chart lends strength, the year may be a memorable milestone in your destiny.

1946 and PISCES

(Those born Feb. 20th to March 20th inclusive)

1946 is a year when the good children of Neptune may get "something for nothing." Cosmically this statement may be incorrect, for the law of cause and effect teaches us that all "lucky strikes" are basically deserved. Therefore you may look upon this year as introducing well earned reward for past efforts.

Practically all under this sign may find solidity and stability to grace their destinies. It may be the purchase of a permanent home; it may be a happy marriage, or an advantageous partnership. A sudden sale of undesired holdings may present itself as "good riddance." There may be a change in the family setup which may make the physiognomy of your private life look more cheerful and agreeable.

Pisces-born, therefore, should anticipate greater comfort and happiness in the coming year. But also welcome new propositions, educational advantages, business offers and that new job! "Live and let live" should be your motto in 1946.

The year begins with rays that are splendidly activated, and especially propelling along promotional and experimental lines. The great balancing wheel called Saturn lends its strength for economic harvest. "As you sow, ye are likely to reap," may now prove itself only too true. These excellent vibrations are in force until the end of July; after that they will be neutral and you had best follow a pre-arranged plan in practical matters.

But there is another set of fortunate aspects again late in September. The 25th of that month should introduce a turning point for "good and better." A time for all to scramble and hustle; get busy pushing material interest such as business, finances, jobs and, if you desire a change, put your best foot forward in new directions.

October, November and December are extra-favorable months for almost any kind of endeavor for all Fishes. The entrance of Jupiter into your favorable sign Scorpio will help you push your aspirations into realization. This goes not only for practical, economic and vocational objectives, but also for heart interests and all those matters connected with the more personal side of your life.

Note the periods September 7th to October 15th, and December 8th to the end of the year as splendid for the emotions and affections, for artistic aspirations, and for activities in the field of publicity and advertising. Attend to the latter with deliberate energy. However, a simultaneous aspect from Mars between November 7th and December 16th cautions you to resort to amicable, friendly methods during that period. Not the time to vent a grievance or to attempt explanations or complaints.

A few in this sign may find 1946 claiming attention to domestic adjustments. Those whose birthdays fall between the 6th and 12th of March may still be groping for greater security and stability in their home life. Don't be discouraged if the outlook is uncertain in the beginning of the year. Remember, "all is well that ends well"—which goes full measure for 1946.

1946 and ARIES

(Those born March 21st to April 19th inclusive)

No Ram should neglect to read the message of the Eclipses on page 14. You will learn that two Partial Eclipses of the Sun fall in Cardinal signs, affecting your own birth-date. If you saw the light on March 27th, 28th, 29th, April 1st, 2nd or 3rd, for instance, you may find these astral vibrations to stir up things in your destiny for better or worse. Eclipses can be regarded as intensified New Moons because they act as promissors in your affairs.

If your birthday falls in the above mentioned group, watch out for the following periods: August 10th to 31st, and December 17th to 30th, inclusive. Mars holds up the torch of dissension, haste and impulsiveness (he's your ruler, you know!) at that time. Hence it behooves you to apply the law of avoidance to the following matters; law, authorities, family and home problems, and all associations. Relationships with partners or mate should be handled with "awe and tremble." If unsatisfactory conditions along these lines have prevailed in the past, remember that a provocative word now may become an incentive for open rift and enmity.

While this applies mainly to those whose birth-date hits close to the Eclipse points, the above advice should be heeded by all Rams the first half of 1946. After August, however, planets swing into more favorable angles for greater harmony in your relations with others.

Mars maidens should then cultivate poise and affability in handling their favorite date. However, don't be too positive or self-assertive when Mars rules the day (August 10th to September 24th; December 17th to 30th).

Those celebrating their birthdays early in April—up to the 13th inclusive—should find 1946 rife with pleasant surprises. These may come in the form of special recognition or publicity and should give your career efforts a helpful push. But more: this splendid aspect indicates the signing of welcome contracts, radio engagements, journalistic breaks, and, more generally ample opportunity along lines of usual pursuits. For some, a profitable collaboration or partnership may materialize; marriage for others.

If you saw the light on March 30th, 31st, April 1st, 2nd, or 3rd, you may put 1946 down as an extraordinary year. It may bring opportunities of an undreamt of, unique, nature: an unexpected gift or legacy which may have the earmarks of a whimsical remembrance; a love affair which may turn out to be a magnificent career boost; a remarkable discovery; the winning of a lottery, sweepstakes, or a prize in a contest. At any rate the element of chance surrounds such capricious benefits.

April-born Rams can expect the first six months of 1946 to introduce foreigners in a helpful manner. The antipodes and Argentines are accentuated in this picture of good fortune. Better brush up on your Spanish—you may need it (Jupiter rules the Latin American peoples)!

In spite of early pitfalls in 1946, this should be an above-average year for most Rams.

1946 and TAURUS

(Those born April 20th to May 20th inclusive)

♀ Accent on "Venus" in 1946! It's your ruler and it holds a powerful position in your solar horoscope all year.

This means: strive for social conquests, with a view to your prestige in the business realm and your standing in your community life. Use your personality to advantage. Apply persuasive methods throughout, and maintain a conciliatory attitude when differences arise.

After September 26th you may suddenly find your number of friends increasing as by a miracle. You may gain, through influential contacts along business lines, and your private life may be graced by benefits from relatives you may so far have considered insignificant. You will undoubtedly find that the Venustian axiom, "the smile wins," will help you solve many of your most harassing problems.

This is true for all Bulls whether your birthday falls in April or May. Encourage a harmonious atmosphere in your place of work, especially up to Labor Day. Be kind. Remember, it pays to be nice!

However, if you celebrate your birthday in May, you may have the fortunate experience of benefiting through a congenial fellow-worker. So if you own a shop or business, befriend underlings. A "good deed" aspect is in force during the major part of 1946 and even a kindly thought may bring untold harvest—maybe years from now and through someone below you in income bracket or professional rank.

The money mansion aspects which may have made the last three months of 1945 uncertain for many, continue to fluctuate, although some strongly stabilizing undercurrents indicate eventual maturity in fiscal matters. Tangible assets may turn out to be an anchorage in a desired locality. You may feel "at home" in a certain street, suburban district, or country place because you like the people there for your potential neighbors. As this aspect is in force until late in July, it is not unlikely that this urge may cause you to change your present residence by the Fall of 1946. This affects especially May-born Bulls.

Those with an April birthday should look to the last three months of 1946 as introducing some extraordinarily advantageous opportunities for partnerships and associations. These may involve professional collaboration, or a congenial, and from a monetary standpoint lucrative, business setup.

For the Venus belles, wedding bells may culminate romances before the altar—which dovetails harmoniously with the before mentioned "home" aspect. So both, mate and home, which represent a strong inner urge, should be gratified by the fortunate planetary rays streaming through your Solar Seventh—the Mansion of marriage and partnership.

Between the middle of November and the end of December lie weeks of extra-friendly domestic aspects for those with birthdays on May 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th or 12th, and romantic attachments of many years' standing may climax into nuptials during these six weeks.

1946 and GEMINI

(Those born May 21st to June 21st inclusive)

All Twins should remember —from experience — that changes are unpleasant while they occur but that they very often lead to greener pastures in the end. 1946 continues with these adjustment aspects, especially for those who celebrate their birthdays from June 5th to 14th inclusive. 1946 spells motion and action physically, mentally and emotionally!

There are strongly propelling opportunity aspects for all, indicating expansion and quick turnovers which may swell both pride and pocket-book. You will have no trouble bridging momentary standstill periods if you keep in mind that you are luckiest when you are most optimistic. Gloom does not become you. Keep smilin' through. The sunny, breezy hilltops of life are your planetary locale.

Gemini-born whose birthdays fall on May 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, June 1st, 2nd, or 3rd, are under very subtle, constructive rays all year, which are difficult to define or interpret. Almost anything in the nature of a unique benefit may fall your way, and quite unexpectedly prove a turning point in your destiny. This may come about through a minor or relative and may involve a shift of scene or a journey.

If your birthday falls on June 12th, 13th, 14th or 15th, mark your birth month (after your birthday) and the following summer months as precarious in matters of human relations. Soft-pedal business associates and collaborators. Apply this also to your private life by demonstrating tolerance and a spirit of forgiveness if the marriage mate has been wanting in conjugal duty or otherwise incurred your displeasure. Exercise introspection between August 3rd and November 17th, when you are apt to be hyper-critical.

The second half of 1946 introduces stabilizing rays for those born in May. You may benefit through patronage from elders or those in power. But guard against nervous explosions and petty squabbles with associates between November 7th and 24th, which is neither a propitious time for important legal signatures or emotional outbursts on paper.

If you were born in June, between the 16th and 21st inclusive, count on the period between your birthday and the end of September to introduce some very fine rays. It should be a harvest time on the material plane in matters of law and finance. A spirit of enterprise may propel your actions along new channels in business, career or profession as the result of a desirable new contact.

Mercury maidens of this group may meet their "fate" in the shape of a dashing young man with that wild desire to succeed. You may be part of his conquest and that includes ring and license! On the other hand, many of the Gemini Lotharios may then think of settling down for good. So the general aspects for 1946 are wholesome and stabilizing as soon as the preliminary adjustments have been effected.

Here are a few extra-fortunate birth-dates: June 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th or 11th Twins should mark 1946 as a milestone year. All of the early months until the end of September should be active and blessed with fine opportunities and lucrative contacts. Follow through on them diligently. October, November and December are also good, but more so from the standpoint of solidification of your earlier efforts. Therefore have most of your irons in the fire before the Autumnal Equinox. Then draw in your lines and allow results to mature with the momentum you've given your enterprises.

1946 is a heyday year for all. There isn't a birthday that isn't touched by the fusion of good fortune, opportunity and action, and the undercurrents continue to be extremely favorable. So unless your individual horoscope grossly contradicts the solar radiance of your zodiacal sign, look to the coming year as a turning point for better!

1946 and CANCER

(Those born June 22nd to July 22nd inclusive)

C This is an emphatic protest against the general presumption that the transit of Saturn through Cancer is "evil." It is NOT. Saturn is called the Reaper. He grants in proportion to what you have sown in the past—no more, no less! True, the lazy loafer may not expect any sizeable results in 1946. But if you have diligently ploughed the field of business or career you may find the first nine months of this year to yield plentiful harvest. October, November and December are unquestionably good, even as regards new opportunities.

But watch you speed and direction right at the start of 1946, until the end of April. Travel by a wise, cautious itinerary in all you do, lest confusion handicap both your efforts and your health. This is particularly true for the July-born Moon children.

Always remember that Saturn teaches you self-discipline and calm. Do not attempt more than you can reasonably accomplish within a given period of time.

Do not live by crowded hours. This is apt to be the case because of the presence of Mars in Cancer—here in its fall. To balance these two planetary rays wisely and healthfully means to follow a pre-arranged plan.

Particularly trying may be the days when Saturn stands cheek by jowl with Mars between January 13th and 27th for those whose birthdays fall between July 10th and 15th. Apply the law of avoidance now to technical matters, legal signatures, and daring exploits in which you may have to risk your physical body, such as hunting, exploring and fast automobile racing.

There are two Eclipses in Cardinal signs that should be watched by those who celebrate their birthdays on July 4th, 5th or 6th. Mark the days from February 10th to March 10th as somewhat critical. This may be a result of undue strain on your physical self. So build up your health beforehand.

Those Crabs who were born in June may find August a hectic month. Unforeseen obligations may press on your pocket-book. Domestic expenses may loom out of the blue. But again, smooth and pleasant sailing is indicated for your life vessel after September 23rd. So plan your important undertakings for October, November and December.

A special word to the Moon maidens. If your birthday happens to fall in either of these above-mentioned periods, you may interpret the planetary handicaps in terms of "heart affairs." The man in your life may not seem what he used to be. A temporary cooling of affection may worry you. But note the period after the Fall Equinox as pleasant, and propitious for wedding bells. Accent then is on love, partnerships, friendships, reconciliations,

Rhythm Of Life

by Newton Batchler

THE Sun is the central dynamo of the solar system, but the tremendous energy which is generated in its incandescent flames does not reach the Earth in a steady and unremitting stream. This is due partly to the rhythmic pattern of the Sun's own radiation, which is connected with the Sunspot cycle, but more particularly to the constantly changing relationship of the Earth to the Sun.

As our terrestrial globe spins through the voids of space, it is now nearer, now farther, from the solar center of radiation. The Earth's inclination upon its axis likewise alters during the course of the year, so that the Sun's rays are received perpendicularly in the Summer and at a slanting angle in the Winter in the Northern Hemisphere.

This varying pattern of receptivity of the Earth to the solar rays results in the phenomena of the seasons. From the time of the Winter Solstice on December 22nd, the amount of radiation received on the Earth gradually increases in intensity. By the Vernal Equinox (March 21st), the days and nights have become equal in length, and from that time until the Summer Solstice (June 22nd), a rapid increase of solar energy can be felt.

From June 22nd until the Autumnal Equinox (September 23rd), there is a slight falling off of radiation, though this is counter-balanced by the heat stored in the atmosphere and the rocks of the Earth. A sharper decrease is then experienced from the Autumnal Equinox until the following Winter Solstice, which is the low point of the entire year.

All life on the Earth responds to this seasonal rhythm. The farmer and the gardener perhaps realize this most intimately, for no one who has had experience with plant life would dream of planting seeds in the heat of Summer or expect to reap a crop in the dead of Winter.

The seasonal cycles go far beyond being merely of agricultural importance, however. In business and industry, in politics, in fashions, and in the affairs of individuals, there is also a cyclic rhythm dependent upon variations in the amount of solar energy which can be effectively utilized upon the Earth.

Because the psychological response to the solar rhythm is complicated by changing planetary aspects, we are not as directly aware of seasonal effects upon human affairs as we are of their effects on growing plants. Nevertheless, these effects can easily be observed by anyone who takes the trouble to do so.

The solar wave pattern as it affects national and individual destiny is the background to all the lesser rhythms caused by planetary factors. This background is universal—affecting everyone on the Earth, regardless of particular birth signs or natal planetary positions. In the accompanying chart, the solar wave pattern is outlined for the next twelve months. It does not vary greatly from one year to the next. Hence this chart may be used for any succeeding year, with a very slight margin of error.

In order for you to understand the chart and apply it in a practical manner to your own life, a few words of explanation are necessary.

The main subdivisions of the solar year are of course the four asons: Winter, Spring, Summer, and Autumn. Each of these may be compared to a "tide" in the ceaseless ebb and flow of the Sun's radiation.

Within each of the four seasonal periods, there is a lesser cycle, corresponding to the three zodiacal signs through which the Sun passes in each quarter of the year. The signs are then subdivided into decans of approximately ten days each, and the decans are further subdivided into four periods of two and one-half days each.

Reference to the table will make this system clear.

While the Winter Tide (December 23rd to March 21st) is a period of latency and quietude, the whole of the Spring tide (March 21st to June 22nd) represents an interval of "commencement"—a time for both the literal and figurative planting of seeds. Similarly, the Summer and Autumn tides (June 22nd to September 23rd, and September 24th to December 22nd) represent the times of growth and harvest.

Within each of the four seasonal tides, the pattern is repeated in a three-fold frequency. The first month in each season is a period of commencement. The second month in each season is a time of fulfillment. The final month in each season is a period of summing up, before the commencement of the next cycle.

Again, each of the months repeats the cycle. The first decan of any sign is a decan of commencement, the second a decan of fruition, the last a decan of passivity and completion.

The rhythm within the decan is perhaps the most important of all. Here we find the Winter-Spring-Summer-Autumn pattern brought down to its least common denominator, and repeated on a scale of days rather than months. The first two and one-half days of each decan are therefore favorable for the commencement of any activity. During the middle five days, objective results are most likely to be experienced. During the last two and one-half days, "the tide is going out." Whatever is attempted in these last hours is unlikely to prove lasting or satisfactory—just as seeds planted in the winter are apt to be frozen out before they can germinate.

The practical value of the solar wave chart therefore becomes apparent. If you are starting a new business, commencing a new job, taking office in an organization, getting married, or going on a trip, and if you wish the results of your action to be reasonably permanent and effective, then choose a time when solar radiation is increasing—when "the tide is coming in."

If, on the other hand, you wish to banish something from your life and be rid of it once and for all—if you are selling property, terminating employment, securing a divorce, etc.—then strive to time your action during a period which is designated in the chart as "decreasing."

In the minor affairs of life, it is sufficient to note whether the particular day is in the positive, increasing period of the decan (first five days of any decan) or in the negative, decreasing period (last five days). In more important matters, you should choose—as far as circumstances permit—an increasing day, in an increasing decan, in an increasing month for instituting action.

If you consciously follow the solar wave pattern for even a few weeks, timing your actions in accordance with the rhythm of the Sun's radiation, you will soon notice that you are accomplishing your work and securing what you want with a far less than usual expenditure of effort.

Minor annoyances and frustrations will disappear almost magically, because you will cease to force issues when the tide is against you. If you feel somewhat moody and depressed during periods when the solar energy is decreasing, you will not blame yourself, but will come to understand that this is a normal process.

On the other hand, you will be primed to push your most vital interests at the times when they are most likely to prosper. You will not hang back, letting the psychological moment pass, because you will know that during the periods of increase whatever you start must necessarily obey the solar rhythm and be brought to ultimate fruition.

MEANING OF ABBREVIATIONS: Inc=Increasing (phase of beginnings), Cli=Climax (phase of objective results), Dec=Decreasing (phase of completion). Where a date is repeated, as in 6/12-14, 6/14-17, it indicates that the turning point between phases occurs during the middle of the repeated day, so that the early part of the day belongs to one phase while the later part of the day belongs to the succeeding phase.

The increasing part of each Decan or Sign should be used for the commencement of new activities. Decreasing parts are unfavorable for the beginning of anything of importance, since they indicate the completion and drawing to a close of existing conditions. The strength of any period is increased if day, decan, and month are all in the same vibration (all "Increasing", all "Climax", or all "Decreasing").

What Do You Know About Eclipses?

by Eve M. Bacon

ONE of the most fascinating fields in the study of astrology is that of the eclipse. From the beginning of time eclipses have been a source of wonder and amazement to humanity. In ancient days the orientals looked with fear and superstition upon the eclipses of the Sun and Moon, believing them to be attacks upon the celestials by demons or dragons, and they attempted to frighten the demons away with loud noises and menacing actions. In ancient Egypt it was the custom of the king, who was the earthly representative of the Sun, to perform the religious rite of walking around the temple walls, thus insuring the Sun's daily journey without further interruption.

Among the American Indians, particularly the Objeways, a solar eclipse meant that the Sun was being extinguished. Their warriors immediately shot fire-tipped arrows at it to help rekindle its fading light. During a lunar eclipse the opposite ceremony was performed; lighted torches were buried in the ground, for it was believed that if the light of the Moon was extinguished, all fire on Earth would be destroyed except that hidden from sight. Even today, in our enlightened age, there is something awe-inspiring about looking into the heavens and seeing a planet moving across our life-giving Sun and Moon. Man then feels his helplessness in the face of immutable nature.

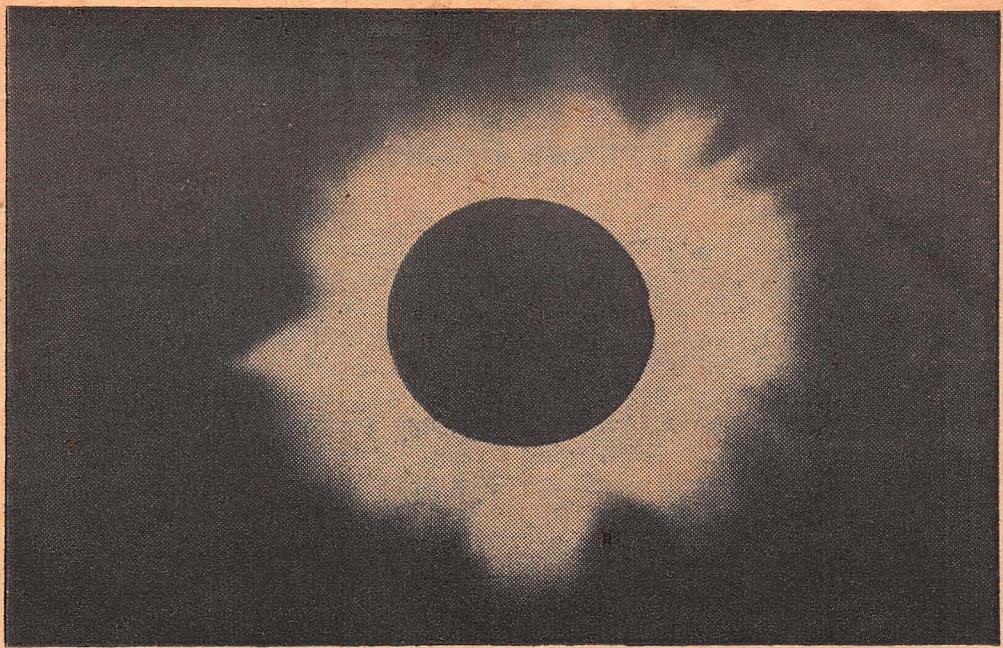

In astrological predictions the effects of an eclipse are usually felt over the period of a year. It is an event of supreme importance in calculating a chart, and one that is too often ignored by the modern astrologer. Ancient manuscripts bear out the importance of an eclipse in a prediction—from the writings of Berosus of Chaldea to those of Ptolemy the Alexandrian you will find references to eclipses and their relative importance. Ancient astrology textbooks stress the effect of a solar eclipse, especially if it touches the radical Sun in a chart. Teachers, versed in astrological knowledge, went into mourning in kingdoms where an eclipse fell on the natal Sun of their king or monarch, for it was a well-known rule that this predetermined his fall in power, if not his actual demise. Inasmuch as the Sun in its annual course around the Zodiac returns to the same degree on the same day of any year, an eclipse falling on a birthday should be a matter of great astrological importance to that native.

While an eclipse falling on the Sun of a person in high places is an indication of his fall from grace, so contrarily an eclipse in a vital spot of the chart of an unknown can sky-rocket him into fame and fortune.

A notable example of this is found in the horoscope of the Duchess of Windsor. On June 19, 1936, there was a total eclipse of the Sun falling directly on her radical Sun in the 28th degree of Gemini. A relatively unknown person at that time, she was, within a year, the most talked of woman in the world. Oddly enough, the eclipse also fell within three degrees of the radical Sun in the chart of the Duke of Windsor. He was King Edward VIII at the time of the eclipse, but within a year he had abdicated his throne.

This illustrates the astrological belief that an eclipse on the natal Sun of a ruler indicates a fall or loss of power but to an unknown it means a period of rise in fortune. We see from this that eclipses are not always tragic, but that they do foretell a drastic change that will be felt over a long period of time.

American Museum of Natural History

Solar Eclipse

Some astrologers claim that if the eclipse is not visible at the point where you are living, it will not affect your life. Scientific investigation does not confirm this, however. For instance, the solar eclipse of June, 1936, that catapulted the Duchess of Windsor into fame was invisible in Washington, D.C., but it marked the death year for that prominent columnist, Arthur Brisbane. The eclipse fell on his Uranus trine Saturn in Scorpio, in opposition to his radical Sun, and within three degrees trine his progressed Sun. Brisbane died of a heart attack December 25th, 1936, while traveling by train from Miami, Florida, to Washington, D. C. Many other instances could be cited as to the potency of eclipses even if they do not happen to be visible in the native's vicinity.

The eclipse of May 29, 1928, occurred two days before the eighty-first birthday of Pope Pius XI. He had been a lifetime ruler, so his fate could only be interpreted in one way; within a year he had passed on.

If you have been studying a chart where current events in the nativity do not seem to fit into the prevailing aspects, check back over the eclipses of the past few years and see if there has not been an eclipse falling within three degrees of some critical point in the radical chart, or aspecting a progressed planet. These often overlooked eclipses might explain an otherwise puzzling situation.

Study the following list of eclipses of the past few years and apply them to the charts of your friends or to some prominent character that they may have affected. You will find a world of new understanding opening up to you.

The year of 1945 gave us two solar eclipses, one on January 14th, in 23 degrees of Capricorn and one on July 9th in 16 degrees of Cancer. If these two degrees are critical ones in your chart, watch out!

Your Job Outlook

by Sydney Omarr

UNDER the universal vibration of the digit 1, the year 1945 marked the BEGINNING of new influences, the start of a nine-year cycle which can be molded and formed to provide beneficial opportunities and discoveries, or which can be mutilated and misused to bring about disastrous results. Old influences and cycles were broken off in 1945, while the nucleus of NEW methods was planted. Coming under the "1" influence (found by adding the digits of the year from left to right and reducing to a single number between one and nine), 1945 marked the START of world peace, brought a new president to the White House and a new prime minister to England. But most important, 1945 left the world in awe and wonder over the FIRST use of the overwhelming atom bomb.

It was natural, numerologically, for the great conflict to finally come to an end in 1945. Because of the new cycle (1) influence, the war period could be expected to come to a close. The end was slated to occur during the month which, when added to the year digit, totaled 9—the symbol of finish and completion. August, being the eighth month, totals nine when added to 1945 (1). Thus August, 1945, brought the ending of the second World War.

The next step of the new cycle takes place in 1946. A second conflict will have to be met and defeated—that of providing jobs for the thousands of discharged servicemen and for the many civilians seeking employment in peacetime occupations. Under the second phase (2) conditions should settle down to a steady keel. Tension is lifted, hysteria is left behind. The rush methods and quick-hiring days vanish. A common sense period returns.

If you are to succeed in getting ahead, in connection with a job or anything else, you will have to abide by the keyword of the year: CONSTRUCTIVENESS. You must have something solid to offer, you must break away from any habits of flimsy knowledge or the superficial "know-it-all-in-a-minute" attitude you may have displayed during the past four years.

As a nation, the United States' personal number influence in 1946 will be "4," the digit often associated with solidity, labor, ability and service [the personal year number is found by adding the month and day of birth (July 4th) to the digit of the year (2)]. So the United States will be in harmony with the universal trend. In fact, indications are that our country will be the first to get back to normalcy.

Under the personal number influence of "3" in 1945, conditions were scattered. Labor crises and disagreements galore were the common feature. "4" symbolizes completion via the square. Labor, work, jobs, occupation and employment all keynote America and 1946.

With the second "square," which totals eight and brings about the height of a trend, an agreement will be reached which will bring HARMONY between management and labor. That period or event should arrive during the FOURTH month of the year: April. Therefore, the month of April, 1946, should bring about an understanding, solid and permanent in structure, which will go far toward eliminating much of the source of strikes and inharmonious relations between management and labor.

Combining astrology with the numerical indications, individuals can prepare to fit themselves in with coming employment conditions. Your solar sign, being the engine of the horoscope, can be used to determine how you should apply yourself to the 1946 job situation. Sun signs faring best in the setup will be those coming under even digits: Taurus, Cancer, Virgo, Scorpio and Aquarius. On the whole, people born under the even-digit signs will find it easier to get in the groove and go with the trend. Those born under Aries, Gemini, Leo, Libra, Sagittarius, Capricorn and Pisces will have to apply themselves diligently to their work—they will have to knuckle down and become models of determination and concentration.

If born under ARIES, you will find that your chief difficulty in obtaining or holding a job will be a lack of the "stick-to-it" quality. Saturn, planet of occupation, passed from your Fourth to your Fifth Solar House in October, 1945, suggesting a desire for change. Combining that with the fact that you will be under the numerical influence of "3," we find that jumpiness and lack of appreciation of responsibility loom as your chief hindrances to security in connection with employment. Develop a "staying" quality. Finish what you start. Keep your promises. If you apply yourself to this resolution, opportunity and prestige await you in 1946!

TAURUS-born people are under the same numerical influence as the United States. Thus, if born under this sign, your opportunities are unlimited. The number is "4," and you can prepare to put forth your talents and abilities. This is the year for which you have been waiting. Although your offering may not be flashy, it will be reliable and it will be appreciated. Don't hold back—break away from restrictions. Do what you want to do. Number "9" is on the cusp of your Sixth House and this means that recognition is due. Confidence and self-assurance are the qualities you need to make 1946 a productive and prosperous year!

Employment in new fields of industry come to those born under GEMINI. Your natural desire should be satisfied, as there is every indication that you will be active in developing and selling products that have long been advertised and exploited. Investigation and creative work are shown by the combined influence of "1" and "5." Your dominant digit is "5" (travel, investigation, experimentation); your Sixth House cusp digit is "1" (originality, start, inventiveness). You have but to show a little initiative to make 1946 the year in which to start your climb to achievement and wealth!

As the year progresses, CANCER-born are likely to find that the type of work they are doing is gradually changing. As Saturn moves from your natal Sun, it will become clear that you are working into a new line. Under the dominant digit of "6," you will advance a step in whatever occupation you may be engaged in. Thus the copy boy gets his chance to write; the actor has the opportunity to direct; the salesman becomes a stockholder, and the laborer gets his raise. Exercise patience and apply yourself, keeping in mind the fact that you are slowly but surely advancing!

As Saturn nears their Sun, and they begin to feel the influence of number "7," LEO people are apt to become discouraged, to feel that they are a square in a round hole. The year 1946 becomes a "find yourself" year. You feel out, you test and try. Don't expect big things, at least not immediately. You will want things to start happening, and the indications for your work-year reveal your tide is out. Improvement comes in May, and a peak is reached in November. Shake off anything that resembles a persecution complex. Instead, develop foresight, which will make you realize that any obstacles you have to overcome will only serve to make your position that much stronger once your goal is reached!

Opportunity not only knocks, but the door of success opens for those born under VIRGO. Motivated by the drive and energy of the dominant "8" vibration influence, you come into your own in your work, your hopes and your ideals. The is especially emphatic. Number "4" is on the cusp of your 12th House, and this means that you will be handling detail work, investigation and analysis will be your forte. Your economic cycle is at a peak in 1946. Make the most of it. Maintain your steady outlook in order not only to reach but to keep that sure spot at the top!

LIBRANS should have made a "big push" during the last twelve months, and those born under this sign must maintain a diplomatic attitude. With "9" as your dominant year number, you throw off universal vibrations, and attract the attention of superiors. Your work may be subject to examination, and your mind must be kept open to suggestions for improvement. Saturn in your Tenth House, squared to your Sun, brings criticism. But if you are alert for constructive ideas, you can keep the niche you earned for yourself during the past year. If you discard obstinacy, 1946 and your occupation will combine to bring advancement and recognition!

A new line of work is indicated, if you were born under SCORPIO. Under the dominant influence of "1," you may enter the relatively young fields of aviation or television. Any industry that is in the developing stage is likely to find you in its list of employees. If you are planning any changes, or a start in a new direction, 1946 is the time to put the plan into action. Steady employment during the year is shown by the digit "6" on the cusp of your Sixth Solar House. Make your big move early in the year, and apply yourself, with your Mars-sponsored courage, to be successful. This is your year to shine in the job!

If you belong to the group born when the Sun was in SAGITTARIUS, you are likely to feel that you are in a rut during the first five months of 1946. But come the month of June, and your job-cycle starts to lift. Saturn moves to a trine with your Sun, your digits raise in value, and you find yourself getting ahead. Don't become panic-stricken if minor difficulties seem to block your way early in the new twelve-month period. As the year progresses, you will become adjusted and conditions will become stable. With this fact in mind, carry yourself along, realizing that better things are in store!

Money should flow in your direction, if you were born under CAPRICORN. With "8" on the cusp of your Sixth Sector, there is every indication that you will be well paid in whatever field you choose to undertake. Your dominant digit for the year will be "3," and thus a scattering of forces is natural. Most likely you will start one job and be offered something along a more favorable line. Although you should consider all advancements, you must avoid becoming cocksure and overconfident. Keep your head and take advantage of any opportunities that may present themselves!

AQUARIANS will find restrictions lifting. Saturn leaves your Seventh House. Thus you become free to apply yourself to ideas and to work along lines that appeal to you. "9" is on the cusp of your Sixth House and "4" dominates you for the year. These influences are almost certain to lift a burden that might have been holding you back. Jump into the better-job competition. Your chances are high and there is no doubt about the fact that you will benefit from any effort put forth!

Saturn leaves the trine of the Sun and later in the year enters the Sixth House of those born under PISCES. As a result, you will find responsibilities increasing. The dominant "5" digit gives promise of some sort of creative work, something where you can put a touch of yourself into your efforts. Originate . . . create—those words should keynote your employment year. The digit "1" is on your Sixth House cusp, which reveals that you may enter a unique field of work. Display drive and initiative to make 1946 a high year in your job cycle!

Why I Wrote

THE ZODIAC SUITE

by Mary Lou Williams

CURRENT ASTROLOGY takes pleasure in presenting this exclusive feature by the well-known musician, composer and arranger. Miss Williams, who also rates as one of the top pianists of today, is currently appearing at the Cafe Society Uptown in New York, where the "Zodiac Suite" is making night club history.

EVER since I became acquainted with astrology back in 1931, I have thought of it and utilized it as key to the understanding of my fellow men. It seems to me that anybody who, like myself, gets in contact with a great number of different people, has a special need for that understanding. I have learned that we must know the peculiarities, temperaments, qualities and faults of others if we want to live, work, and be friends with them successfully.

I used to "type" people by their profession, but soon found that this was wrong. There are no set characteristics for "musicians," "businessmen," "entertainers," "composers," and so forth. People are and remain individuals within each occupational group. True, education and background are important influences on man's mind; race and nationality on man's looks. But what about their fundamental characters and their destinies?

I could not help noticing some marked similarities between some of my friends whose schooling, upbringing and experience were entirely different; similarities in disposition, bearing and personality. There are those who are always happy and cheerful and those who are not; those who invariably meet with success and those who don't, regardless of their environment and ability. I could not help feeling—as I'm sure we all do at some time or another—that there was some universal law of nature—some overall system—at work, that divides men into certain groups and molds their characters and fates accordingly.

Astrology, then, with its law of the Zodiac brought me the answer I had been groping for. And because I wanted to express my ideas and feelings about the stars in music, I wrote the "Zodiac Suite," basing each sign on people I know in the creative world. The personalities have been interpreted freely, so that I could achieve the scope and effect I wanted in each case.

For instance, in writing the movement on ARIES, I utilized the characteristics of the two people I felt best typified the mood and personality implied by this sign—Billie Holiday, the songstress, and Ben Webster, the saxophonist. Born under Aries, they are impulsive, changeable and moody.

In writing the musical theme for those born under TAURUS, I introduced creativeness and love of the arts, both traits which dominate the lives of these natives. And what better examples could I select than Taurus-born Duke Ellington and Bing Crosby? I have also tried to portray the stubborn quality of Taureans by beginning and ending the movement with the same theme, to indicate a person that "only changes when forced to do so."

The music for GEMINI is dedicated to two Gemini-born men I have known and admired for years, both of whom are renowned for their versatility in many pursuits—Benny Goodman and Paul Robeson. Band leader and clarinetist Benny Goodman is as well known for his work with symphonic concert orchestras as he is for his own swing band. Paul Robeson is a man who has become famous not only as a great singer, but as actor and world citizen. Both of these outstanding people always seem to be doing "two things at one time," and they struck me as perfect examples of the "dual personality" characteristic of Gemini. And so in my music, I have used two themes, in discord equally balanced.

The composition on CANCER I have dedicated to those who like order, peace and tranquility. Cancer-born Lena Horne, the lovely actress and singer whom I have known a long time, possesses these traits, and my work was modeled after her.

The number on LEO, sign of kings and those "born to rule," is written with the majestic pomp and circumstance it deserves. I have given the opening chords a trumpet-like effect to set the stage for this piece. If you examine history, you will find many leaders born under Leo.

For my VIRGO theme I chose Chappie Willet, arranger for Cab Calloway and Duke Ellington, as typical representative. I introduced flowing rhythms and running chords to suggest the Virgoans, who seem to be intellectual, analytical and methodical people.

The music for LIBRA, the sign of those who love beauty and art, was written in a harmonious and melodic mood. It is meant to identify one of the great American pianists of our time, Art Tatum.

SCORPIO stands for creativeness, intensity and passion. Imogene Coca, the popular comedienne, and Al Lucas, base player with Duke Ellington, are two of the artists born under this sign. The music is set in a strong and forceful pattern to indicate the Scorpio temperament.

SAGITTARIUS governs those who are usually successful, noble and magnanimous, "the young man who sees visions and the old man who dreams dreams." I thought of John Hammond, the wealthy impresario who has done so much for American musicians and music, of Alan Courtney, popular WOV music commentator, and Billy Strayhorn, well-known arranger and composer, in writing about this sign. I set the piece for Sagittarius in a triumphant and varied mood to portray those headed for "success and glory" and made the bars of the music as full and resounding as possible.

CAPRICORN people are generally considered persistent, moody and hard-working. My Capricorn theme is written with a dirge-like, half-hammer beat, and it builds slowly to suggest a deliberate and headstrong personality. Pearl Primus, the dancer, and Frankie Newton, the trumpeter, are wonderful examples of the

Your Personal Problems

by Elizabeth Finn

Dear Miss Finn:

I was born July 16, 1912, and my husband was born June 3, 1913. He is now in the service and our happy marriage seems to be dissolving. Do you think it is due to the war or to other interests?

When I last saw him he seemed to be a different man. He sold the car and took most of the money and now he wants a divorce.

I am not at all happy, he accuses me of things I have not done. Do you think he will change? He never drank much before but since he has been in the army he goes to extremes with it. Now I wonder if our home life will ever be the same again.

Will be watching for your answer in CURRENT ASTROLOGY.—H.C.C., Pennsylvania.

Lacking more accurate data for these charts one can only answer very generally so far as astrology is concerned. There are many fine points of contact between these two charts. Mars in your chart is friendly to Venus in the chart of your husband and this contact always indicates a strong love interest. The Sun, Venus, Neptune stellium in Cancer in your chart may well be in good aspect to the Taurian Moon in your husband's, and that would be a really splendid configuration for mutual interests and harmony between you. It is also possible that your natal Mars afflicts the Moon in his chart and this might cause friction at times.

But the good contacts so far outweigh the few adverse ones, and there is no reason why your marriage should not be successful and lasting.

There is no definite indication of an addiction to drinking in his chart, and it is quite likely he will entirely overcome it as soon as his life returns to normal. You must remember that these men have gone through a great deal and those of us who remain behind must use patience and understanding in dealing with them, even though that attitude may be exceedingly difficult to maintain at times.

Do not agree to a divorce at this time and try to show him that you still love and understand him and his problems, and there is every reason to think you will both weather this storm and find sunny days ahead. Good luck to you both!

Dear Miss Finn:

I wonder if there is anything interesting enough to print in my life or chart.

It seems as if I am always bumping against a blank wall. Could it be my fault? I try very hard to overcome obstacles and work hard but to no avail.

I was born November 5, 1909, about 6:30 a.m. at 40 N and 74 West. I was married March 24, 1934, to a man born August 12, 1902. The marriage was very unhappy for both of us. I divorced him last year. Now I am interested in a man born January 5, 1906. I am sure of him but am not so sure of myself. Sometimes I feel he is the happiness I've been looking for, then again I wonder whether I want him or not.

I want to get out of this uncertainty. Are my planets so mixed up that I cannot do anything about it? Please let me know.—S.F., Worcester, Mass.

My dear lady, planets are never so mixed up that one cannot do anything about it—some of our happiest and most successful people have charts that are filled with squares and oppositions. They have merely learned how to use constructively the energy and strength such aspects generate, and you can do likewise if you wish.

True, your chart is not too easy where marriage or partnership is concerned since Mars, ruling your Ascendant and Sun-sign, is adverse to Venus, ruler of your Seventh House of marriage and partnership. The Ascendant, in case you are unfamiliar with astrological terms, has much to do with yourself personally, and adverse aspects between these two rulers predispose to inharmony in marriage or partnership. At the time of your previous marriage this adverse aspect was being strongly intensified by a parallel of the Progressed Moon to Venus, which brought that planet into prominence with all it indicates in the natal chart, Venus, although in good aspect to Mercury, is adverse to Pluto, and as before stated, adverse to Mars, so that on the whole it was pretty strongly afflicted.

Your husband had Venus afflicting your adverse Uranus-Neptune-Saturn configuration, and this of course was not conducive to mutual understanding or harmony. His Saturn also afflicts your Mercury and his natal Jupiter is adverse to your Sun. If any of these planets happened to rule his Ascendant (which can only be ascertained through the accurate time of birth) or his house of marriage, it would make the adverse indications that much stronger.

The man born January 5, 1906, has Sun afflicting that Uranus-Neptune-Saturn configuration in your chart, and possibly the Moon in his chart is adverse to your natal Sun, so it will be well for you to think carefully before entering into marriage with him. Again, much depends on the actual time of his birth as to the working out of these contacts. But with a chart that shows the possibility of your choosing the wrong man, it behooves you to be extra careful to have as few adverse contacts from chart to chart as possible.

Much also depends on the time of marriage and you must select a period when that adverse Venus-Mars aspect is not being accented in any way. You do have a very helpful trine of progressed Sun to natal Moon in your chart during the balance of 1945 and 1946, and this should help you to get life on a more harmonious basis if you use it properly and work with it. Remember, in the final analysis it is entirely up to you to make the best of your stars' configurations.

This next letter is far too long to print in its entirety although it is a very interesting one. I will give here briefly its most important points:

The date of birth of the daughter is July 26, 1923, at 9:20 a.m., 41 North and 82 West. This girl has suffered many accidents. At seven months she was burned on neck and hand. At nine years of age, she injured her left eye, impairing the sight but not leaving any very noticeable defect.

She is described as a darling young lady loved by all. At twelve, she changed to her stepfather's name. She fell in love with a boy (whose parents disapproved of the match) and changed her religion for his. She quit school and went to his state to live. Finally she broke with him, went back to school and graduated, working part time.

The mother says they had a great deal of trouble over all this and it has never been entirely patched up. Later she met and married a young man born May 21, 1921, who is in the Air Corps. One year later she had a baby son born July 17, 1944, who died a few minutes after birth. Its head was not properly developed.

She seldom writes her parents and seems to have little desire to see them, and the mother wishes to know if she will always be like that "hurting us time after time" as she puts it, and also if she will have a long and happy life with this man and healthy children. The letter comes from Mrs. W. E. S. of Baltimore, Md.

Undoubtedly there are many severe afflictions in this chart, but as so often mentioned, it is frequently the afflicted charts that seem to lead to the greatest success. And that may well be the case of this young girl.

Here we find the Sun in Leo conjoined with Mars and Mercury, the latter two planets very close to the fixed star Ascella, and all squared by Jupiter. Sun rules the Twelfth House, Mars the Eighth, and Jupiter the Fourth. Uranus in and ruling the Sixth House is close to an opposition of the Ascendant and may be closer if the exact time were known (this could only be known closely enough by rectification and we have not enough facts for that process).

Robson says of Mercury conjoined with the North Ascella that it gives power and authority after many difficulties, and of Mars at the same point that it makes one "courageous, just, generous, noble, and gives power and authority." Of course when this is afflicted it also gives trouble with the eyesight and this girl did have that.

The Moon is in the Fourth not far from the cusp of the Fifth and is squared by the ruler of that house, Saturn. This undoubtedly added its influence in the loss of her first-born. Many astrologers also say that Sun afflicted by Mars is one indication of the loss of the first-born.

Venus in Cancer in the Tenth House is opposing the Moon in the Fourth, and Pluto also in the Tenth is square Saturn—so it is quite possible that these afflictions are responsible for the inharmony between her and her parents. But Pluto is trined by the benefic Jupiter (ruler of the Fourth House) and the Moon in the Fourth is sextile Uranus and perhaps trine the Ascendant. All of which would indicate that harmony might be restored if all parties did what they could to restore it. Venus and Moon in the Tenth and Fourth, respectively, and both afflicted by Saturn, suggests that perhaps the parents were a bit too strict with the girl or at least not sympathetic enough.

With her strong Leo stellium including the Sun, and Mercury, ruler of her Ascendant, she would strongly resent undue restraint, and the Moon in Capricorn square Saturn would also have a similar tendency. Without the charts of the parents it is difficult to point out the error or the possible method of overcoming it. But the hints given may prove of value if followed.

There are a number of harmonious contacts between her chart and her husband's. One of the best of these is his Mercury in good aspect to her Saturn and his Saturn friendly to the Moon in her chart which should help her overcome her adverse Moon-Saturn contact.

His Jupiter and Uranus in good aspect to her Jupiter should mitigate the adverse configuration of her Jupiter to the Leo stellium. Thus we see that his chart has good contacts to the two worst configurations in hers, and that is always a very good thing in the charts of married people. Lacking his birth time, we have of course no way of knowing just how these various contacts will work out, but with so many good aspects there is no reason why they should not have a long and happy life together.

Dear Miss Finn:

I have been reading your articles with much interest and wondering if you can help me with my troubles. I was born May 7, 1902, at 12 Noon, 41 N and 74 West, and my husband was born May 29, 1900, about 4:30 a.m. same Latitude and Longitude.

If you find time to make up our charts you will see what a hectic life we have had together. But I'm more than willing to forget the past, which was a succession of gambling, drinking and women, because now that my children are grown I need my husband more than ever. But I wonder what the planets have done to him the past three years. Before, it used to be hard to get sufficient money from him for bare necessities although he always made plenty. Now he never goes out at night, gives me plenty of money and is very affectionate, good to the boys and in every outward action has changed for the better.

But here is my problem: As soon as this outward change for the better took place, he became interested in young girls and upon investigation I find that he is taking them out afternoons when he is supposed to be working, or taking them to lunch and buying gifts for them. Apparently just to show off because he demands nothing from them in return.*** I am afraid one of these girls will fall in love with him as he is very charming, and then there will be trouble. I have reason to believe there is another woman in his life, but when I threatened to leave him, he choked me and said he would kill me before he would let me go.

Can you please explain to me how a man can love two women at once? I'm so befuddled I am going around in circles. He is also very jealous of me. He still gambles but has stopped drinking because it was affecting his health.

Thank you for your patience and if you find time please try to enlighten a weary soul.—Elizabeth E., Long Island.

Letters like this make one wish one had plenty of time and space to go into detail in answering but the best one can do under the circumstances is give a few suggestions.

This man's chart truly shows a dual nature with Sun, Pluto and Neptune in Gemini, and Jupiter and Uranus in Sagittarius, and the Moon in Aries. His Venus is in Cancer and is unpected unless perhaps his exact time would show a square to the Moon. The Moon may also be square Saturn in its own sign the accompanying chart of Man o' War. It should be borne in mind that the more advanced animals are, the more they resemble man, for by intelligence they overcome the group spirit to a large extent and this permits individualization. The horoscopic study of an domestic animal then can perhaps be likened to that of a savage, uncivilized human, except that the domestic animal has the advantage of the aid, example and training of the civilized man that the savage lacks.

MAN O' WAR'S

AN ANALYSIS OF THE CHART

Man o' War, this old veteran of the turf, who will soon celebrate his 29th birthday in contented retirement, was foaled at Lexington, Kentucky, on March 29, 1917, at approximately 6:06 a.m., E.S.T. In the annals of American horse racing, his name stands out above that of all other thoroughbreds.

As a three-year old, he won the Kentucky Derby and then went on to become one of the greatest money winners the equestrian sport has ever known. Inch for inch and pound for pound, he lead the field in victory after victory. Even such famous nags as the legendary Dan Patch, the modern Sea Biscuit, or Whirlaway, are confessedly not in his class, because they all come short of his versatility. Not only was he famed for his speed, intelligence, and showmanship, but for a flaming courage that never acknowledged defeat. He exceeded the highest expectations

SINCE there is nothing rarer than the horoscope of a race horse, it will no doubt be interesting to students of the stellar science to examine of his breeder, and has earned for his owner more than was spent on him.

Man o' War's chart unfailingly shows the reasons for his successful career, his meteoric rise to fame and his money earning ability. Let us look at it.

There are six conjunctions in the First House between Venus, Mars, Mercury, and the Sun, all of them falling in the intercepted sign of Aries. The Venus-Mars conjunction so close to the Ascendant describes Man o' War's coloring perfectly. It gave him that chestnut-red cast of coat which breeders call bay. It further endowed him with strength, competitive spirit, courage and beauty beside that high-spiritedness typical of all true thoroughbreds. Venus, ruler of the Second, conjunct Mars, co-ruler of the First, added the element of luck, magnetic attraction, and money earning ability. The Mercury-Sun conjunction gave Man o' War his strong constitution, intelligence, long life, honors and dignities; it also shows a peaceful old age. The exaltation of the Sun in Aries in the First House is one of the high lights of this horoscope, and its trine to the cusp of the Sixth House is a certain indication of a long useful life.

Jupiter, the great benefic, ruler of the Tenth House, the career, is posited in the Second House. No better position could be found for it than this, since here the subject reaps a bounteous reward for his efforts. It is a glorious sign of wealth springing from personal attainment. Note also that the sign on the cusp of the Tenth House is Sagittarius, the centaur, half-horse and half-man.

The Moon's North Node in the Tenth augurs well for further honor and high position. Neptune, Lord of the Ascendant,

HOROSCOPE

OF THE FAMOUS RACE HORSE

is posited in the Fifth House of sports and speculation, trine Venus, Mars, Mercury and the Sun in the First.

Pars Fortuna which concerns wealth primarily is situated in the Third House in Gemini. Its dispositor, Mercury, is sextile to it, semi-sextile Jupiter, and trine Neptune, in addition to being conjunct Venus, ruler of the Second. It is easy to understand why Man o' War was one of the greatest money winners of sports.

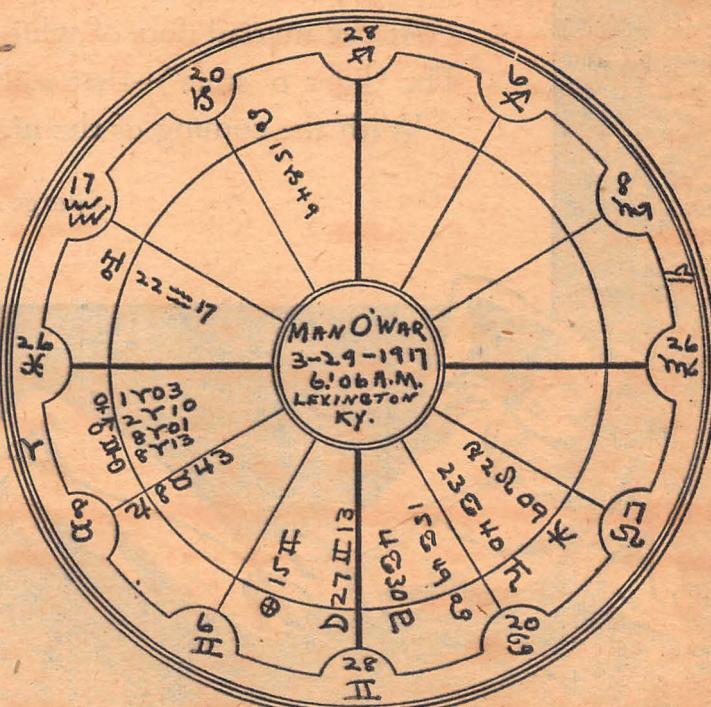

The Moon in Gemini in the third indicates the public's interest in the race horse, for by this configuration speed and swiftness is denoted. The trine to Uranus, although one of separation, implies unexpected surprises, and certainly the public was provided with a good many of them by this great thoroughbred.

Pluto in the Fourth, sextile to Jupiter, shows a natural death. The square between this planet and the Aries stellium in the first is one of the few bad setups apparent and these relate principally to health conditions involving the head and stomach. The only other aspect which is negative is the square between Neptune and Jupiter. This can be interpreted to mean setbacks for gambling gentry and not always 'an o' War and consequently sometimes suffered grievous losses. The retrograde Neptune alone would more or less lead to this conclusion but the square-intensifies it.

As we have just seen the interpretation of the various houses is just as applicable to the higher animals as men, because they, like ourselves, have individual characteristics, such as personal temperament, particular talents, money earning ability, or diseases. We have only to remember that they are limited by nature in their progress while we are unlimited in any direction. Judged in the light of its limitations, animal horoscopy is a most fascinating subject, in which we ought not to err.

The Star Gazer

Gone is the heat and toil of day
And now night shadows fall.
Unable to resist the lure
I answer to their call.
The call of stars—whose mystic light
Seems to soothe my weary brain,
And fills me with a strange delight
That eases earthly pain.
So I lay me down and gaze aloft
At the myriad dots of white—
The “light o’ stars”—that calls to me
With the coming of the night.

For January, February and March

Capricorn Eclipse

January 3rd, 7:27 a.m. E.S.T.

THE salient factor of this stellar map is the close conjunction of Sun and Moon with the Ascendant in the second decan of Capricorn.

The First House rules the personal self of the American people. This conjunction indicates that events occurring during this lunary month are apt to impress their importance on the American consciousness. We may expect some sensational news to stir the emotional lethargy of Mr. and Mrs. Average American.

Capricorn rules the Antipodes, here falling on the First Cusp. Countries of the Antipodes, therefore, are likely to be pushed into the limelight. The Ninth Mansion which is associated with foreign lands, lodges two planets: Neptune, ruling Brazil, and Jupiter in Libra, signifying Argentina. Both these orbs are afflicted—Mars afflicts Jupiter and Neptune afflicts Venus, which indicates continuing internal unrest in these Latin American republics.

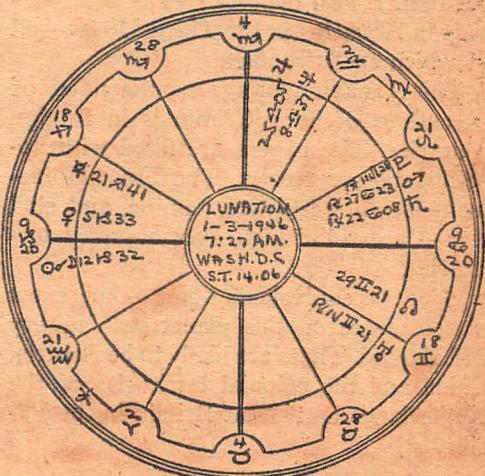

The Supreme Executive of the United States enters into this picture. The ruler of the Tenth Mansion (President Truman) is in aspect to Argentina's Zodiacial sign, Libra. There is little doubt that he will function as negotiator. His attitude is apt to be relentless and his terms severe. He may even threaten with sharp retaliations as regards our commercial patronage of Argentine products. In short, Uncle Sam is likely to show very little patience with the Argentines. Indications are that political sedition and demagogue agitation will make that country a hotbed of Fascist propaganda (Mars squares Jupiter).

However, the aspects surrounding Brazil are rather gentle and conciliatory. Venus in Capricorn in the Twelfth Mansion (the natural House for Brazil) tempers tone and attitude on the part of our diplomats when dealing with this largest country of South America.

The geographical position of Brazil explains these friendly tactics. It lies along the Equator (Amazon River) and stretches toward the Tropics of Capricorn. A lot of American capital has been invested in this sector of South America during the years of the War. Rubber plantations have sprung up like mushrooms south of the Amazon, where once snake-and-bug-infested jungles presented malaria beds for white men. Many other industrial developments in Brazil have swallowed Yankee money. It is therefore imperative that our diplomats do all in their power to safeguard American investments there.

A tremor on the New York Stock Exchange is likely to be felt this month with a severe drop in stock and bond values. This downward trend may assume the proportion of a slight panic. Mercury rules the Mansion of Speculation (Fifth House) and Uranus, the ruler of the Second House (people's money) is posited in the Fifth. Both these planets are in opposition to each other. This indicates that the "small fry" are due for severe losses.

The interception of Pisces in the Second House corroborates our previous statement that American interests in distant lands will be in danger. A sharp downward reaction on home finances is apt to be the consequence.

President Truman's ruler is well aspected in this chart. His decisions and actions are marked by practical vision. Yet, his foreign policy is likely to be more successful than his intervention in problems arising from American Labor demands. In all likelihood, the strike rate will still be high. Transportation may be seriously affected and food supply to metropolitan cities handicapped.

Aquarius Lunation

February 2nd, 1:37 a.m. E.S.T.

A sinister undertone marks this Lunation. To begin with, Scorpio, a fixed sign, occupies the First Cusp. This indicates a sullen, hostile stubbornness in the mental attitude of the public. Then, too, the co-ruler of Scorpio, Pluto, is retrograding and involved in the Lunation by direct opposition. It also opposes Venus and Mercury in Aquarius in the Third House—all of which spells conflict.

This Lunation brings us the news of executions of War Criminals in foreign countries. The papers are filled with appalling horror stories. The Four Horsemen—death, pestilence, famine, and civil war—are ridin' high over occupied territories.

Geodetic equivalents point to the exact places where on this planet such misery will abound. These are likely to be Austria, China and the colonial territories of the Netherlands and Great Britain in the Pacific.

Civil war may be ravaging China. The Comintern has always cast covetous glances on this fat morsel of Asia. Neptune, the natural ruler of Communism, is hovering over Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-shek's natal Libra planets (Sun included). He may not be able to cope with the situation and resort to clandestine alliances. This is corroborated by the evil square of Mars and Saturn in Cancer to China's Zodiacial sign, Libra.

In Europe, too, a drifting to the Left is shown practically everywhere. Austria may follow Hungary's example and become a Russian satellite.

The astrological signifiers of Russia itself are triumphant this lunary month. Aquarius rules this country, and we find the dispositor of the Lunation, Uranus in Gemini, in friendly aspect to all these Aquarius planets: Venus, Sun, Moon and Mercury.

Besides making great strides in her political propaganda in conquered countries, Russia may reach out for outlets on the North Sea, which she has wanted for centuries. Her dream of a first class Naval power may now come true. Norway may be in this picture, for Scorpio, its ruler, tenants the First House.

Mars rules the Lunation chart, and is situated in the Eighth Mansion, which is the natural house for Scorpio. An epidemic of a peculiar character, or a treacherous disease difficult to diagnose, may be taking a large toll of human lives.

Schools may be closed in various sectors of the U.S.A. because of illness, while legislature affecting reduced taxation should come as a relief after years of burdensome taxes.

Pisces Lunation

March 3rd, 1:54 p.m. E.S.T.

Strength is the keynote of this stellar map, for the Ascendant's ruler (Moon) is an important factor in the Lunation, while the Sun rules the Second Mansion, that of finance.

Pluto, planet of sedition, rises in Leo. This first glimpse at the map may seem negative. But when examining all other

HOLLYWOOD STARS

Born Under Capricorn, Aquarius and Pisces

by Blanca Holmes

IN HOLLYWOOD, the sign Capricorn has rulership over the Columbia Pictures Corporation, and many actresses and actors born under this sign have worked for this company. But one runs into many of Saturn's children also on the Paramount lot, which is ruled by the opposite sign, Cancer, and by reflex action has attracted Capricornians to its payrolls. Capricorn-born Marlene Dietrich and Ruth Chatterton, for instance, were for a long time leading ladies for Paramount.

Also working for this company for some time was a young up-and-coming actress, SHIRLEY ROSS. Her chart is given here: she was born on January 7, 1913, at 8 a.m., in Omaha, Nebraska. Shirley sings very well, has a lively personality, and was co-starred with Bob Hope in one of his first successful pictures at the beginning of his Paramount contract. Together they introduced the song, "Thanks for the Memory" which Bob has used for so long as his theme on his radio show.

Shirley has the planetary setup we find so often in those drawn to films and radio. The Twelfth House rules motion pictures and has a strong influence on radio. Radio's ruler is actually the Eleventh House and Aquarius, but television seems to push it more behind the scenes and into the Twelfth. And in Shirley's case, we find Mars, ruler of her Tenth House (occupation) posited in the Twelfth, besieged by Mercury and Jupiter. Mars furthermore is in the double-bodied sign of Sagittarius, and Shirley does both film and radio work, though lately she has been leaning more and more toward radio.

The Twelfth House sign, Pisces, ruling screen and radio, is on the cusp of her Second (money, earnings, income). The ruler of her Second is Neptune, placed in the Seventh in Cancer—a public angle, conjuncting the Fixed Star Procyon. Her exalted Neptune, a water planet in a water sign, opposing the Moon (another water planet) in addition to Sun and Uranus, has made her earnings fluctuate. However, Neptune has a steady sextile to her Saturn in the Fourth, in the fixed sign of Taurus, and Shirley seems to work out her finances favorably in the end.

Republic

As there are only three degrees of Gemini and eighteen degrees of Cancer in the Sixth, the Moon dominates this mansion, the house of work. This, too, has intensified the fluctuation of her career. But the Moon, symbolizing masses, has drawn her before the public.

Her great ambition is exemplified by the fact that seven planets are rising—three in Capricorn, a sign that usually lifts the native above the sphere in which he or she moves. Shirley is continually studying to improve her diction, delivery, and voice projection.

Mercury conjunct Mars in the fiery sign of Sagittarius adds to her mental alertness—she has a remarkable sense of timing, so important in radio where things are said and done to the split second. Mercury also conjoins her Jupiter, which accounts for her good memory for lines.

With Saturn, ruler of the chart, in the Fourth, there is a strong inclination in her nature to retire and devote herself to her home and family. Undoubtedly she will eventually do this but we hope not too soon for Jupiter in Scorpio late in 1946 and 1947 will transit her Midheaven, and then pass through her Tenth House. This transit very often proves a high point in an actress' career.

Unlike other stars who have made the transition from films to radio, she did not make the change under the usual aspects. With many actors, the opportunity to try the microphone comes when transiting Uranus, ruling, among other things, radio and change, enters the Second House of earnings. Or often this change is made when Uranus transits the Sixth House (work) or the Tenth (profession). In Shirley's particular case, Uranus transited over her ruler, Saturn, when she switched to radio. She has worked steadily and profitably in that field since.

PERHAPS no other actor has attracted and held the attention of the general public more than CLARK GABLE. Unlike some of the former so-called "great-lover" types, Clark has as many admirers in men as in women.

If you will glance at his horoscope given here, you will notice the Sun in Aquarius conjunct Mercury. The ancients put a great deal in this Sun-Mercury conjunction, saying that it was conducive to fame.

Scorpio, that powerful and resourceful sign is rising, and the self-confident way Clark walks across a room, the penetrating eye, attest to Mars, its ruler. That ruler is in the Tenth, the House of occupation, and actors with Mars in the Tenth usually excel in roles where a uniform is employed. But one of Clark's biggest successes, as we all know, was his real-life role in the Army Air Corps, where he enlisted at the beginning of the war and emerged a Major.

Fixed stars often conjoin the luminaries in prominent actors' charts. In this horoscope, notice the Moon in its own sign conjunct to Sirius, 12 degrees, 59 minutes in Cancer, first magnitude, nature Jupiter-Mars. This star is associated with animals, dogs, large herds of horses, as well as falls, long journeys and tragedy. The planet conjoining it here is the Moon (in Ninth House), which rules a man's wife. And Clark's last wife, the late Carole Lombard, lost her life in an airplane crash when returning from a Bond lecture in her home town.

Clark's chart, on the whole, does not follow the familiar pattern of that of a movie actor. Although Leo, the sign ruling the drama, is on the cusp of his Tenth House, its ruler, the Sun, is not in the Twelfth or Fifth, but in the Third, a house related to speech. And it should be remembered that it was during the transition from the silents to the talkies, when a good resonant voice and fair diction were responsible for getting actors good parts, that Clark came to Los Angeles, in a legitimate play called, "The Last Mile." He played a Twelfth House character, a man condemned to die. During the run of the play Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made a test of him, and he was signed and scored an immediate success with his first picture. His personality was novel; unlike the other male stars, he was relaxed, debonair, natural and strongly masculine.

Jupiter in his Second House guarantees him a good earning capacity—he is in fact one of our highest paid actors. But with three planets in Capricorn, including Saturn, and his ruler in an earthy sign, he is one of the few who does not throw his money around.

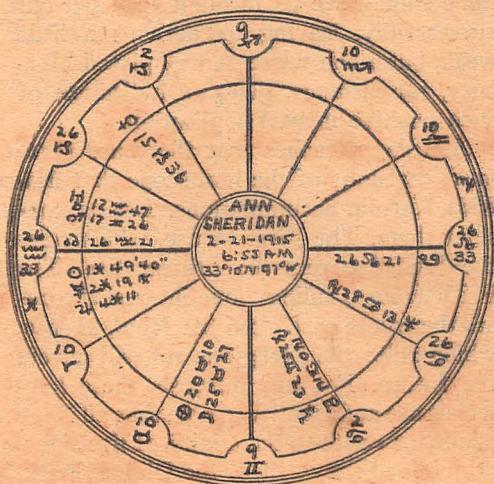

It is not often the case that one finds a figure of world acclaim with the majority of planets under the horizon, though it does happen now and then. Clark's personal way of living, his desire to avoid the crowds and the clatter of public life, is a result of this planetary pattern.

ANN SHERIDAN is one of those born under the sign which rules the movies—Pisces. She was born on February 21, 1915, at 6:55 a.m., in Denton, Texas.

Note the ruler of Ann's Tenth, Jupiter, in the Twelfth House sign, Pisces. As mentioned before, often a Fixed Star is found conjunct one of the luminaries in actors' charts, and here we see the Sun,

ACCUMULATING KARMA

By H. A. Norman

IN our last article we dealt with the manner of overcoming Karma. But in order to overcome, one must understand just what Karma is, and how it is accumulated. This is where the personal horoscope becomes a necessary document in determining past and present errors. And inasmuch as a combination of these two produces the pattern for our future lives, it behooves all of us to study our cosmic blueprint, in order that we may prepare the way for harmony in our relationships and experiences.

There is a mistaken idea that all Karma is bad, and that the term is something to dread. If it were not for our mistakes, how would we be able to progress at all? Some entities return to earth for the express purpose of undergoing certain experiences that will enable them to advance more rapidly. These earth experiences are indelibly sketched on the soul-structure, and they come to the surface of our consciousness through what is called the inner voice of conscience. Then again, a soul who has advanced fairly satisfactorily along the spiral of human evolution, comes under the jurisdiction of the "Great Ones," those who guide the human race to perfection, and if it is seen necessary, then more severe earth tests are given these souls. The tests, or "initiations" are very necessary for those selected for leading roles in future incarnations, because inability to control present problems can hardly warrant higher consideration in the cosmic scheme.

From the astrological viewpoint, the natal chart merely gives the negations to be experienced and overcome. It is the negative attitude of the individual that actually produces the Karmic responsibilities. This is why the birth chart is so important as a plan of life. It enables man to control his "stars," and while it is impossible to avoid meeting the obligations already accumulated, it is possible to condition them in harmony with the Cosmic Law.

It is because the average individual has no knowledge of the laws governing his being that he succumbs to the negative vibrations surrounding him, thus producing reactive measures resulting in additional Karma. This is negative Karma, while self-imposed limitations, relating to past negations, can be termed positive Karma, for they are a voluntary step in the right direction.

Thus, in order to secure future harmony and happiness we must commence right where we stand at this moment of time, and, in relationship with our personal nativities, direct our thoughts and actions in a positive manner. This, however, is easier said than done, since it is human to slip back ever so often, especially when powerful progressed or transitory aspects touch off a sensitive point in the chart. But the necessary amount of will-power and positive affirmations should see us through such periods successfully, leaving us perhaps a little weak, but much wiser. A well placed Mercury, for instance, gives an indication of such positive mental application.

Astrology teaches that there are three main divisions of the horoscope that deal with Karmic accumulations. Let us consider them. The First House, which rules the "self," covers the present life. The Fifth House, ruling "love interests," covers the whole past. And the Ninth House, which rules the "religious urges," covers the future. For our purpose, these keywords are sufficient. We note that all three mansions relate to the trinity of fire signs, symbolic of the spirit, or the Divine Spark, commonly called Life, which is immortal.

Relating these three divisions, or houses, to the Twelfth, or Karmic House, we arrive at the following reasoning. As the Twelfth House indicates the immediate past, and reveals the sorrows and limitations destined to be experienced by us in the present (First), so does the Fifth House indicate the total accumulation of Karma accrued since the birth of the spirit. Finally, the Ninth House indicates future possibilities and several directions of spiritual expression. With the Twelfth, the Ninth is the real key to the birth chart. The former reveals what one has been, and the latter reveals what one can become. Each planet, each sign, has both a positive and a negative influence.

So that we may be able to follow this reasoning, let us examine the horoscope below, which is an average chart and will serve merely as test case here. This native, whom we shall call Mrs. X, was obsessed with a "fear," without knowing of what or why. She explained it as, "just a fear of something that may happen, but I do not know what could. If I knew, it would be easier."

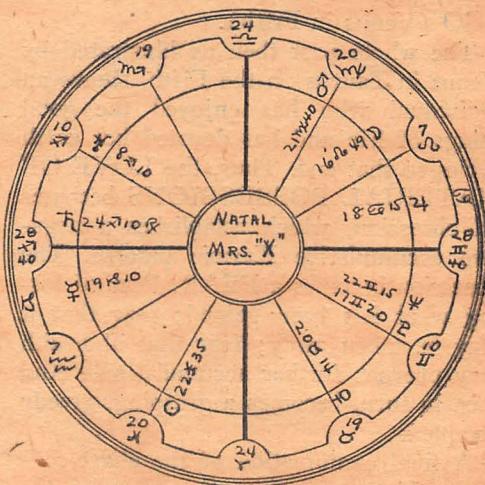

At first glance we find the chart revealing average qualifications. Mrs. X is a sensitive, generous soul, honest, philosophic, with strong religious convictions. The planets are well distributed, and although there is no strength from the angles, Venus is well placed; the Cardinal points of the Cross bear fire and air signs, denoting spiritual qualities, and ascension through rarefied ethers in inspirational meditation. Venus in the Fifth indicates a lovable nature, fond of good things, pleasures, and children. As a matter of fact this native was a children's nurse until health matters forced her to retire. But still there is this "fear."

On the cusp of her Twelfth, the sign of Sagittarius holds dominion. This sign also extends over her Ascendant, which means that Karmic accumulations of the past have been carried over into this life, and similar experiences are to be expected. There are two planets in Sagittarius. Uranus, posited in the Eleventh, and Saturn, posited in the Twelfth. The sign Sagittarius being the ninth sign of the natural Zodiac, denotes, among other things, interest in religion, travel, horses, prayers and omens. We deduce therefore that this native was interested in, or connected with, these matters in her past.

Her present life confirms this, for she was very fond of horses in her youth, and used to ride them. Her Sunday school teaching, and her yearning for spiritual understanding, were also characteristics of prominence.

Returning to the Twelfth, we note that the tenth degree holds the cusp. This places the second decan in power. Aries rules this section of Sagittarius, and Aries is located on the cusp of the Fourth House. Aries rules the head, and the Fourth rules the home. With Mars, the ruler of Aries, in Virgo, we infer that this native liked to rule in the home, and that criticism and fault-finding were her chief failings. Mars opposing Sun would indicate that she resented opposition from partner, and imposed her own will in matters pertaining to family and possessions. Mars is square to Saturn, which denotes an intense possessiveness, a desire to accumulate wealth not only in real estate, stocks, bonds, but also in the collection of such things as bric-a-brac and souvenirs. Mars trined by Venus from Taurus symbolizes the love of these things, and the further trine of Mercury to Venus indicates thoughts and will-power directed towards their possession.

All this points towards the assumption that she was a dealer and collector in her past life. Sagittarius on the cusp of the Twelfth, and Jupiter ruling in a positive sign would suggest that she was in a male body in that life. The opposition of Jupiter to Saturn in the Twelfth confirms the findings deduced from the above relationships. Jupiter, the planet of wealth and increase, is an expansive, extravagant ray. An opposition forms a partnership, or union aspect, and as Saturn rules properties and antiques, it reveals here a strong desire (Gemini—mind) to accumulate (Jupiter) wealth, through collecting all forms of valuable items (Saturn), both distant (Mars in Ninth square Saturn), and domestic (Aries on Fourth, Mars ruler).

Thus we see both sides of the character. The key-word for this expression of SELF is GREED. The former key, found by the Mars-Aries position is CRITICAL. And yet apart from these expressions of SELF, there was a generous and loving impulse. Psychologically this too was based on the "possessiveness" complex. Her children, as part of her possessions, were given everything they wanted so that they could display the wealth of the family outwardly, which, again, gave the desired satisfaction to the EGO (Venus in Fifth).

The whole past then as illustrated by Venus in Taurus on the Fifth, shows an individual who has enjoyed the good things of life and has devoted her earth cycles to that end. Thus, the LOVE OF MATERIAL POSSESSIONS becomes an obsession, which establishes a negative accumulative Karmic pattern. The obsession becomes a FEAR. Fear of losing what has been gained; fear that it may be taken away; fear that ill health may prevent further accumulations. And this, in turn, becomes a grasping, greedy complex.

A final examination of the chart confirms this assumption. Saturn rules the Twelfth House, by right of possession. It is conjunct the Ascendant, Capricorn, intercepted in the First, indicates restrictions of Saturn accumulations.

Mercury in Capricorn shows that the mind is still subconsciously seeking its former outlets. The present "fear" is therefore produced from the subconscious, as the mind seeks recognition of that which it has lost. As the conscious mind cannot recapitulate the associations of the past, it turns inward. The soul remembers, and strives to release its knowledge. Hence the struggle between the two becomes locked within the soul structure. Its reflex action produces the "Fear of the Unknown." Saturn trine to Moon releases emotional outbursts based on this inner fear. Eventually the health was affected, and finally a release brought about through transition, when Saturn, her Karmic planet, entered Cancer, and her Eighth House.

After Mrs. X had read her analysis, she remarked, "You know, it's a funny thing, but ever since I was a child I have striven to establish an estate for my old age. I was always afraid that I would not be able to accomplish that. Now I can see why." And, incidentally, this lady had her house filled with ornaments, curios and knick-knacks. She was critical with her husband and children, although very fond of people generally.

From the method of analyzing the house connected with Karmic accumulations, a very enlightening and instructive pattern is revealed. The next incarnation is indicated by the Ninth House, for this then becomes the "Present." Thus do we reap what we have sown. In the case of the nativity just studied, Virgo, with Mars therein, becomes the Ascendant, starting a cycle of overcoming criticism, sarcasm, and fault-finding. Action (Mars) can then be directed towards constructive service (Virgo). The main consideration derived from this study is the fact that this native overcame her fear, before passing on, and realized that material possessions are but a loan on this earth plane and therefore of little value.

Stars AND Gongs

The Language of The Temple Gongs

by Nesta Kerin Crain

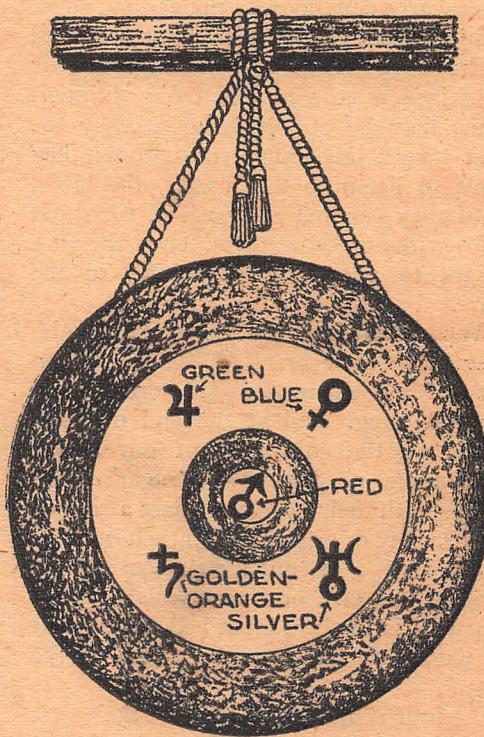

MENTION gongs to most people and they immediately think of those pretty little brass dinner gongs that come in teak stands and are found on buffet tables. But these are not the subject of this article. The gongs referred to here are the beautiful, resonant, deep-toned temple gongs made in the Far East.

Just as the American Indians and African natives have a language of their drums with which they can communicate from one tribe to another, so, too, do "the Brothers" in the Temples communicate with each other through the language of their gongs.

Gong making is a sacred art and part of a religious training in certain parts of India, Tibet, Egypt and China, and there are all kinds, shapes, and sizes of them.

To the Oriental, color, tone, vibration and rhythm mean a great deal. We of the West are only just beginning to learn something of color and music therapy. We are only on the fringe of knowledge that the "Wise Men" of the East have known and practiced for centuries. The day is past for us to laugh at things we do not understand. Our education has been sorely neglected in more ways than one; one, in particular—respect for another man's customs and religion. We are so long on knowledge and so short on wisdom.

Gongs are made and used, not only for healing human ailments but the ailments of the Earth and Nature. As a matter of fact, gongs are part of the great religion-science of the White Brotherhood and used in the healing of the abyssal damage and injury done to Mother Earth by so many thousands—millions of tons of dynamite and ammunition that has been dropped on her. In the underground temples where the ceremonies of the gongs take place, the healing ripples of music and sound permeate the mortally wounded Earth, helping to hold it together and to avert cataclysm and disaster.

The White Brotherhood believes that, if man would only desist in his downward course and find a way to maintain peace on Earth, it would not be too late to fore-stall the materialization of the predestined prophecies. Incidentally, one theory for the increase of electric storms—and it is indeed rare to have them as frequently as we had them last summer—is that the Earth is being so depleted by man that nature has to recharge it with magnetic and electric forces.

You are probably wondering what all this has to do with the stars. Since ancient times, in certain parts of the Far East, prospective priests have been taught from early childhood to understand these things as part of the training for gong and bell making. They are chosen for their sensitiveness to tone and color vibration when they are still little boys. They are first taught the sounds of nature; they learn to listen to the insects, the birds, until they can tell their name, tone and color without seeing them. Then they are taught to recognize the sounds of the stars.

When these boys are thirteen years old, they make their first bell. They have to make a bell before they are permitted to make a gong. And at the end of what would be the equivalent of our school graduation, all the children gather together with their bells and enact a sort of Nature play or pageant, with each of them dressed in a costume representing the tone of the bird or insect which he has imparted in his bell. That bell concert can be likened in effect to the music of the forest.

At fourteen, these boys make their first temple gong, the round flat, cake-shaped kind. Gongs are made of brass, copper or bronze, and it takes days, weeks and sometimes months to create them. The priest puts his very heart and soul into his art; he pours love into every hammer-beat. This love vibration comes out in its resonant tones. Everything about a gong is blessed: the metals, the oils and the tools used. At twenty-one years of age, the young man is initiated into the temple. He takes the gong into which he has imparted his own tone—the note of the human voice—along.

Many of the temple gongs are made under the vibration of the stars and incorporate the tone and color of a particular planet. They are called "Bowl of Heaven" gongs, because they sing the music of the spheres and bring a message from the heavenly bodies.

For example, I have in my collection a bronze Moon gong. It is one of the first temple gongs made by the young priests for their initiation on their twenty-first birthday. There is a complicated ritual that goes with the making of such a gong, which I shall not go into here. But I would like to give you its high lights.

The young initiate takes the materials of which he is going to make his gong, and sits out in the open at night, under the stars. He moulds the metal under the light of the Moon, chanting softly as he does so. All temple gongs have many different tones, depending upon where they are struck. The Moon gong has, besides its own tone and the tone of its maker, five planetary tones. They are Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Mars. Those who understand astrology know what these planets represent. To the young priest, the stars are emissaries of divinity. Each has its own particular message or lesson for God's Earth children.

And so the priest offers a prayer of thanks to the Creator of all things for his blessings, including a sound mind, a healthy body and the privilege of serving his fellow-men. He first meditates under the planet Jupiter, the sign of the philosopher, religion, wisdom. He prays for Jupiter to shed his light on him, to give him wisdom and the ability to judge wisely in all things. And while he prays he draws down through the rays the planet's color and tone and imparts them to the gong. Then he meditates on Venus (the inner nature of the male), to keep harmony and love in his heart, that his thoughts may always be loving ones for the entire world, and he imparts the tone and color of Venus to another part of the gong.

Next comes Saturn, sign of the thinker,

What It Takes

Dear Miss Adams:

Have I any ability to become a Numerologer? I was born July 7, 1920, and am very interested in the subject. I have a job as a bookkeeper now. I like it fairly well, but sometimes it is hard for me to concentrate on it. Does this mean that I am not suited to this occupation?—I.R.S., Ill.

• A question like yours should be answered by your Birthpath, since this is your most important vibration—the only one that cannot be changed. You can alter your name as often as you want, but you cannot change the time of your birth by even an hour. Your Birthpath, July 7, 1920, equals  $7+7+3$  or 8. This a good vibration for a bookkeeper, but since "8" is an executive number, you are fitted for much more important work, the kind that requires initiative and leadership.

The reason why it is hard for you to concentrate is that your work does not hold your interest. Bookkeeping involves too much routine and handling of details for a person who has an "8" Birthpath. You would make an excellent Numerologer, and would find this study so interesting that you would never have any trouble in concentrating.

One-Sided Love

Dear Miss Adams:

I take care of an old lady who rents a room in her house to a fine gentleman. To my misfortune I find I am desperately in love with him. He has been very lovely to me, and seems to care for me. But, living in the same house, he does not want to take me places. He drinks a lot and to my surprise I find he has another lady friend he visits, sends flowers and gives a lot of attention.

I am so anxious for a home and all the nice things that go with it! What is your advice? His birthday is  $3+3+8$  or 5 and mine is  $3+7+2$  or 3. I am unhappy all the time because I do want a home of my own. I have been married twice.—F.M.A., Ohio.

• Your would-be gentleman friend is nothing but a trifler, and I am afraid the "love" is all one-sided. The very fact that he does not take you out or shows any attention proves that he has no intention of marrying you. And the fact that he is showing attention to another woman indicates that he is a double-faced deceiver. His Birthday ("5"), along with other indications, shows that he would not be true to any woman.

You are restless and changeable and your letter is full of evidence that you lack analytical ability and clear thinking. You ought to run from a man that drinks as you would from the plague. He is amusing himself at your expense. I am sorry to say that you are too changeable to be "desperately in love" with him.

He is not a "fine" man and you know it. You are fickle and he is more or less a selfish woman chaser and enjoys having you in love with him. He is probably "laughing up his sleeve" at you. If you go on this way you may find his attentions and interests are more physical than "gentlemanly." Two marriages should have taught you something, but in your desire for "nice things" you are heading for another divorce, even if you can get him to marry you, which I doubt. Think this over and do try to cultivate your common sense and not these foolish dreams.

Schoolmates Not Marital Partners

Dear Miss Adams:

Enclosed you will find two birth dates—those of my son and his girl friend. He went to school with her. A few years have passed and he is at present in the Navy. The girl is at home, working now and then. Tell me if you think they would be happy if they married. He was born  $4+2+8$  or 5 and she born  $11+3+7$  or 8. I have always felt she was a Scorpio.—Mrs. B.K., La.

● The first step is to find out how the Birthpaths of those two young people harmonize. The boy, now twenty years old, has a Birthpath of "5." The girl's Birthpath is "8," and her age is twenty-one.

The boy's Birthpath of "5" shows that he is restless, unsettled, always wanting new experiences.

The vowels of his full name are  $22+10=5$ . He is extremely independent; can be led but never bossed. His total name is "3," showing that he is changeable and inclined to be fickle.

You did not tell me the girl's last name but her first name shows vowels "7" and total "11." Now if she marries and takes his last name, her vowels will be "8"; her consonants "6"; and her total "5" (Destiny).

Thus we see that while their Destiny vibrations are harmonious ("3" and "5") the attraction will be largely physical. Her talents ("8") are not in harmony with his talents ("5"); and her Birthpath ("8") is out of harmony with his Birthpath ("5").

With her talents and Birthpath both "8," she will be dominating; and he will not stand being dominated. His talents and Birthpath are both "5"—unstable, changeable, flighty. He is Aries-born; she is Scorpio, and a Scorpio wife is usually not a good home-maker. After the first physical attraction has worn off, there will be no mental or spiritual harmony and they will get on each other's nerves to the point where they will go their own ways. No, I do not think these two could make a permanent and happy marriage.

Music in Her Soul

Dear Miss Adams:

I was born on November 27, 1921. Am a stenographer, but would like very much to be a singer or an actress. Have done a little work in these fields and have also studied dress designing. Can you tell me which one of these fields has the best future for me?—M. A. J., Honolulu.

● You are a young lady with music in your soul; and, as Shakespeare says,

"moved by concord of sweet sounds." Your Birthpath is excellent for public singing or speaking. Your talents seem to form a combination for success. Singing demands some dramatic ability; and dress designing will enable you to wear clothes that will add to your magnetic appeal.

A Scorpio Husband

Dear Miss Adams:

I know I'll get a straightforward reply to my problem. Maybe if I knew my own hidden power I could hold my husband. We get along nicely while together, but once out of my sight he does not seem to care for me any more. We were married in January, 1943, and he was 23 and I was 33. He was born November 2, 1920 ( $11+2+3=7$ ).—Mrs. D. B., Seattle, Wash.

● I am afraid you have a problem that can only be solved by great efforts at self-control, both on your part and on that of your husband. Let us analyze the situation and see what you are up against. You were born July 4, 1910, ( $7+4+11=11+11=22=4$ ). This makes you very masterful and much given to routine and system; with your Sun in Cancer you are domestic and home loving, but somewhat dominating. Your husband was born November 2nd, and he is ten years younger than you are. He was born in Scorpio, a strongly sexed sign, one which makes the native restless, and anxious for new experiences. His Birthpath reduces to  $16=7$ —a difficult one to handle. But it is also an  $11/5$  which shows that he is very changeable and strongly sexed.

There is the difference in your ages. A woman of 35 is fully mature and experienced. A man of 25 is usually a mere boy as far as worldly wisdom, self-control and stability is concerned, and is at an age and mental development when an older woman appeals to him. He still wants to be "mothered" although he probably does not realize it, and a domestic Cancer woman with a Birthpath of "4," is exactly the sort to do it. Note, too, his Birthpath is a wandering, changeable "5"; yours is a dependable, stable "4." There is not much hope of achieving permanent harmony between a "5" and a "4." You can do your best to adjust yourself and try to cooperate with his "5" nature, but it is an almost impossible undertaking.

In addition to all this, his Birthpath not only is an 11/5 but a 16/7, which vibration almost always denotes marital unhappiness. It would not matter to whom your husband was married; he would never be a hundred per cent satisfied. His sex life is very important to him. When he is with you, this side of his nature is satisfied. He craves good things and Cancer women are usually good cooks; he craves comforts, and you are undoubtedly a good home-maker.

But when your husband is away from you, he craves the excitement of younger women, but I doubt if he ever could be true to any one for a long period of time. You married a restless, immature boy, but whether you can ever make him develop into a reliable, dependable man is, indeed, a great problem. Your wedding date (1+3+8=3) is an unstable vibration and does not indicate permanence.

I believe your best hope is to "lose him and let him go"; and when he is with you make him as contented as you can and perhaps some day he will wake up to the difference between tinsel and true gold. As a rule I do not think an age difference of ten years would prevent happiness, but in your case, this is just one cog in the wheel of incompatibility.

An Interesting Family

Dear Miss Adams:

Please tell me what you can about my three sons. All are in the service and advancing satisfactorily. I am a successful business woman owning and operating my own store of interior decorating.—B.L.V., Iowa.

• Your eldest son is the executive type, a leader and will be a good money-maker when he is released from the Army. His Birthpath (7+7+3=8), shows that his executive work should be along scientific ("7") lines. Your second son has a Birthpath of 10+10+6=8. He, too, has much executive ability and is a born leader. Your oldest son is more of a scientific researcher in new fields; your second son is more of an active leader-inventor, original and independent.

Your third son's Birthpath of 11+10+9=11+10=3 shows originality, creative ability and resourcefulness; he will have many changes and new beginnings in his life. He seems to be social and friendly, with artistic tastes. He is probably more interested in decorative designing than in girders or railroad ties. He is also a leader in his line and resents being ruled or dominated.

And you with your 8+3+8=10 Birthpath are more artistic, more original, more of a money-maker, and have more executive ability and pioneering spirit than any of your three sons. I wonder how a mother and three sons with your vibrations can live under the same roof and not blow it sky-high! All of you are leaders; all independent; and all natural bosses!

Right Occupation?

Dear Miss Adams:

I was born September 25, 1913. . . . I have sold cosmetics and enjoy it. Will I ever be as successful as I hope to be?—G.A.C., Mo.

• Your Birthpath, (9+7+5=3) shows that foods, drugs or beauty aids are excellent lines for you to follow. So you see that you are in the right line of work. Your name totals "8" (a money-making number), and your talents are "9" (a number which brings success in a wide field). I do not see how you can be anything but successful. Good wishes!

Change Indicated

Dear Miss Adams:

I was born May 5, 1926 (5+5+9=10). I have taught school for about a year in this little town and like it, but I think I would like office work better. What type of work am I best fitted for?—J.E.N., N. H.

• You certainly are not in the right line of work at present, and office work might be even more unfavorable unless it involved change, new experiences, moving about and independence. These are what you need to suit your qualifications. You would do well as a sales person in some unusual and original line, especially if it involved travelling.

Your Handwriting

by Maud Mosher

TO analyze handwriting, first look at the writing slant. The right slant of Mrs. Suits indicates a warm, affectionate nature. She is friendly, sociable and puts people at ease quickly.

Second, note the pressure of the writing. Here it is firm, even, and clear. This means she has determination, persistence and will power to carry out promises.

As a third step, glance at the type of

We are starting a mink ranch now which we hope will make us a good living.
Sincerely, E. Suits.

letters. These are carefully made. She is therefore neat, orderly and systematic.

Now note the endings on the words. The upward endings in "mink" and "ranch" are used by optimistic persons. Hence she feels the mink ranch will succeed.

Next look at the unusual forms of letters. Her circular "i" dots resemble those often used by Mickey Rooney. They show that she likes unusual things in people, home or work. In this case, it is the unusual work of a furrier.

Also examine the fancy curves on "W" in "We," the initial "M" and the "y" in "Sincerely," which are characteristic of people with a talent to advertise or promote their work. They undoubtedly help Mrs. Suits make money.

Now look for signs that express habits causing trouble with other people. For instance, these carefully made letters of Mrs. Suits show that she has little patience with disorderly persons who only half finish their work. Their slipshod methods irritate her. She believes one should always do one's best.

The "t" crossing on the second "t" in "starting" indicates she does not like to be rushed into promises which she isn't sure she can keep, particularly where the meeting of a deadline is involved. This speaks for her desire to do her job fastidiously right.

As a final step, compare the writing with your own or some other person's hand. I have added here a note from Mr. Suits.

Because their two slants of writing are much alike and show affection, they are well mated emotionally. Mr. Suits' different pressures are characteristic of moods of joy and discouragement. Mrs. Suits' optimism, therefore, gives him hope when he is upset.

*Have you tell me some things we should know. Sincerely,
E. Suits.*

The endings on his words vary from none in "tell" to horizontal in "some" and upward in "Suits." His words also swing above and below the line of writing. These are marks that denote his ability to change plans to fit new conditions on short notice—and more quickly than Mrs. Suits.

THE first glance at this handwriting gives us the picture of a timid, sensitive, young American. The "fis" in "For" and "five" indicate that he makes friends easily and understands the whims of people. Note the long beginning strokes on "a" and "t" in "the." They stand for a willingness to fight for ideals. The unusual "h" in "the" shows that he can influence others under trying circumstances because of his fine adaptability and his consideration for others.

The straight vertical letters in the word "Sandersdorf" show he tries to forget his experiences, but memories of punishments and insults cause him to write slanting letters at the end of the word. An-

For five months I was a prisoner of the Germans at Sandersdorf.
Richard Atiyeh

other important feature is the "a" in the last name. It is short and modest but suggests courage and determination to share the fate of others with a desire to be just. The heavy "t" crossings indicate the perseverance, hope and faith needed to survive imprisonment.

FROM Peggy Lee Montgomery of Niagara Falls comes the most attractive sample of a hand. It is a fashion plate in writing with its graceful curves and furbelows. Such writers are deeply impressed by all types of professional entertaining and often make a success in nightclubs, on stage, screen, or radio. She will respond best when she is the center of attraction.

She will find pleasure in spending much time on selecting beautiful clothes and beauty aids. She may also create new styles and will be admired for her originality along these lines. But she will need a manager to help her succeed financially so her time can be devoted to art, not business. Notice her "t" crossings are lighter than the other letters.

Since many ridges are uneven in the heavy strokes in "y" and "g," it is possible that Peggy is only copying this style of writing together with these habits.

THE sample from Margaret P. of Duluth, Minnesota, is typical of the romantic unmarried young lady. Note the long beginning stroke on "M" in "Minn.," which is a barometer of friendliness. Writers of "M's" like these usually have little difficulty in attracting the opposite sex.

Also note the size of the "h" in "achieve." It is three times higher than the small "e," which shows that Margaret has a lot of imagination and that she puts glamor into all she does, thereby increasing her charm and sex appeal.

Her "t" crossings in the words "emotional" and "actress" display sufficient enthusiasm and courage to warrant a successful career along dramatic lines.

Could I achieve success as an emotional actress?

*Margaret P.
Minn.*

The upward endings on these two words are also unusual. They swing out and up differently from those used by Mrs. Suits, for instance, and are often found in hands of lecturers. Her capital "C" in "Could" resembles those often made by Joan Crawford and other well-known entertainers.

FROM the writing of A.G.B. of Montreal, Canada, you can see that the gentleman has struggled hard to gain a good reputation and the comforts of life. According to the even lines of writing, he has done this with great honesty and loyalty to his employers. Now and then he has been warned against the injustice of others, which is illustrated by the breaks between letters, as in the word "sample." He neither shirks duty nor sponges on others. The narrow margins suggest that he enjoys doing odd jobs around the home

*Please use initials only A.G.B.
Montreal 22 One
Canada*

(The positions of the Moon are calculated for Eastern Standard Time.)

If you have the Moon in Cancer in your natal chart then you are gifted with the ability to deal with the multitudes. You have strong executive ability, but many with this position of the Moon fail to use this trait due to a lack of desire or drive from some other influence in their charts. You have an excellent memory. You are deeply affectionate, super-sensitive and perhaps appear to the uninitiated as being timid. You shine more brightly in the home than in strange surroundings and yet can be very popular with the crowds. This is the sign of the Oedipus complex where the sway of love for the parent of the opposite sex holds the balance of power.

Possibly you have the Moon in the sign of Leo in your natal chart, and if this is the case then you have to be watchful in your financial dealings. A tendency exists for dishonesty, not only toward others, but yourself. The skill to produce great wealth is there and can be used to gain results if properly directed. You are probably ardent, enthusiastic, independent and generous. You are fearless and you radiate magnetism. You have a desire to lift yourself above your sphere, and will attract people higher in station than yourself. You have a natural ability for discipline and authority, but you must have your own way about things. If you are a man you will attract women who are public-minded, dramatic and inspiring. They will be capable of deep love for you.

Those with the Moon in Virgo will find that they can handle the financial affairs of others to greater advantage than they can their own. Whether you have this position of the Moon or not and are in need of a cashier, treasurer or the like, hire a person who has the Moon in Virgo if other conditions are acceptable. Strong prejudices will show in your actions and speech, but there is also a keen sense of truth in all you do. You are brainy, critical, ambitious, and fastidious in your dress. The desire to cash in on your ideas is part of you and you are capable of turning some hobby into a financial gold mine. You are hospitable and have some literary ability.

DIVINATION

By Tarot Cards

by Elbert Benjamine

(President of the Church of Light)

TAROT CARDS, astrology and numerology all may be, and commonly are, used for the purpose of divination. But we should not lose sight of the fact that all three may be used for another highly useful purpose.

First it should be pointed out that divination depends upon the ability of the soul to gain information through its inner-plane activities and to impress that information on objective consciousness in a recognizable form. Due to the fact that velocity of the inner plane is greater than that of light, where time stands still and objects lose all their length, the soul functioning on the inner plane can readily acquire information, including the past, present and future that is inaccessible to reason and the physical senses. It is this ability that gives divination in any of its forms its value.

But there is another factor of inner-plane existence which is of great importance, not so much relative to divination as relative to the welfare of the individual. It is the impact of inner-plane energies upon man's astral body.

If we increase the temperature of a room sufficiently, for instance, those in it will begin to think about opening the doors and windows, or about discarding some of their clothing. If a man is strongly addicted to alcohol, he becomes abnormal both in thought and action. If a man is thrown into deep water, he thinks of swimming. Place him on a horse, and he thinks of riding. And any number of other instances can be cited to illustrate that man's thoughts and actions are greatly influenced by his environment.

Yet the physical is but a small part of his total environment. Quite as important, in influencing his thoughts and actions, are his astral surroundings. Astral energies impinge upon his finer body from three different sources. These cause changes in his astral form, and these changes are registered as sensations by the soul, which is commonly termed as the unconscious mind.

Because the astral body has certain sensations, the unconscious mind has certain thoughts; just as when the physical body, as mentioned before, registers certain sensations, there are appropriate objective thoughts. Yet psychologists have conclusively proved that most of man's thinking is done below the threshold of objective consciousness, in the unconscious mind. They have demonstrated that a majority of man's actions and decisions, instead of being determined by pure objective reason, rise into his objective consciousness as thoughts, impulses and inclinations, from the region of his unconscious. And thus it is that man's thoughts, as well as his actions, are so largely modified by his astral environment.

The inner-plane energies which thus influence all people belong to three different categories. They embrace those streams of energy that flow from the planets, the thoughts of others as well as his own, and the character vibrations radiated by all objects. These three types of inner-plane energies have much in common, and all impinge upon man's astral body and influence his thoughts, his behavior, and the events which are attracted into his life.

Even as man's physical body is composed of cells of protoplasm and their secretions, so is man's finer, or astral body, composed of thought-cells. These thought-cells belong to ten different families, and those belonging to each family readily respond to—and are influenced by—the invisible radiations of the planets, thoughts or character vibrations of characteristic type. Determining through a knowledge of progressed aspects what important events will come into a certain person's life during a given period, is made possible by ascertaining the family of thought-cells within his finer form which will be made active during this period due to energies to which it responds.

Just as the physical cells of his material body know how to do certain things, and respond readily to vitamins and secretions from the endocrine glands, so the thought-cells of man's finer body know how to attract events corresponding to their nature into his life. And when they gain more energy of the particular kind to which they respond, they are able, working from the inner plane, to bring events such as they desire more strongly into the life.

Scientific astrology charts the groups of thought-cells, and it indicates when a certain group will gain enough additional energy that it can bring an event corresponding to its nature into the life. But astrological energies are not the only energies which gain influence over the thought-cells through giving them more energy. Thoughts can also give a group of thought-cells much additional energy. In fact, both one's own thoughts, and the thoughts of others which impinge on the astral body, always add energy to that group of thought-cells which belong to the same astrological family as the thoughts do.

All things radiate energies which correspond to their astrological family. A person closely associated with any of these things is influenced by the impact of these inner-plane radiations on his astral body.

These character vibrations always add energy to the group of thought-cells within the person's finer form which belongs to the same astrological family as they do.

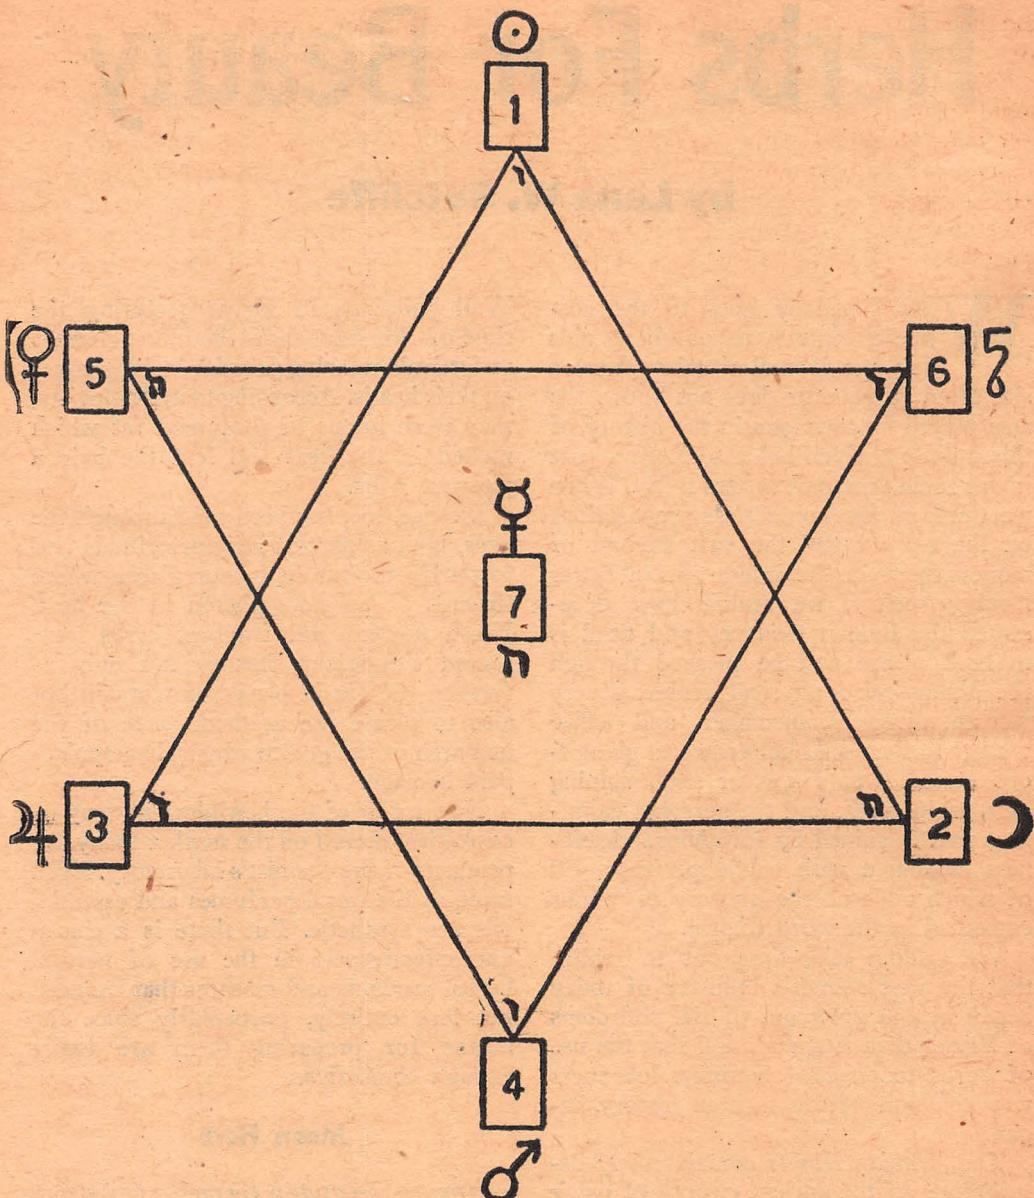

Thus it is that if we know the astrological rulership of any type of thoughts, we know the type of energy it is adding to the thought-cells of any person influenced by these thoughts. Mars thoughts tend to cause him to be more aggressive, for instance, and Saturn thoughts cause him to be more cautious. And if we also know the individual's chart of birth, we can determine what type of events, and what department of life, will be affected by the additional thought-cell activity thus set in motion, and whether, and to what extent, the thoughts will help to attract fortunate events into the life, or those unfortunate.

The departments of life chiefly affected by the thoughts will be those mapped in the birth-chart by the house or houses ruled by the planet or Zodiaca sign which also rules the thoughts. They will be influenced beneficially if the house in the birth-chart is ruled by a well aspected planet, or they will be influenced detrimentally if the house in the birth-chart is ruled by a discordantly aspected planet.

Either a name or a number gives rise to a definite thought in the mind of the individual who becomes conscious of it. Such a thought radiates energy which is beamed to the individual with whom it is associated in the mind of the thinker. And it adds energy to the definite group of thought-cells in the astral body of the person thus thought about which has the same astrological rulership.

Thus if we have an individual's birth chart, and know the name or the number with which he is permanently associated in the minds of other people, and with which he is associated in his own mind, we can ascertain how this name or number will influence his life, provided we also know the astrological rulership of the name or number.

In addition to being an instrument of divination, each Major Arcanum of the tarot bears both a letter and a number. By proper use of these it is possible to ascertain the astrological rulership of any number, and the astrological rulership of any name.

Each Major Arcanum of the tarot also is associated with a certain shade of color, a certain musical tone, certain stones, a certain gem, and certain herbs. Through knowledge of this association, which is part of the science of the tarot, it is possible to learn the astrological rulership—the type of invisible character energy radiated—by various objects. And if the birth chart of an individual is also known, it then becomes possible to determine whether his close association with one or more of these objects will tend to attract to him fortune or misfortune, and what departments of life will chiefly be thus affected by the association.

Herbs For Beauty

by Lena W. Sutcliffe

WHEN milady goes to the cosmetic counter to purchase aids for her diurnal ritual to Venus, she often forgets, or does not know, the role played by astrology in the history of this industry which holds so large a part in our socio-economic system today. When we think of the numberless preparations on the market and the vast amount of money spent in the interest of a better looking society, we realize how deep-seated the human tendency and need is to both please and be pleased through the Venus-ruled physical senses. Every woman, from homemaker and office worker to the social butterfly and glamorous actress wants a clear skin, shining hair, white teeth, and the personal daintiness that is gained by scrupulous cleanliness combined with subtle perfume—all of which adds up the mystery of Venus embodied in the word Charm.

We seldom take time out to realize that the vast cosmetic industry of today began in and grew out of the stillrooms of Elizabethan England, and that the use of herbs to enhance feminine loveliness was common before written history began.

The Arabian Nights contain many descriptions of the ancient custom of using henna to stain the palms of the hands and soles of the feet of the feminine participants in ritualistic observances—from the celebration of a wedding to a temple festival. From time immemorial oils have been used to care for hair and skin. The perfume of flowers has been captured to form the attars that are the bases of the finest floral scents. Rouge boxes and perfume jars have been found in the most ancient ruins in Egypt and the near East.

Wall paintings in Egypt picturing the time of Ikhnaton show the merry-makers at festivals wearing peculiar looking cones on their heads. According to archeologists, they were lumps of perfumed fat which melted in the heat and lent the hair a pleasant odor.

Incense, too, has been used through the ages, both as part of religious rituals and to purify the air in indoor places where throngs of people gathered in the heat. Fresh flowers and fragrant herbs have served throughout history not only to freshen the air in places of worship but also to please the aesthetic taste of the monarch or the god to whom the populace paid homage.

Now many of the bewildering array of cosmetics offered on the market today are products of the chemist's laboratory. Even some of the floral perfumes and essential oils are synthetic. But there is a charm and effectiveness in the use of natural herbal products and essences that we need not lose entirely, particularly since the means for preparing them are easily enough obtainable.

Moon Herb

Anyone can grate a cucumber and strain the juice through a cloth. Add one fourth of a teaspoonful of powdered borax to a cup of juice to keep it. If bottled and kept very cold it will last several days. Cucumber juice is an effective astringent and, as a Moon herb, whitens the skin if used consistently. Some commercial preparations make use of cucumber juice in creams and lotions, and a good product of this sort is very beneficial for dull, discolored skin.

Sun Herbs

The Sun, ruling Leo, is Sextile by sign to the natural places of Venus in Taurus and Libra, which explains why Sun herbs play so large a part in the beautifying of the human body.

We are all familiar with bay rum and its tonic and refreshing effect on skin and scalp. Bay is an herb of the Sun, as are most of the plants used for salves, lotions, and washes.

In medieval Europe an integral part of the life in a house of any importance was the stillroom mentioned before where herbs were cleansed and dried. Some were distilled in crude but effective stills that isolated the essential oils of bay, mint and other plants, where concentrated essence was needed. The bay oil was mixed with alcohol and floral perfumes which then made bay rum. This method reached the Eastern shores of North America through the herbal and stillroom books that the colonial settlers brought with them. These books contained countless recipes for the preparation of teas, remedies and cosmetics.

One of their most popular skin beautifiers was the "Rosemary Bath Bag" which can be made by mixing

1 lb. fine oat meal, or uncooked rolled oats
½ lb. almond meal
½ lb. dried rosemary leaves
½ lb. finely shaved soap
1 oz. powdered borax.

A small handful is placed in a bag made of muslin or toweling. The bag is then applied as a wash cloth to scrub the skin. The film of oat starch and rosemary should not be rinsed off right away but patted gently into the skin and allowed to dry on for a while.

The Sun herb rosemary can also be made into a tea by steeping ½ oz. in a pint of boiling water for 15 minutes, and used as a hair rinse for its beneficial effect on scalp and hair when no change of color is desired. For a vinegar rinse, add 1 oz. of rosemary to 1 pint of wine vinegar. Steep one month. Another Sun herb, chamomile, brings out the gold in blond hair, if added (½ oz.) to one pint of boiling water for a final rinse after a shampoo. The use of henna is too well known to need discussion here.

One of the stock remedies of the sixteenth century physicians was calendula salve, which is made by straining and heating pot marigold petals in one pound of fat until their essence has been entirely absorbed. It was, and still is, known to be one of the most effective unguents ever used, and is on sale in most good drugstores.

The resin Storax which also falls under the rulership of the Sun and furnishes us with preparations for the skin, should be mentioned here. Storax salve can be had at the drugstore under the name of Storarol. The tincture of Benzoin (plain) frequently used in beauty preparations, likewise serves as a simple and very good astringent if mixed with cold water (5 drops to a fourth of a cup) and patted into the skin after cleansing. Try it after the Rosemary Bath Bag face wash.

Potpourris

Of the perfume herbs, those under Venus and the Moon give us the sweet feminine odors of rose, violet, lily, iris and the like. Those under Mars and the Sun are pungent and arousing, as are geranium, narcissus, heliotrope, bay and magnolia. Mercury herbs are aromatic, heady and stimulating like lavender or lily of the valley. The plants assigned to the more ponderous planets have little perfume unless an aspect confers it, as in the case of some of the sweet smelling grasses in the Saturn plant group. Vert-vert, for instance, possesses characteristics that show a definite Mars influence.

One of the most popular ways of capturing and blending scents of flowers and herbs in the days of Queen Elizabeth of England was to make "sweet jars" or "potpourris." Flowers and fragrant herbs were dried and mixed with spices to preserve and "fix" the perfume. The potpourri was

THE HANDPRINT OF MARIAN MCMANUS

The voice of this lovely singer has been heard for several years on the WEAF Merry-Go-Round Program Sunday evenings at nine. Her long Sun line, leading up to the base of the Apollo finger, and her strong Destiny line reaching up to the base of the Index finger are strong omens for success and fame. Note also her Line of Intuition, starting on the Mount of Luna, skirting the Mount of Mars, and ending on the Mount of Mercury. These three mounts hold the attributes of the creative artists: Luna bestows imagination, Mars initiative, and Mercury mental alertness.

Practical Lessons In HAND ANALYSIS

— The Line of Intuition and The Line of Mars —

by Ruth Hampton

The Line of Intuition

THE line of Intuition appears as a kind of semi-circle joining the Mounts of Mars, Luna, and Mercury together. It is also known as the line of Mercury, because it ends on the Mount of Mercury, which is the Mount under the little finger.

The name, line of Intuition, is derived from the fact that the line contacts and receives the attributes of three mounts on its course—it tunes in on these several "stations" so to speak: Luna is the seat of imagination, Mars of thrust and parry, and Mercury of logic, cleverness, poise, love of science, powers of controversy and eloquence.

Whether the line of Intuition portends good or evil depends largely upon the consistency of the hand and the stability of the Heart and Head lines. If the hand has a firm consistency and the Heart and Head lines are clear-cut, and follow a normal direction, we can reasonably expect the line of Intuition to aid the owner to fulfill its constructive qualities.

A strong Intuition line accompanied by sustaining reliable signs can bestow on its possessor the sensitive and spiritual discernment it conveys from the mounts it touches.

It indicates intense imagination and a mind that will listen to the "inner voice." It is a symbol signifying a conscious as well as unconscious willingness to wait for this voice's inspiration. The creative genius knows intuitively how to play a musical instrument, how to draw, or how to translate his thoughts and feelings into words. The intuitive person receives messages of warning before disasters and performs heroic acts without conscious efforts of will-power. He surmounts stress and obstacles, and thereby lives a life of serenity and spiritual understanding.

A,B,C,D,E - LINE OF INTUITION
F,G,H,I - LINE OF MARS
J - LIFE LINE

In general the line of Intuition indicates that the subject has a keen insight into the character of his fellowman, and an uncanny foresight. He will know or "feel" that certain events are going to take place before they actually come to pass, without being aware of the origin of his premonitions.

If the hand is soft (weak consistency), and the line of Intuition is broken, marred, spotted or twisted, and accompanied by a weak Heart line or Head line, we cannot expect the line to bring the subject favorable results. A weak Heart line would have a tendency to make its owner a sentimentalist, spending his days following visions and warnings in fantastic pursuit. A weak Head line would cause its possessor to twist his hunches into cheap practices of forecasting events and influencing the credulous.

The line of Intuition is often found on the Psychic, Philosophic or Conic types of hands. It is also found on a hand showing a thick percussion on its outer side, in the region of Luna and Upper Mars.

Examples of the Line of Intuition

A. When the line of Intuition starts from the Mount of Mars, an abundance of aggression is shown; the subject will express himself with intensity and perhaps violence.

B. When the line of Intuition starts low on the hand and runs directly to the Mount of Mercury, it denotes imagination, clarity of thought, ease of speech, and the ability to grasp situations advantageously.

C. When the line is chained, it denotes a disordered imagination.

D. If a line extends from the Intuition line into and across the Saturn line, the intuitive qualities will aid the subject to a successful career.

E. If a star appears at the end of the line of Intuition on the Mount of Mercury, the subject has marked powers of mediumship.

The Line of Mars

The line of Mars is considered a sister line to the Life line, because it runs very close to it, but must not be confused with the Influence lines which run up and down the Mount of Venus area. The line of Mars rises from the Lower Mount of Mars and hugs the Life line, strengthening a weak, and reinforcing a strong one. (Lower Mars is in the region above the Mount of Venus and inside the Life line. Upper Mars is directly opposite on the percussion side of the hand. The Plane of Mars is in the center of the palm.)

Vitality and aggression are the main qualities of this rather uncommon line. Therefore, the combination of a strong Life line and a strong line of Mars intensifies the powers of its possessor. The man who can boast of a line of Mars will be found among prize fighters, leaders in politics, campaigners, and those who choose the walks of chance and adventure. These people are endowed with extraordinary vitality, live life at a fast pace, and feast and drink seemingly without harm to their health.

If the consistency of the hand is thick, hard and covered with coarse black hair, we cannot expect the possessor of the line of Mars to express himself on a high moral plane. If he is a habitant of the underworld, he will be a leader of gangsters, or, if he lives and moves in the sporting world or cafe society, he will be an ostentatious spender.

Examples of the Line of Mars

F. If the line of Mars extends to the full length of the Life line, the subject will possess a super-abundance of vitality throughout life.

G. If the line of Mars ceases half-way down the Life line, the subject will lose his aggressive vitality at the time the line stops.

H. If a line of Ambition rises from the line of Mars towards Jupiter, the subject will be ambitious for public life and leadership in politics.

I. If the line rises towards Saturn, the subject will be intent upon work along Saturnian interests. This line is a strong omen of a brilliant career, because it suggests the initiative, ambition and will-power needed to go after the highest scientific pursuits.

The Twelfth House

by Leland Lovelace

If the devotee of astrology should apply himself to a study of his own Twelfth House, he could, without doubt, fill a notebook of a thousand pages or more. These pages he would not willingly give to the world, for the Twelfth is the house of mystery, of deep personal secrets, the underground elements of the nature, which we all try to keep from the observation—praise or blame—of others.

Most students are fascinated by the Twelfth, for it is a well of deep mystery not only in the sense that the hidden and secret things of life are relegated to this department, but also because this area of the chart has much to tell that we do not as yet clearly understand.

This House holds the secret of what is owing to us from the past, and what we owe to the past and to the future, for it is one of the houses of Karma. It shows what we have sown and what we shall reap. In it is the key to our limitations, the why and wherefore of those aspirations which throughout the lifetime must know frustration. It is the indicator of imprisonment and confinement not only in the objective sense but also in the subjective. While we are prone to think first of jails, hospitals, and asylums, we must also consider the conditions of life which bring about the limitations of mind and spirit, frustrating the conscious desires, visions, and striving, and making many a man "a mute inglorious Milton."

The Twelfth is the negative house of Jupiter, the planet of religion and philosophy, and to this house we look to find the secret of our attitudes toward philanthropy and brotherhood; toward the criminal, the insane, the perverted and degenerate; the defective, delinquent, and dependent. Here we find whether our hearts beat for the reformation of the world and why.

In this house is the answer to our ability (or lack of it) to carry the burdens of others, and to the question of justice in forcing others to stand on their own feet. Without a deep study of the Twelfth House it is often impossible to judge correctly how much one should bear for the other in settling accounts of Karma. It is a common experience that "do-gooders," with the best intentions, do more harm than good.

The Twelfth, as the natural home of Neptune, is the area of secret habits. Not all secret habits have a negative or destructive effect upon the self. The one who goes into his or her room and prays or studies is within this mansion. The nun who lives a lifetime of prayer, silent meditation, and good works, is very definitely living in the Twelfth. Discoverers and inventors, working alone in their laboratories to learn and to apply the secrets of nature, are also within this angle.

Analogous with the rule that what goes up must come down, much that goes into the Twelfth House must come out of it. Sin, crime, self-undoing will not forever remain hidden. The fruits of the acts will be known. Obsessions will manifest. Wrong secret thoughts, persisted in, will affect the health, overspill the cusp of the First House and stamp themselves upon the face.

This house shows the depth of the unconscious, and with the Third and Ninth is an indicator of the mental and spiritual temperament. It gives the clue to the way by which a man becomes his own worst enemy, and this fault is the more easily discerned when it is borne in mind that the Twelfth is the natural home of Pisces, ruled by Neptune. It helps in understanding why an otherwise excellent character goes upon periodic sprees with drink or drugs, followed by severe self-condemnation and remorse.

On the destructive and negative side, indicating affliction to the Twelfth, we find the spy, the blackmailer, the traitor, the drunkard, and the drug addict. Self-pity and self-undoing are brothers: the drunkard often drinks because he is feeling sorry for himself; the drug addict exchanges the real world as he knows it in the Sixth House for the unreal world of Neptune in the Twelfth, and thus he unfits himself to take his place in the world of everyday affairs.

In the life of every teacher, every priest, every pastor of a flock, a strong Twelfth House is a most salient feature. In a position where he must be subject to the glare of publicity, and meet the criticism of those who demand that he live the high ideals he teaches, the Twelfth House is the point in which he maintains his humanness, since as a man he is not divine and can never reach the ideals he must uphold. This house is then his "city of refuge," the holy ground whereon he meets his conscience and his God.

Do not try to pry into the Twelfth House of your friend. It is his cell of sweet seclusion, with space only for his own soul, and every man has a right to his own secrets and his own solitude.

We do not generally turn to this house to look for sweetness and light. Yet here we find elements which contribute to talent and genius in the creative arts. These elements, of course, are covered unless definitely brought out; they rarely emerge into expression spontaneously.

In applying the brief analyses below to actual charts, the student must bear in mind that the signs and planets found in the Twelfth House should never be interpreted alone, for like all other regions of the star map, they are subject to vibrations and influences from all the other signs and houses, whether those signs and houses are occupied or empty.

MUCH OF GENIUS

Versus

A LITTLE OF INSANITY

by Robert DeLuce

(Reprinted, by permission, from the October 1945 issue of the AFA Bulletin)

A GREAT deal of very good astrological material has already been published upon genius vs. insanity, much of it treating the field not only competently, but also exhaustively. However, since the activities of either the genius or the demented person seem to exert a disproportionate fascination for the average individual—possibly due to the refreshingly unmonotonous quality of their activities—a few remarks culled from the author's observations are ventured. The subject may also be of interest to those of us who have had occasion at times to possibly ruminiate casually upon which of the two classes we ourselves might fall into.

First of all, let it be said the astrological chart itself cannot tip one off as to whether its possessor is to get his name into Who's Who, or pursue intricate games involving feathers and molasses-coated finger tips. Squares and oppositions beyond the ordinary in number will be found in the horoscopes of candidates for either distinction. For the person possessed of trines and sextiles is bound to find this more or less the best of all possible worlds and to therefore lead a calm, contented life, usually with a minimum of effort exerted. In fact, a horoscope with plenty of benefic aspects, or strongly placed benefic planets, will frequently produce a character, who, contrary to orthodox belief, may not put himself out the least bit to become wealthy, famous and renowned; but it will assuredly produce one who feels himself as unharried, as contented with his position, as well-supplied and cared-for, and as happy, if not more so, in what he does possess by way of material means or position, as does the so-called successful man.

Many squares or oppositions on the other hand produce considerable strain and stress in the character, and a conviction that matters as they stand are not beatifically satisfactory, and this drives the owner of such a horoscope to the compulsion to do something about the situation. Either he actually changes the conditions touching himself to greater conformity to his ideal, or, lacking the strength to achieve this, he changes himself so that exterior conditions appear more reasonably bearable to him—in which latter case however he eventually encounters the obstacle of the straitjacket.

Some orthodox astrologers have stated that more than four strong adverse aspects make one a candidate for the booby-hatch. For the comfort of those who find from a hurried count that their own charts yield five such aspects, or even, heaven forbid, more, let it be said emphatically that there is no difference between genius and insanity—astrologically speaking—and none in actual practice of either professions except this: in the case of the genius the individual is in control of the strong forces present in his chart, whilst in the case of the insane person those forces are in control of him. The choice lies entirely with the individual, though it is not quite so simple as choosing a red apple instead of one that is yellow. Whenever a chart is found indicating by the preponderance of squares and oppositions that here is a strongly individual, original and active character, its owner should early learn to become wise through a sound estimation of life's values, and to become strong through the exercise of stamina in consistently serving the ends that wisdom recommends to him.

However, there is plenty of genius in the world that is not spelled with a capital G, and plenty that actually rates high in accomplishment though it may never make the headlines. As a matter of fact, one may say that every individual on the face of the earth is a genius, inasmuch as it is true that each one of us has the talent to fit into one particular niche in life more perfectly, more efficiently and more harmoniously than any other individual.

But beyond this genius there is a more pronounced variety, which may still not set the world on fire, but which is well worth cultivating. Personal observation has convinced me that this type of genius is indicated by the  $72^{\circ}$  angle between any two planets—allowing an orb of some two degrees on either side. In general it does not seem advisable to attempt to read the minor aspects, considering that in most cases the astrological picture becomes sufficiently involved with a synthesis of the major aspects. And further, since we astrologers are not yet in possession of all that is to be known concerning the major aspects, it would appear better to master these before confusing the issues by taking up the minor ones.

However, since this  $72^{\circ}$  angle, that is, the quintile, appears to have a very particular and well-defined effect, it has seemed worth while to bring it to the attention of my colleagues to see what further substantiation they may find in their own practice.

In applying this theory to any horoscope it will be found that those quintiles involving Mercury, or Moon, or Sun, will produce the most obvious effects. This is because Mercury is primarily the planet of expression—much more than the planet of intellect per se—with the result that whatever intelligence the individual has, he gets credit for because of his fluency in expressing it to the world at large. The Moon partakes of this same quality, though not to quite the same extent. Quintiles involving the Sun are easily spotted because the vitality of the Sun results in positive action and implementing of the genius, which, in such case, produces the actual quality of originality. Quintiles to the angles of the horoscope are not considered since angles are but locations, not bodies radiating their own peculiar forces.

As to further delineation of such quintiles, it is merely necessary to keep in mind the basic qualities of each planet:

Thus, Neptune would concern itself with the aesthetic, most obviously in the fine arts, or even in metaphysical pursuits; also with concepts of vast magnitude, often deemed impractical solely because so far in advance of their time.

Uranus stands for extreme originality, particularly in scientific and manual processes associated with invention; also rebelliousness against stereotyped conventionality of the social scheme.

Jupiter, the benefic, is benevolent to its possessor in that he attains respectability and high places without ever having to stoop to hard or demeaning labor. Therefore, Jupiter would produce a genius for the attainment of plushy positions, especially such as are associated with Ninth House pursuits.

Mars, being primarily an intensely practical planet, but on a less intellectual and more materialized plane than Saturn, and enjoying physical activity for its own sake, would be more likely to give genius for some practical skill, such as mechanics, or for leadership in civil or military affairs, the former largely because Mars is actually conservative in that he represents the middle-of-the-road man of our present civilization.

Astro-Aid For The Nerves

by A. J. Haworth

WHAT makes people nervous? What causes neurosis which often leads to strokes, infantile paralysis and mental disorders? And what can be done to prevent these conditions and get at the root of the trouble? These are probably the most prominent health problems of the day. While I have no "cure-all" system or final answers, many years in this field have convinced me that Astro-diagnosis and natural therapy are coming more and more into their own.

Generally speaking, the nervous system is divided into two divisions—the voluntary (that under our conscious control) and the involuntary, which acts without our conscious direction. The voluntary muscular activity of the limbs, back, etc., respond to the voluntary nerves while the organic and chemical functions come more directly under control of the involuntary system. Of course, both divisions are correlated and work together.

It is not necessary here to dwell on the names, origins and functions of all these nerves in order to get an over-all picture of what happens in nerve pathology and what can be done to help. But the three main nerve trunks should be mentioned and described to clarify the ideas herewith submitted.

The pneumogastric nerve arises under the main brain and feeds the head, heart and lungs. The sciatic nerve arises at the end of the spine and feeds the legs. The cervical nerve takes care of the upper extremities and the trunk. Each of these three nerves have numerous branches and together they ramify the entire body. The cervical nerve, for instance, has ten divisions, all arising in the spinal cord.

The nerve sheath is ruled by Neptune and the nerve force by Uranus, the muscles by Mars, the bones by Saturn, and the spinal cord by the Sun and Neptune. This gives us a rough astrological picture of the anatomy that ties in with the nerve structure.

In any case of nervous disorder, the nerve supply, being cut off from an area, comes in spasmodic impulses. If an acid muscle gets flabby and is overcome by its healthier partner, the bone structure which the pair of muscles are supporting, will become twisted, and cut off nerve supply to an organ or some tissue, thus causing the paralyzing effect of the flesh.

Why does a muscle get out of tone and lose its elasticity? Because we violate the laws of eating naturally and intelligently. We let our sense of taste decide what we eat, without regard to results. But our body is a result of our eating. Treat it as you would your own car—feed it properly and keep it clean, inside and out.

But to get down to the more specific business of treating nervous disorders, let's first see what indicates them in the horoscope. Two people living on the same diet, doing the same work and coming from the same parents may develop entirely different types of pathology, or one may be subject to nerve trouble and the other may not. This is of course a karmic condition, generated in past lives and forcing the ego under certain chemical and stellar influences—which is generally termed as "hereditary."

When we find a serious nerve condition that results in infantile paralysis, we must assume that the ductless glands of the mother were not functioning properly during gestation. This is the period when the hormones from the mother's pituitary gland, ruled by Uranus, supply the thymus gland of the foetus with the material for manufacturing its blood through birth until puberty. Then the pituitary body of the child takes over the work of the thymus, which atrophies almost entirely.

This is the reason why so many anemic and nervous children become better after puberty and "outgrow" the infantile diseases and other afflictions. It is truly a pity that parents know so little about astrology. Someone said ignorance is the only crime and applied knowledge the only remedy.

Of course there are other pathological trends that are carried past puberty and throughout life. Sometimes the inclination to poliomyelitis is carried to middle or old age and manifests itself in the form of a stroke or a minor paralysis.

During 1944, 19,000 cases of infantile paralysis were reported, excluding those of a minor nature. Nervous disease including insanity is on the increase in adult ranks, partly aggravated by the mental and physical strain of the war years.

Here is the simple method used by Sister Kenny in the sanatorium at Minneapolis, which has proved most successful. It is the application of hot, wet, wool packs to the areas or joints affected. The astrological picture is this: Neptune has shrunken the nerve covering, pinching off supply. Uranus adverse has cut down the supply or allowed it to flow erratically. The muscles get out of balance, and a weak Saturn lets the bones become awry, twisting the limbs and spine; and where the pneumogastric nerve, ruled by Saturn, is involved, the lungs lose motor power. Uranus in Leo adverse is the most prominent indication of poliomyelitis. In such cases a diet of citrus fruits and green vegetables, especially lettuce, onions and celery is in order.

A lot of people have inflammations of the involuntary nerves, or neuritis, which causes much discomfort. The above mentioned treatment is as good as anything the author has knowledge of. Wring a wool blanket almost dry from hot water and apply to affected parts ten minutes at a time, three times a day or more often if necessary, and do not forget to go on a vegetarian diet. Avoid white flour or white sugar products and use only very little, if any, table salt.

For nervousness taking the form of restlessness or mental tangles, this same diet is the best start for a more equitable nerve condition. Vitamins B, F, C and A in the purest form possible should be supplemented to the diet, along with lots of potassium in the natural state.

Nerve force is really nothing more than force from the Sun and the ethers, which enters the body through food. The latter must, of course, be adjusted to the constitution of the body it enters before it can be utilized. Without it no life could exist in the human anatomy. The nerve force causes the blood to flow by giving impulse to the heart-blood, which again feeds the body tissue and the various organs for their chemical duties. The muscle tissue must have food as well as nerve impulse in order to move a joint.

Thus we see the basis of life and health in the human body is dependent primarily on nerve force. When nerve trunks are pathological or blocked, the blood and lymph congest, and trouble begins as the poisons of the body pile up in this area, causing pain, swellings or inflammations. But when the nerve force is released, and the blood purified, the condition clears.

In the case of a common headache or a fluttery heart, for instance, I have found that stimulus of the pneumogastric nerve will give almost instant relief. Hot wet wool packs around the neck and massage of the neck vertebra will generally break up this "log jam" and do more good than a nerve-deadening aspirin.

THE 89 POWER DAYS

Revelations of the Planets for 1946

by Frank J. McCarthy

THE SUN, which symbolizes the creation of life, continues its everlasting rotation in the Zodiac, sending light and sunshine far and wide throughout the solar system.

Mars, reflecting the solar rays, creates optimism and courage.

Intelligence is indicated by Mercury, and the questions that "test men's souls" by Neptune.

The yearnings of life are shown by the Moon; the emotions by Venus; abstractions by Pluto; inspiration by Uranus; self-reliance by Saturn; and affluence by Jupiter.

Thus, astral vibrations exist all around us, and when two planets form an important aspect, their combined rays exert a strong influence upon our lives. But man, unlike the scientifically devised, sensitive, systems for transmission and reception of light, heat or sound waves, is but subconsciously aware of this universal power. Only by knowing the potentials nature has in store for us can we make the most of them in contributing to a better world.

Here are the days of "power aspects" for 1946—or generally GOOD DAYS. Although the individual horoscope may contradict in some instances, they will fulfill their promise if we live up to their message.

January 6th (Venus sextile Jupiter): Straighten out that legal difficulty, apply for membership in a large organization, start a new financial project, join a theatrical group to learn to perform before the public or deal with those who are usually stubborn or old-fashioned.

January 8th (Moon trine Mars): Pleasant cooperation and helpful assistance from your family and friends can smooth your path appreciably. Redouble your efforts to produce worth-while results.

January 14th (Moon trine Neptune): Try to evolve a theme for a story, or produce designs which come to your imagination. Such work can have great sales value, and place you on the road to success.

January 22nd (Moon trine Venus): Practical application of your inspirations can do much toward favorable determination of your future. Have no trepidation about changes that are in the offing. Perhaps you will find yourself at the threshold of new horizons that will far surpass, in interest, your present outlook.

January 24th (Moon conjoined Jupiter): A practical idea may steer you to easy profit—a simple suggestion may prove successful. Be original and enterprising, yet systematic. Don't expect details to take care of themselves.

January 28th (Sun trine Neptune): Do you believe in fairyland? If so, you may get a glimpse of it while your imagination is off on a long flight. Come back to reality at once and put to practical use the seemingly fantastic ideas that are in your mind. Some of them may be worth a king's ransom!

January 29th (Venus trine Neptune) : Ability plus a lucky break is necessary for achievement. If you are ready for your chance, the final gift may be delivered to you through mysterious means or from an anonymous donor.

February 1st (Venus conjoined Sun) : An unusual opportunity to realize that a long cherished dream may present itself. Perhaps you will see your way clear to establish a home, be invited to visit worth-while acquaintances, or be given a gift.

February 2nd (Venus trine Uranus) : Visit a picture gallery or a museum. Buy something that has artistic merit. Also, make a note of the new fashions in clothes that can enhance your personal appearance. Recreation is quite as necessary as achievement.

February 9th (Moon trine Neptune) : Your heart should be full of hope and your mind full of ideas. Look for big things while you keep busy with small jobs. Insignificant duties are quite often harbingers of the greatest potentialities.

February 13th (Venus trine Jupiter) : Be a source of inspiration to someone who is engaged in artistic or literary work. Help develop talent whether you buy a picture, subscribe to magazines, buy books or patronize local exhibits.

February 14th (Mercury trine Jupiter) : Ambition and ability are likely to bring handsome returns today. Exchange ideas and express your ideals. You may have just the right perspective to pass muster for a special job.

February 16th (Sun trine Jupiter) : Good fortune sometimes comes without a label. Opportunity may pop out from the least expected place. Such things can happen while the Sun and Jupiter are in magnificent trine aspect.

February 22nd (Mercury trine Mars) : You have a chance to win in a battle of wits through courage, enterprise and rapidity of ideas. If you try, you also may be able to put a clever financial plan into circulation.

February 25th (Mercury trine Saturn) : Listen to the advice of an older person who has the logical solution to your baffling problems. A responsibility that you take on now may turn out to be a valuable asset later, so do not rebel at extra work.

February 27th (Venus trine Mars) : Help the poor and the needy with cash, if you have it. If your purse is slim, substitute sympathy and understanding. Attend to the niceties of life. Seek the society of those who love you. Amuse yourself. Entertain.

March 2nd (Venus trine Saturn) : The vibrations generated by this aspect can make for domestic harmony. You and your family should be able to get along well, and all of you should be able to agree about decorative innovations.

March 9th (Sun trine Saturn) : Do something to get definite public recognition. Talk with successful people and get pointers on how to get ahead, or enroll for a public speaking course.

March 12th (Moon trine Sun) : The beneficial rays of the Sun-Moon trine should give you new humane conceptions. The philanthropic efforts you make may not bring immediate results, but they can pave the way for something worthwhile.

March 19th (Venus conjoined Mercury) : Parties, sports, love and amusements can be gay and glamorous when Venus is in favorable conjunction with Mercury. Make this planetary "magic" work for you instead of leaving your efforts to chance.

March 22nd (Venus sextile Neptune) : A wish or a great ambition may materialize. The aspirations you have had to keep under control for a long time can be fulfilled now. Develop your ideas. Do not allow them to remain dormant.

March 28th (Moon trine Uranus) : The Horn of Plenty for which you ardently hope is near at hand, but not quite usable, yet. The splendid Moon-Uranus trine is a harbinger that good fortune is not far away.

April 4th (Sun sextile Uranus): Inject pep into whatever you do. Put non-essentials aside while you concentrate on things of importance. Keep your promises. Look for a better job, or advancement in your present employment.

April 9th (Moon trine Mercury): Combine your initiative with the efforts of someone who has creative ideas. Such a partnership of inspiration and practicality should prove invaluable in attaining success.

April 14th (Moon trine Uranus): Take an all-over view of the work you do. You may discover a short cut that minimizes the effort required to do your tasks. A conference with an expert may pave the way for easier and better paid work.

April 20th (Venus sextile Saturn): Take all your directions from within today. Review your talents and possibilities—try to catch a glimpse of the new purposes and plans which life has in readiness for you. With Venus and Saturn in sextile aspect, great revelations should come.

April 24th (Moon trine Neptune): This is a period of psychological transformation. A new deal for your intellectual processes is sponsored by the Lunar and Neptunian vibrations. Keep working for the things you want.

April 27th (Moon trine Saturn): Finish up matters which may have been delayed. Look over old papers. Also see what can be done about worn-out clothes or furnishings—an ingenious idea may help you turn them to good use.

May 1st (Mercury sextile Uranus): Things that have been delayed may start to move rapidly, including a romantic affair. Sports and travel are under favorable Mercury and Uranus influences, so arrange to have an outdoor picnic or take that long-planned journey.

May 3rd (Venus sextile Mars): You will probably feel peppery, active, and romantic—quite an exhilarating combination for a single day. Take everything in your stride, giving due consideration to possible results.

May 4th (Venus trine Neptune): If you are interested in art or anything that adds to the beauty of temporal surroundings, make use of favorable Venus and Neptune vibrations to buy or sell such commodities. These celestial bodies are profligate in generating harmonious rays for showmanship, theatrical enterprises, beauty culture, friendship and music.

May 6th (Mars sextile Neptune): Get your share of the limelight and enjoy a pleasing interlude, with Mars and Neptune in cosmic accord. Your spirits may be effervescent—you may feel as if your mind were soaring in an airplane; but come down to earth if you want to reach logical conclusions.

May 11th (Sun sextile Saturn): Turn your abilities into a channel that will benefit humanity—the Sun and Saturn rays are favorable for doing something of lasting benefit. A relative or close friend may help you gain that sought-for happiness.

May 14th (Venus trine Jupiter): If you could use Aladdin's lamp to raise funds, life would be like a precious jewel in a platinum setting—scintillating and untarnishable. Pitance and fabulous wealth jibe under today's vibrations, so pitch into your job.

May 22nd (Moon trine Uranus): The gifts of science sometimes appear to outshine the gifts of nature, but a little contemplation will prove this to be a fallacy. Bear this in mind: don't be overinfluenced by matters of the material world.

May 27th (Sun trine Neptune): Don't try to span time with one leap. There are so many pleasures and delights to be encountered and each has its own particular use. This is an opportune time for enjoyment, with the Sun and Neptune in fortunate aspect.

May 28th (Venus trine Neptune): The last important aspect of May should find something gained and embedded in your consciousness. What-e'er betide, as the poets say, look at life with ecstasy, for there is precious wisdom in the sublime vibrations which reach the Earth on this day.

June 4th (Mercury trine Jupiter): Brush up on your knowledge of occult and metaphysical subjects—you may find deep and unexpected satisfaction! Philosophy can bring heartening cheer, spiritual comfort, and mental solace.

June 6th (Mercury sextile Mars): Aims and ambitions should be developed to their full capacity, for the Mars-Mercury sextile aspect is exceedingly favorable and there is real opportunity for worth-while endeavor.

June 7th (Sun conjoined Uranus): The glowing beauty of friendship and the magic of sentiment arrive simultaneously with the morning Sun. As in an enchanting book telling a story of romance and adventure, you can find in this day glorious inspiration.

June 8th (Jupiter trine Uranus): An influx of new ideas and delightful anticipation may stimulate your ambition and imagination. Let your thoughts wander far and wide. If you are fortunate enough to be able to take a long journey, this is a good time to start.

June 18th (Moon trine Neptune): Forget the halcyon days of the past; there are plenty of opportunities around, with success possible if you will only go after it. But don't try to haggle with Fortune. This is a good time to do some hefty spade work.

June 22nd (Venus sextile Neptune): There is an aura of contentment in the Venus and Neptune vibrations that should make you feel serene. Remember that your disposition is the setting of your personality—it reflects the full beauty of your spirit.

June 24th (Sun sextile Mars): Do you like to sing before breakfast? Do so this morning without fear of superstitious taboos, as the first good aspect of the day is a sextile between the Sun and Mars, giving clarity of mind and intuitive ability. Start the day in a cheerful mood and keep it that way.

July 2nd (Mercury sextile Neptune): Figure out how to develop the plans you have already made. Mental preparation will help clear obstacles out of your way, make it possible for details to fall smoothly into place, and assure willing cooperation from associates.

July 3rd (Venus sextile Jupiter): By being mentally enterprising and adventurous, you may hit on an original notion that will help you win a contest or an award. Or perhaps your ingenuity will find an answer to a transportation problem.

July 4th (Venus sextile Uranus): Good news should cause your hopes to soar while Venus and Uranus are in sextile aspect. These vibrations should enable you to form a philosophical viewpoint about most questions, and give you the insight to size up each situation realistically.

July 9th (Moon trine Saturn): While the Moon and Saturn are in trine aspect, start things that can be of enduring profit. Improve your surroundings and your appearance, but don't spend more than you can afford.

July 16th (Moon trine Jupiter): The Moon-Jupiter trine is a wonderful aspect for turning efforts into cash. Invest part of your gains in the future of your country by purchasing a government bond. Even small denominations do a big job!

July 21st (Sun conjoined Saturn): Expedite routine tasks; balance your budget; check your bank account; and do other practical jobs that require headwork. Be methodical in your ideas—don't let yourself be lured into flights of fancy.

July 29th (Sun. sextile Neptune): A favor may be granted you if your demand is reasonable or your excuse for asking it plausible. A person you meet for the first time may supply helpful, useful advice.

July 30th (Jupiter trine Uranus): You may have a chance to take a trip with a person important in your business plans. Or an association formed today may develop into a pleasant relationship in the future.

August 7th (Mercury sextile Neptune): Hold on to every bright idea that occurs to you—don't let it fall by the wayside. By developing your inspirations into practicalities you can gain increased income and a new interest in life.

August 10th (Venus sextile Saturn): If you are invited to a social function, go—even though you think the party will be dull. By contributing to the fun and humor of the occasion you'll greatly increase your popularity!

August 11th (Mars sextile Saturn): Help your future along by doing something unique while Mars is sextile Saturn. Sitting back with folded hands will get you nowhere. Use initiative in matters of love, business, and government service.

August 14th (Sun sextile Uranus): If you wish to prove your worth to someone who has faith in your ability, tackle current problems with briskness. Almost anything you try should land you on top. Have faith in your resourcefulness.

August 16th (Sun sextile Jupiter): The Sun-Jupiter sextile may induce a relative to name you beneficiary of a trust fund or insurance policy. Or, you may receive a present of a government bond.

August 18th (Mercury sextile Neptune): If you have it in your power to grant favors, bestow as many as you can. Your generosity will be multiplied a thousandfold by its own momentum. Follow the Golden Rule.

August 21st (Moon trine Jupiter): You may be able to turn the corner in a financial transaction while the Moon and Jupiter are in friendly aspect. Pay your bills promptly, and deposit the balance in your savings account.

August 30th (Venus sextile Mercury): You may hear of an exciting episode that happened during the night. Before the day is done, however, several more agreeable experiences should occur, including social pleasures.

September 1st (Venus conjoined Jupiter): You should be able to contribute to the spontaneity of a gathering by making a few enlivening remarks. If you are in the market for wearing apparel, watch the fashion trends.

September 6th (Moon trine Sun): There may be talk about a promotion for you. Be confident about your abilities, and make it plain that you are practical as well as broad-minded.

September 10th (Moon trine Venus): You should find it easy to settle a debt or get worries off your mind. Shop for bargains in clothes and decorative needs.

September 18th (Moon trine Jupiter): You should be able to achieve distinction by making an ingenious suggestion that can help solve a complex financial problem. In the evening, write letters or read a book on occult philosophy.

September 22nd (Mercury sextile Saturn): Your intuitions about household matters should be accurate and reliable. Talk things over with your family. Even a serious blunder can be patched up without causing a break in the domestic routine.

September 30th (Sun sextile Saturn): Buy books, magazines, and newspapers to keep your mind busy, and add to your general store of knowledge. Ask for a favor if you need one; and return past generosity if you can.

October 2nd (Mercury trine Uranus): Listen to the radio, and write down ideas that you think should be broadcast. One or two may be worth incorporating in a future program. Also attend to neglected correspondence.

October 8th (Moon trine Mars): Your self-reliance may help to put you across with someone you want to impress. Also consider the good results that can be derived by taking physical training or exercise during your leisure hours.

October 9th (Mercury conjoined Jupiter): If in need of employment, take the position offered, even if it is outside the type of occupation with which you are familiar. Although you may regard it as a temporary job, the knowledge gained may be useful some day.

October 15th (Moon trine Sun): Talk things over with your family before you leave the house, particularly if you intend to buy something that involves considerable expense. By arranging the details in advance, you will save time and money.

October 24th (Moon conjoined Sun): A new idea for assuming leadership in your community may occur to you. Figure out how you can use the plan—even though it may not seem practical at the moment.

October 27th (Moon trine Saturn): You may get help in restoring something that was broken inadvertently. Or a friend may return a loan before the date of maturity.

October 31st (Sun conjoined Jupiter): Added responsibility may come with your chance for advancement. Although it may take a lot of extra effort, you should be able to handle the job efficiently.

November 4th (Moon trine Sun): Finish those odds and ends of your work today. Look over your old clothes and give the ones you are not wearing to someone who can use them, or to a charity organization.

November 10th (Moon trine Nept-tune): Get out among people, if you are looking for inspiration. You may meet a clever person who will provide new ideas and lead you toward a path of creative effort.

November 13th (Moon trine Venus): Prepare for a trip, or arrange a party—the vibrations of the Moon-Venus trine are favorable for planning such pleasure. Buy gifts and be kind to others.

November 17th (Sun conjoined Venus): You can go far in artistic or other creative work, with the help of good taste. Buy something new to wear—you should be able to get the material and style you like.

November 18th (Mars trine Saturn): Due to the harmonious vibrations of the Mars-Saturn trine, protective forces will guard you and your home. Plan and work out changes in the decoration of your rooms, with the help of attractive color charts.

November 20th (Mars sextile Neptune): Information acquired from a friend may prove of great value in giving you peace of mind. Also you may get a chance to use your imagination in a game of skill.

November 21st (Mercury conjoined Sun): If you are preparing for an examination, interview, or contest, spend a few hours on study. The knowledge you acquire should help you win a higher score.

November 30th (Moon trine Uranus): The smiles of approval from your life-mate should encourage you to a higher and more sustained effort. Make that confidence a badge of honor to which you will always pledge your utmost.

December 1st (Sun trine Saturn): You may find yourself highly pleased in discovering a definite trend toward settling some snarled domestic matters that have been disturbing you for a long time.

December 3rd (Sun sextile Neptune): If happiness is a state of mind,

AROYAL flush of problems involving family, home, associates and foreign matters seem to be indicated for ALL Rams. Keep a level head right at the start of the year and do some advance planning in order to avoid confusion.

If you celebrate your birthday in March, you should note the period from January 2nd to 10th as adverse to laying down the law with partner and business associates.

If you are a Mars maiden, let this apply to your relation with friend, husband, or sweetheart. Not the time to iron out any grievances!

The same goes for those born in April—between January 11th and 22nd. Also steer clear of correspondence of a private nature in the period between the 15th and the 27th of January.

An improvement of vibrations should be noticeable after the 22nd of the month to the middle of February by ALL. You should be as busy as a robin in strawberry time. Attend to the following interests: literary and mental pursuits, that neglected private correspondence as well as important business mail. Affix legal signatures.

The social side of your life is very much to the fore after January 23rd. Combine business and pleasure—entertain customer and client and generally put your best foot forward. March-born Rams are favored for these interests in January (23rd to 31st) while April-born Rams should find February, until the 17th, extremely propitious in this respect.

Your personal magnetism is greatly enhanced then. Encourage your urge for self-expression through literature and art. Note that this period is especially favorable for public appearances, radio broadcasts, auditions and important interviews. Some worthwhile, long coveted contracts may now be signed by the artist, writer, musician or actor.

If your birthday falls on April 16th, 17th, or 18th, you will undoubtedly find February a favorable month for important changes in office or place of work. You may take the initiative and ask for better salary terms (if in employ) or, if you are the boss, you may be gratified by the smooth culmination of negotiations which may have been pending for some time. Redress in court or legal technicalities are also favored in February.

Marriage aspects are very fine this month (February)—until the 16th inclusive. Reconciliations, friendships and all affectional interests should be pushed if you are of the weaker sex and fall into the above group.

Mixed vibrations confront those who saw the light from April 3rd to 10th, throughout

ARIES

February and March. Health needs careful attention to prevent colds which may manifest in the Zodiacaal Aries affliction—sinus trouble.

ALL Arians should note the following hypercritical days: March 15th to 24th inclusive, when Mars and Saturn are cheek by jowl in the sign of their debility, Cancer. Guard against fires through carelessness, accidents while speeding on the highway, and damage because of neglect and forgetfulness. Apply the law of avoidance when tense situations give your nerves the third degree. Keep tongue in cheek. And of course this is not a time for reckless spending. Be frugal and moderate in all you do.

Unusual benefits may await those who saw the light on April 1st or 2nd, throughout the first three months of 1946. Exercise the affections and encourage courtship and those delicate relationships of the heart. "Soul mating," a platonic friendship or a devotion of an unusual nature are on your astral calendar for this entire Winter quarter.

If engaged in art work, connected with stage, radio, screen, or concert platform, you may find honor if not fame thrust upon you. All self-expression and creative work should be diligently attended to.

Changes occurring in no uncertain manner are in store for those who celebrate their birthday on April 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th. Your date has been repeatedly mentioned in this column, which corroborates the testimony of your stars that the beginning of 1946 should be an important period in your life if not a turning point in your destiny. Be on the alert for strokes of fortune and follow through on all opportunities and contacts.

Sun., Mar. 31—Certain aspects today seem to increase your energy, but can also tend toward extravagance. Avoid carelessness; you had better be slow and deliberate.

WHENEVER accent falls on "Venus" in the sky, ALL Bulls should consider themselves favored. This is the case right now.

Venus, your ruler, shines from your favorable sign Capricorn up to January 22nd. At the same time the Venus sign Libra is stimulated by Jupiter and Neptune, friendly in your Mansion of work.

Quite obviously this means that you should put your shoulder to the wheel—and try to accomplish something constructive and lucrative on the material plane.

The first three weeks in January demand that you use the smile. Put social, affectional and artistic interests first on your program. Career and business matters are also favorably indicated. Take advantage of your personality in your job.

If it is possible for you to combine business and pleasure, do so by all means. Make new contacts socially—that opponent at golf or bridge may become a partner in the office. Do a little spending for entertainment, for clothes, for dining and wining an important customer or client—and enjoy yourself! Accept invitations, and visit relatives and friends.

This goes for ALL between January 1st and 22nd, and again between February 16th and March 10th.

This latter period is additionally excellent for the intimate things in your life. It places accent on marriage, domestic adjustments, family matters, as well as upon all artistic aspirations. This includes projection of art through mechanical means such as screen, radio, or television.

If your birthday falls in May, between the 12th and 20th, you are cautioned against legal squabbles with associates in January and up to February 15th. If you saw the light on May 8th, 9th, 10th or 11th, you should be extra careful in such matters between the middle of February and the end of March.

All court proceedings should be tackled with a grain of Saturn if you belong to the above groups. If you are a Venus belle—or matron—avoid hostile action against the man in your life. Do not allow your emotions to cause you to write unfriendly notes. Be selective in your choice of words. Blunt speech, ugly thoughts, hostile sentiments are taboo for all those engaged in a romantic entanglement. A "word unspoken" sometimes turns out to be a blessing at a later date. Hold back the angry tongue!

Benefited in place of work, office and shop are those with birthdays between the 15th and 20th of May, throughout the entire quarter. These vibrations are good for action and initiative until February 15th; after that, until the end of March, avoid aggressiveness. This second period is fine for a receptive attitude. Maintain a "watchful waiting" policy in all partnership and romantic interests.

ALL Bulls are favored for correspondence, literary matters, publicity and advertising between January 10th and 28th inclusive. This period is excellent for technical matters, legal signatures, contracts and agreements, both verbal and written. Deeds, valuable papers, diplomas, visas and passports—all are splendidly stimulated during this time. However, note the period between January 29th and February 15th as adverse for such interests for all.

The undercurrents for stability and wholesome practicality are very prominent at this time. There may be some fluctuating aspects regarding money matters for a few in this sign. Whether or not you are affected, your individual horoscope will show.

If you saw the light on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th of May, problems may surround housing conditions, or family and home interests. Real estate business should be cautiously handled by those whose work ties up with this field. Weigh carefully all decisions concerning tangible assets.

However, the majority of planet rays smile upon ALL Bulls during the first three months of 1946 with this general advice: those born in the first decan (April), should produce along creative lines and stay away from all speculative ventures; those belonging to the second decan (May 1st to 10th) should turn their attention to solidification of their vocational interests; and those born in the third decan of Taurus (May 11th to 20th) should do deliberate planning for material gains.

“URANUS sure works!” is likely to be a sigh of relief for those Twins whose past has been marked by pivotal changes. The private life, the career, or both undoubtedly got a rough overhauling at some time or another during the year of 1945.

Now 1946 brings solidity and stability. New vistas for most are indicated along new grooves for economic supply. Main thing: keep an open-minded attitude when changes present themselves.

Those who saw the light on June 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th or 6th especially, should be on the alert for new ventures and adjustments in their private circle. These vibrations are of a large scope, and operate during the first three months of 1946.

Those of this group should note the periods between January 25th and February 24th, and March 9th to the end of the month, as extra favorable for initiative in behalf of personal, career or job adjustments. Follow through on all new contacts made, and carry out important plans.

May-born Twins are under friendly, subtle and inspirational rays. They form an undercurrent of deeply submerged urges of a creative vein for new ideas that may not at present be marketable, however. Yet, if you put your shoulder to the wheel of progress and create along original lines, different from your previous occupation, you will bless the day and planet (Neptune) which was responsible for your fresh thoughts. These may bring renown, remuneration and recognition later.

Those with a May birthday should curb initiative between February 15th and 28th, but push material interests at the end of January—between the 21st and 31st of that month.

Twins born on June 1st, 2nd or 3rd (last two dates mentioned previously) are under very peculiar aspects during this quarter of the year which are difficult to define. Benefits through relatives or an underling may surprise—even startle—you. Job interests are involved.

But there is also a strange, miraculous, aspect falling on health: a new therapeutic system or theory may prove helpful in effecting a cure—your own or someone else's—because of your aid. Substantial material recompense in this connection is indicated for you.

You may also contact a future boss or job while on a journey. You may befriend someone while en route and such unusually formed acquaintances may prove valuable friends in the future.

Financial affairs for those born between June 10th and 20th are under practical, fortunate rays for gain or promotion, in a word for material advancement, between January 1st and 11th. Use initiative then, solicit important interviews, ask favors—put your best foot forward in business matters of tangible nature. However, change your tactics to a receptive attitude between February 12th and the end of March.

Mercury maidens or matrons of such a birth-date should note these dates as good for relations with opposite sex—including marriage. All affectional matters, friendships and social contacts are under constructive influences at this time; they promise to bring lucrative returns.

ALL Twins are under extremely propelling aspects between January 21st and February 15th. The following interests should then be pushed: literary and mental pursuits; that neglected private correspondence; legal signatures. Look up valuable papers, policies, premiums, insurance matters, deeds, recordings, diplomas.

Romance and the various sides of your private life should now be diligently gone after. Bring courtship to culmination—let it be “either this or that”. Force issues to a showdown, but remember, your methods should be friendly, affable and “Venusian”—keep smiling! A generally adverse period for ALL in these matters of the heart is February 16th to March 10th. Apply the law of avoidance then.

Note the period March 4th to 17th as important in confidential, clandestine affairs and silent backing, if your birthday falls in May.

A sluggish negative aspect operates between the middle and end of March as regards initiative. This affects all those with a May or late June birthday.

NO matter what has been said pro or con this transit of Mars and Saturn through your sign, now is the time to be emphatic and warn you: watch out! 1946 arrives with such hyper-potential currents and such contradictory criss-cross rays that ALL Moon children must be on the alert every minute of the time.

Your best policy will be to carry on with the momentum of the past few weeks. Avoid detours and changes. Ride on in the same groove and avoid unpleasant spills.

The latter may present themselves in the form of money shortage, unexpected obligations, uncongenial home surroundings or friction in place of work, not to forget the intimacy in your life.

You will have plenty of occasion to curb your over-sensitivity. Don't let your imagination run away with your good judgment.

ALL Crabs are thusly affected with this specification: if you were born in June, you should endeavor to avoid confusion in all affairs. Misunderstandings in the family circle can best be tackled with silence until January 27th. Plan explanations and show-downs for February when the undertone in your horoscope is impersonal and conciliatory.

If you are a July-born Crab, the repercussion of a Cardinal Cross is apt to affect your health. You may be bothered by indigestion or physical fatigue because of impaired metabolism. You should remember to budget religiously. Don't overdo things in work or play, in January and February.

Cancer-born are often of a secretive nature with some of their most vital experiences taking place on the inner plane. Here is where you are favored: a wealth of new creative ideas may spring from your brain. If you are mechanically or scientifically inclined, you should burn the midnight oil in laboratory, library or archives. Something very worth-while is indicated along inspirational lines.

However, do not expect to market your ideas right away if you desire to get a good price for your brain child. Mental and artistic output may be generously recompensed at a later date, if you have the patience to wait for the right moment. This is the time to sow—not to harvest.

If you were born on July 18th, 19th, 20th or 21st, you may find a great blessing to come to you through home, family or some private relationship. A sale of importance may present itself (real estate). The deal may drag a little, but don't let this discourage you, and don't take "no" for an answer. Note that contacts made in January, up to the 22nd, should be followed up after the middle of June.

CANCER

Moon maidens, if born in June, should encourage heart affairs the first half of January, and again between the 15th and 28th of February.

The July-born ladies should mark the second half of January, up to the 27th, and the period March 1st to 11th inclusive, as favorable for romance. The whole of February, through March 10th, may present problems of a private nature for those who celebrate their birthdays around the Fourth of July (3rd, 4th and 5th). The affectional side of your life may be jeopardized. Of course this may be due to your own sensitivity, so don't carry a chip on your shoulder. Be lenient with minors if you are a parent or a school teacher. Practice forbearance.

If your birthday falls on July 6th, 7th, or 8th, you may feel the repercussions of the Eclipse of January 3rd which may affect your health and frame of mind. Avoid moody brooding and over-introversion. Banish self-pity and bitterness.

If you saw the light on July 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, or 13th, you may be harassed by unavoidable delays which may temporarily clog up the wheels of your progress. Remember, this is not a propitious time for personal interviews or public appearances. However, these months are splendid for application to some specific task involving painstaking efforts. This may be the writing of a book or the studying for a diploma. Your powers of concentration and mental continuity should be excellently stimulated.

ALL Crabs must remember: the first three months are not favorable for projecting your personality to advantage. Happy-go-lucky artist's tactics are bound to fail. You must produce—because quality alone can stand the test of Saturn.

LIONS like to have the aspects of destiny presented to them in a positive manner: well, the outlook is good!

The mental ruler Mercury in a fire sign right at the beginning of 1946 bestows optimism. Tackle your problems with a sense of victory, and success should crown your efforts.

Subdue opposition in your private life but by no means use coercion. Plans for home adjustments may remain static until February 21st; after that, you can progress more firmly in bringing issues concerning your family to culmination.

Some spending may be done to promote career or professional interests. Expenses may present themselves for advertising, publicity, circularizing or dissemination of facts up to January 13th. Then let thrift rule until March 3rd.

While the above advice is directed to ALL Leos, there is a very propitious ray operating for those born on July 30th, 31st, August 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th, in January and February. This same influence is in power in March for those with birthdays on August 6th, 7th or 8th.

Here are some of the things you should do: use initiative in whatever ambitious undertakings present themselves in business or career matters. Encourage all contacts when mutual interests are in the picture. The legal and financial outlook is also excellent during this period.

Leo ladies of such a birth-date are very much favored in their dealings with the opposite sex during this entire quarter. The period between January 23rd and March 15th in particular, should be marked in "rose-color" in this respect.

Marriage, friendships, social functions of an important scope—even public appearances for the child of art—are then to the fore. All affectional matters, reconciliations and new acquaintanceships are positively indicated.

While all this applies particularly to those falling in the above group, ALL Leo-born should benefit from propelling rays between January 21st and March 15th. Project your dynamic personality then, and push artistic, social and emotional aspirations. The stars are encouraging.

The literary aspects are simultaneously favorable. Note January 28th to March 15th as propitious for correspondence, signatures and legal affairs. Literature, compositions, studies, examinations and scientific interests also are on the list of lucky planets.

Those of a practical, prosaic vein, or those whose problems demand hard-boiled sobriety, are favored between January 1st and February 11th, if they are August Leos with birthdays on the 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd or 23rd.

Promotion, merchandising, journeys in the interest of business, and technical matters are all excellently indicated for you, with this proviso: use initiative and go after new customers and clients until February 11th. Between February 12th and the end of March more receptive tactics are advisable. Maintain a "watchful waiting" attitude then, and await results of your energetic efforts of the earlier period.

The July-born Leonians face a splendid time for foreign matters, export, import, linguistic pursuits and long-range communications between March 4th and 17th. If you have literary ambitions with big aims, such as publications, the writing of a book, translations or important foreign correspondence, mark this period as extra-fine on your calendar.

Sometimes life brings subtle, indefinable, intangible values into your existence. Inspirational matters, scientific findings, laboratory research, even four-dimensional verities—all of these are fortunately indicated for those celebrating their birthdays on August 2nd, 3rd or 4th. Do not close the door to higher enlightenment because remuneration for such interests seems remote. When the golden harvest follows on the heels of these activities, it may surprise you by its overwhelming scope.

You may benefit from a philanthropic impulse of a total stranger or a distant relative. By the same token, good deeds done at this time on your part are apt to bring pleasant returns at a later date.

Inheritances and benefits from insurance policies may be the fortunate lot of those born on July 29th, 30th or 31st.

THE first days of January (until the 10th) are adverse for the September-born Virgoans. Do not swing into operation until after the 10th. Be particularly careful of all written matters, publicity and public statements.

This very same period however is propitious for August-born Mercury folk. Affairs of the heart should be stressed. The Mansion of your solarscope ruling the social side and intimacy in your life is now emphasized by the transit of Venus in the ambitious sign of Capricorn. Public appearances and all artistic pursuits also are favored, between January 1st and 8th.

After the 9th, to the 17th inclusive, vibrations change into mental channels for those with an August birth-date. Correspondence, literary pursuits, signatures and advertising, and short journeys in the interest of business, are then to the fore.

If your birthday falls between September 1st and 22nd, you will find the period from January 10th to 28th splendid for affectional and mental aspirations. Because of the close proximity of Mercury, ruling the mind, and Venus, the planet of arts and beauty, you may combine business and pleasure, and burn the candle on either end—work and fun, study and romance, foe and friend—tackle them all. Make the most of these eighteen days!

Neutral vibrations operate for ALL Virgins between January 25th and February 15th. Such aspects are best made use of by planning your program a little ahead. Follow a practical, sober and conservative itinerary whenever legality is involved. Relations with family, friends and associates should be handled with kid gloves. Avoid explanations, polemic, controversy; agree with your adversary, give in or else, keep still.

A very important period begins on February 16th when the exalted Venus in Pisces holds hands with Mercury in exact conjunction. This takes place at the apex of your solarscope—hence it favors your dealings with associates, partners (the conjugal mate included), in fact all matters of human relations. Correspondence as well as verbal agreements are positively indicated. This vibration is in force until March 10th and affects ALL.

This would be a logical time to push teamwork and unions. Marriage is favorably indicated, as are all courtships and friendships. Give the latter your whole-hearted attention. If friction has marred intimacies or family relationships in the past, encourage reconciliations now. The period is also excellent for dealings with minors, small children, and educational matters. This applies particularly to teachers, parents, and social workers.

The second half of March is neutral in all respects, and therefore much what you make of it.

Here are some special tips to special folk: Those who saw the light on September 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th or 8th, should note that Uranus is still roaring around, bringing some underground stimuli that are likely to manifest in drastic changes. These are apt to come like a bolt out of the blue and at a time when they are least expected.

Therefore it behooves you to curb initiative, if it should be a case of marital separation. Don't get Reno-vated now. Do not try to sever business ties or contract terms at this time. Don't change your job—you will only leap from the frying pan into the fire.

Sometimes the adage that one should not change horses in mid-stream applies to our most prosaic interests. This goes to the above group as general advice for the whole first quarter of 1946.

Again harken—ALL Virgins! You are under the most excellent, stimulating undercurrents for some splendid far-reaching adjustments during January, February and March. You may feel propelled to "settle up and settle down"—in spite of your reputed celibatic inclination. The anchorage of a permanent home may lure you in rosy colors. Marriage may be an irresistible impulse, and what's more, Mr. and Miss Right may now be in the picture!

ALL children of the restless Mercury should follow this call!

THE expansion rays of Jupiter in your own Zodiacal sign may be somewhat curbed by the affliction from Saturn and Mars in Cancer.

However, you are bound to feel the benign effect of the Jupiter transit in many ways. You may make new and valuable contacts along social channels—which is often a major Libra asset. In career and professional matters, too, some definite benefit may await you. The "breaks" may surprise you by their timeliness—they may come when you need them most.

If you were born late in September or on October 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th, 1946 should sail in with wonderful promises. Financial harvest may materialize in a unique manner which may startle you. This may come in the form of a reward for past efforts which you may have forgotten all about. Something you had charged to "loss" may suddenly pop up again—with golden recompense.

By the same token, if you are engaged in unusual tasks of altruistic or philanthropic nature, you may derive deep-rooted satisfaction from your work during mid-Summer or in the Fall of 1946. So do your good deeds and contribute your tithe to humanity now. It pays to be kind.

If your birthday falls on October 6th, 7th, 8th or 9th, you must watch your health between February 3rd and March 13th. Your personal magnetism is not up to par. Avoid situations which call for geniality and an affable bearing on your part. Important interviews should be tackled with conservatism and greatest tact.

The best period for social graces, artistic endeavors and affectional matters for the October-born Libran should be January 23rd to February 15th inclusive. Hold out the olive branch, take the initiative in matters of human relations and, generally, engage in the brighter side of life. This is a good time for courtship, proposals and marriage, as is also the period from March 17th to 31st.

Splendid aspects for the September-born Venus child operate the last week of January and from March 11th to 17th inclusive, as regards romance and matrimony. However, if you do not mean to waltz down the aisle, or if romance is not heading the list of your aspirations, then utilize those fine vibrations for social conquest, philanthropic work and artistic pursuits.

Friction with the boss or a tilt with authorities is not unlikely for those who celebrate their birthdays between October 7th and 17th. Don't quit your job now because you feel conditions in your place of work are intolerable. Don't let the mannerisms of a superior annoy you. Strife and legal squabbles should be avoided in February and March. Also, guard health—build up your physical resistance.

For those born on October 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th or 21st the year may usher in some contradictory, harassing conditions. However, vibrations should improve in mid-January and become increasingly better until the middle of February. Therefore plan your major moves for this period (Jan. 15th to February 16th). Use initiative. Solicit favors and important interviews. Approach clients and customers. This is a splendid time for circularization through the mails, advertising in newspapers, or for blowing your own horn. Marriage is also favorably indicated for the Libra ladies of these birthdays.

After February 17th—until the end of March—the vibrations are static but good. However, be receptive to them and await results of your efforts of late January and early February.

These influences are somewhat critical, and confused for the previously mentioned group, born on October 6th, 7th, or 8th. It means this: old doors may close and new ones suddenly open wide for you. New loves for old in romance.

The Cardinal Cross operating in the last decan of Libra-Cancer, and the Capricorn Eclipse in the second decanate cannot help make themselves felt in whatever department of your individual horoscope they fall.

LIFE cannot always be judged by its outer appearance. Sometimes deeply hidden motivations may germinate in your affairs—often without your knowing it. Then suddenly these secret forces blossom into visible, tangible, if not lucrative, results.

The first quarter of 1946 should bring such aspects for most Scorpions. If you saw the light any day between November 10th and 20th inclusive, you should note January and February as favorable for groundwork in job or career. Maintain a long-range perspective and don't expect immediate results. Tangible assets, investments which require time to mature, and all Saturnian commodities and interests are to the fore. These include tracts of timber land, factory sites, mining projects; construction work involving cement and steel; printing, publishing and engineering.

What about marriage, courtship, friendships? The answer to both sexes is yes, if some deep-rooted mutual interest serves as a mental bond between the lovers. Frothy infatuations, flirtations, petting and necking are counter-indicated. Discard flippant affairs of the heart. Steer for deep waters only in all affectional expression. A splendid vibration operates for a merging of romance and professional interests, and for scientific research spiced with friendship or love.

While the first three weeks in January are very fortunate for ALL Scorpio-born for the above mentioned matters, a slightly adverse period prevails between January 25th and the middle of February. But the time between March 11th and April 4th inclusive should be auspicious again, inviting the happier, brighter side of life.

If your birthday falls right on the brink of November (1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th), handle foreigners and all foreign matter with extreme caution and tact. You don't have to display suspicion if you come in contact with people of another tongue. Just don't be too credulous or too garrulous. Let a stand-off attitude, coupled with friendly dignity, mark your conduct if unusual propositions should be broached to you from such quarters.

If your affairs carry you to foreign countries, select a safe means of transportation at the risk of thus prolonging your journey. Also guard against causing accidents, fires or physical injuries by mere negligence or haste.

Some legal redress may gladden your heart if you celebrate your birthday on any day between November 7th and 11th inclusive, during February and March. Note particularly the period between March 10th and the end of the month as highly beneficial.

Unique aspects may surround legal rulings, some old bones dug up from the past, long since forgotten or discarded. Now they may spring up again for a new hearing and a better verdict in your behalf. This, too, may involve contacts with foreign countries, or associates of a different nationality than yours.

A delicate, clandestine, romance may spice the existence of the October-born Mars maidens and men. The element of unconventionality may perhaps make such relationships appear undesirable at first. But the hand of Fate should work diligently on your side and what may seem an insurmountable obstacle may vanish like a mirage.

Such affairs can be very constructive and stimulating, especially if a mutual interest—literary, artistic or scientific—marks your attraction.

While all of the first three months of 1946 are thus favored, we beg you to note the last ten days of March as extra-fine for any ties resulting from clandestine unions. This includes secret backings of commercial or artistic enterprises, or silent partnerships in business. Although verbal agreements are under good vibrations, you would do well in postponing important signatures until the early Fall.

March should be a strongly activated month for those with birthdays on November 3rd, 4th, 5th or 6th. Business trips, reconnoitering of new professional outlets, circularizing and advertising are then all to the fore.

If you are a Mars maiden, and fall in the above group, your personal sex appeal should be greatly enhanced. A newcomer may loom on the romantic horizon—with definite accent on matrimony!

Tue., Mar. 26—An upsetting day for creative and mental workers. Scheduled events may go haywire. If intuition warns you against any activity, heed the inner voice. Keep cool.

Wed., Mar. 27—With a very questionable outlook this morning, it is well to go slow in business and financial enterprises. Don't forget your routine matters, though. Evening prospects very good for friends, a show.

Thu., Mar. 28—Circumstances support you better today. Mechanical matters command a good deal of attention, and you have promising aspects for success in work and play.

Fri., Mar. 29—A good deal of stability shows in business and industrial matters, with opportunity for originality. The afternoon is good for purposes of home and social gaiety.

Sat., Mar. 30—Give first attention to your work this morning; important news developments may come up. Bring plans to completion, if possible, then get out into the open for amusement and relaxation.

Sun., Mar. 31—Studied plans may help you handle situations which can arise today. Do not let worry spoil your day. Attend church. Friendly afternoon vibrations ease matters.

MENTAL vibrations of a most stimulating nature usher in the year with Mercury in your own sign. Hence all literary aspirations, and correspondence both private and business, can now be attended to with hopes for success.

If you are a December Archer you are favored for such activities until January 9th inclusive. If you were born in November, you should feel the effect of this mental stimulus in career interests, no matter whether artistic, scientific or literary. The strict, hard-boiled kind of business is less favored. Law and technicalities should be handled carefully and directed by competent legal counsel only.

ALL Archers are under the influence of another very propitious ray from January 20th until February 15th. The vibration is so excellent that you really ought to plan something worth-while for this period. It introduces dual rays—from both Venus and Mercury in your favorable, mental sign Aquarius. Responding readily to reason and being met on mental grounds is a major Archer asset—so this vibration is just down your line.

Stress affectional interests then, relationship with kin—near and distant—including inlaws. Journeys are to the fore especially those in the interest of business, as are short trips, cruises, outings. If neighbors have been annoying you in the past—now is the time for you to hold out the olive branch. A mere gesture expressing a conciliatory attitude will work wonders where strained relations reigned in the past—just watch! Remember, the word is more powerful than the sword!

Correspondence of every kind is again favored. But the undercurrents of originality also encourage advertising, publicity, circularizing through the mails, and the "grand ballyhoo"—no matter how bizarre and unusual. This is the time to follow the Chinese axiom that one should blow one's own horn.

This goes for ALL Sagittarians. Those born in November should put their best foot forward between January 20th and 31st, while those with birthdays in December, should proceed full steam in February up to the 15th.

Now to the good old Archer heart: neutral vibrations reign until January 22nd for affectional and social interests. After that, between January 23rd and February 15th, a new set of aspects favors you for romance, marriage, friendships, reconciliations and social graces. From February 16th on, however, these influences are definitely adverse for all affairs requiring personality and charm—until March 11th. Between March 12th and 31st they are again auspicious, stimulating particularly the domestic side of your life.

During the friendly periods, make an inventory of your mind and clean up, discarding the rubbish of all hostile thoughts. You may pen those endearing notes, convey them in person, or use mechanical means of communication such as telephone or telegraph. Use initiative, go after important higher-ups, solicit interviews even if these imply journeys to different localities.

These two periods are the best for large social gatherings, public functions and appearances, philanthropic interests and courtship, and last but not least—marriage. Honeymoon time is best planned for the earlier period (January-February). If you celebrate your nuptials in March, stress social gaiety in the form of receptions, and minimize the honeymoon traveling on Hymene's program.

Here are special words to special folk: those who saw the light on December 5th, 6th, 7th or 8th, should not burn bridges behind them in matters relating to associations and partners. This applied to matrimonial squabbles, means: don't rush to Reno. Follow the law of avoidance if friction should threaten in your private or business life. You are under disruptive rays throughout the first quarter of 1946. It is possible that people may go out of your life. Let the hand of Fate do the removing—not you. Do not break a cycle violently.

Splendidly stimulated for inspirational affairs, creative work, science, engineering and unusual pursuits generally are those whose birthdays fall on December 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th, during January, February and March. Unique benefits may come your way when you expect them least.

THE first three weeks of January are most encouraging for ALL Goats, regardless of specific birthday dates. Work with personality and social graces. If you are a child of art and music, if your job takes you before the public, or if you generally use your personality in your work, you should plan something worth-while for this propitious period.

Romance, courtship, proposals and marriage are very much favored, as are reconciliations, if friction and misunderstandings have marred affectional interests in the past. Friendships and social aspirations are all under very fortunate rays.

Note the period between January 10th and 29th as particularly friendly to correspondence, all written matter including legal papers and signatures, publicity and advertising. Short trips in the interest of career or business are also harmoniously indicated for that time.

January is unquestionably your best period during this quarter of the year. Make the most of it. February is generally neutral unless your individual horoscope shows special emphasis from planets in important houses.

However, there is a general undercurrent from Mars and Saturn which might prove rather unpleasant unless it is handled carefully. As this operates in your Mansion of associates, it may mean that some legal difficulties may arise. These may lead to financial loss, damages, or payments ruled against you, if you were born in January—on the 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th or 19th. Hands off your purse-strings! Don't let your Saturnian bluntness cause offense. Be tolerant and understanding with associates—in business and private life.

The period between February 9th and March 17th is liable to be rife with problems of above nature for those who saw the light on January 3rd, 4th, 5th or 6th. The ecliptic penumbra now casts gloom into the money house of your boss. Curtailment of pay, demotion or open rift with a superior may mar your progress during this period. Demonstrate your Capricornian virtue patience. This is not the time to force issues or burn bridges behind yourself.

Friendship and affectional interests are neutral for ALL until the last week in January through February 15th. After that, Venus, in her exaltation, radiates excellent rays for the lighter side of life—until March 3rd.

This is what you should do: solicit favors from higher-ups or those with prestige and power. Court the public. Push career matters along social lines. Combine business and pleasure. Venus commodities are favorably indicated such as perfumes, finery, art objects; but also fashion shows, amusements, entertainments and philanthropical affairs. An excellent time for reconciliations, proposals and marriage.

However, the period between March 4th and the end of March is downright adverse for such matters if you celebrate your birthday in December. Overlook disharmony if it should exist in your love life. If you contact the public in your work, use conservative methods. Avoid the bizarre and unusual and steer on even keel in all you do.

Some Capricornians may find the Winter months to be rather trying as regards their state of health. Colds, sinus trouble and acidosis may bother you. You may not be able to shake off the flu or gripe. Those who saw the light on January 8th, 9th, 10th or 11th, should pay special attention to their physical condition. Don't take a cold lightly. Diet carefully.

If you were born on January 1st or 2nd, you may enjoy a unique undercurrent from the Mansion of "other people's money." This may mean an unexpected legacy or gift. But because career matters are also aspected, you may be surprised by someone taking great interest in your work. Silent partnerships and secret backings are not improbable.

Fame, public recognition, patronage or a gratifying promotion may surprise you, if your birthday falls late in December. This is especially true for those of an artistic or literary vein. You may bask in the lime-light of general popularity. Unique publicity may be the result of a startling event which you may happen to witness. Best period: March 15th to 31st.

ALL Aquarians will soon feel that they will have a lot to say about their practical affairs during this quarter of the year. Therefore plan ahead now.

February-born Uranus children should systematize work and play, actions and plans between January 1st and 10th. Clean those cluttered drawers and attend to that neglected correspondence! Go after business and people. Short journeys are favored.

It is not until January 21st, however, that the full force of constructive rays begins to shine for ALL Aquarians.

January-born Uranians can count on the last ten days of January to usher in social aspects for the brighter side of life. Artistic pursuits, affectional interests and philanthropic affairs are then to the fore.

February 1st to 16th is excellent for those who saw the light in February. Venus then holds hands with Mercury in your own sign. This period is splendidly activated for the most daring exploits of the heart—engagements, marriage, reconciliations, new loves for old! Public appearances for the child of art, exhibits, fashion shows, important social functions, publicity—are all favorably indicated during this time. These two weeks are among the best in 1946. So it behooves you to plan something worthwhile for that span.

If your birthday falls between February 14th and 19th inclusive, note all of January and the first half of February as introducing propelling rays for practical, financial and legal affairs. Sales, even if they constitute good riddance, culminations of deals which have been pending for some time, a redress in court, and the most prosaic business affairs—including humdrum routine—are all under very fine vibrations.

After the 16th, until the end of March, a new set of rays cautions you to sit tight. Watch the results of your efforts, and see harvests mature.

If you are a Uranus belle and fall into the above birthday group, note February as an excellent month for courtship, romance and marriage. All relations with the opposite sex should be encouraged. Bring affairs of the heart to a climax—don't forget the 14th! But remember, be sure of your man. Another good time for the more personal side of your life should be March 10th to 20th.

ALL Aquarians have the majority of planets in friendly aspect to their natal Suns. This does not necessarily predict a stroke of "luck." It merely indicates that planets favor your taking the initiative in pushing your material interests during this quarter. Whatever problems call for solution, or whatever desire fills your heart, attend to it now with diligence, and with hopes of ultimate success.

In other words, the "breaks" you've been waiting for are likely to materialize. Fulfillment beckons.

Definitely under good aspects are those born on January 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th. You may encounter conditions of an unusual, yet, friendly, nature over which you may have practically no control. These may have to do with foreign affairs, distant lands, or distant relatives. An inheritance because of someone's sudden demise may fall your way when least expected.

Equally fortunate are those who celebrate their birthdays on February 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th. A stroke of good fortune like a bolt from out of the blue is not unlikely. This is apt to come about in a strange manner, and as the result of an association—perhaps through your marriage partner. These aspects are of a broad scope and operate as a stimulating undertone throughout the entire quarter. Your individual horoscope will best tell you the department of your life from which such blessings may emanate.

If you are a February-born Uranus son or daughter you may encounter some slight difficulties in the Mansion of service. Lack of domestic help, for instance, may throw the brunt of household obligations on your shoulders. Inharmony may prevail in the place of work for the white-collar girl. Tact and a cheerful manner will form the best policy if and when these minor unpleasantries crop up.

If you saw the light on February 3rd, 4th or 5th you may reap blessings from the younger generation, or your own offspring, if you are a parent.

CURRENT ASTROLOGY considers Libra the exaltation sign of Neptune, your ruler. Therefore you should be cognizant of its position in a sign saturated by the benign presence of Jupiter during 1946. This influence operates in the Mansion ruling the money of the public and partner. Jupiter additionally throws a hint in the direction of the boss' finances—all of which constitutes a highly fortunate augury for ALL children of the planet of the trident.

This means that some worth-while opportunities are in the offing. You may be offered a partnership or part interest in a concern. Someone else's money may back you in an enterprise. If such projects come your way, investigate their future possibilities. Don't let your innate sense of modesty get the better of your speculative audacity. Make "nothing ventured, nothing gained," your motto.

While a stroke of good fortune of the above nature may present itself to almost any one in this sign, we want to pick out those slated for such "breaks" by their birthday dates.

Those born late in February or on March 1st, 2nd or 3rd are likely to encounter strange benefits from other people's wealth. A slice of the cake of golden opportunities may also spice the life of those who saw the light on March 4th, 5th, 6th or 7th. But the latter group may find some adjustments necessary in order to enjoy the blessings resulting from this aspect. You are therefore warned to proceed carefully along new channels. Be conservative throughout. Do not allow the "other fellow" to bite off more than he can chew. Remember always, it's not you who does the financing—you are the beneficiary.

This important major aspect operates during the entire quarter of January, February and March, with the possible exception of the days between January 1st and 15th inclusive, when caution in written matters and legal technicalities is advised.

Some extraordinarily favorable, stabilizing influences are active for those born on March 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th or 13th. Take stock of yourself, and you will undoubtedly discover a deep-rooted urge for anchorage in the form of a home. Even if a domestic obligation should be involved, don't let it prevent you from building, buying or leasing a satisfactory residence. Marriage, too, is on the planetary calendar.

ALL Neptune children should note the period from February 16th to March 11th as auspicious. A dual ray shines then from Such interests as practical art and commercial design should be engaged in during this period. Venus commodities are to the fore. These include perfume, pictures, paintings, sculptures, fashions and interior decoration items. All kinds of self-expression should be cultivated, and that goes particularly for the stage, screen, radio, and concert platform artist.

If you contact the public in your work—not only as entertainer but as lecturer, salesman or advertiser—you should find this period excellent for circularizing, publishing and every kind of ballyhoo. Politics are not excluded.

Affairs of the heart should be encouraged. Bring things to a showdown if courtship should have worn thin. Let it be either this or that. Affections may culminate in matrimony. And all friendships, reconciliations, and social obligations should be attended to during this period.

Frankly, ALL Neptune children should have everything but a dull time during this first quarter of the year. The majority of planets radiate action, energy and stability—Saturn and Mars in Cancer. Venus is neutral when not definitely boosting your heart affairs; Mercury, too, lends support; and the two Libra planets, your ruler Neptune and co-ruler Jupiter, promise to bring a lucrative windfall your way.

A memorable turning point in many a Piscean life may now be at hand.

1946 and You

and, generally, the brighter side of human existence.

All July-born Cancerians must budget religiously the greater part of 1946. A wonderful year to attend to the "good riddance" problems. But, remember, under no circumstances invest in someone else's money with rosy promises of future gain because, regardless of how well-meant they may be, there's a danger signal marked LOSS!

1946 and LEO

(Those born July 23rd to August 23rd inclusive)

 © Lions always function best when the skies of Fate are bright and the sea of Life is free from annoying counter-currents. 1946 is just such a year. The majority of planets shed favorable aspects to your natal Sun. This means that you should plan ahead now what you wish to accomplish in 1946. You may additionally count on some "lucky breaks." This goes for every Leonian—whether his or her birthday falls in July or August.

The early part of 1946 may introduce some problems in the form of delays if you were born in August. It is wisest to tackle these difficulties discreetly, in fact, secretly. Mum's the word. Patience may not be your long suit, but the period between January 1st and April 21st definitely calls for a noblesse oblige attitude on your part. Use diplomacy and your gracious manner with associates, including the family.

Excellent vibrations are in force for July-born Lions practically all of 1946 for some unique benefit or gain. If you are a real estate holder you may find some overwhelming stroke of luck—like a lightning bolt—to "strike home." So do not turn down offers involving property, sales, or partial sales.

However, if you are merely a little kitten paddling your lone canoe, remember, a goldfish may leap at you. So catch opportunity by the forelock. Leo ladies may meet their "fate." Don't snub him because he hasn't a million in the bank. Tying up with him may yet prove a good investment.

All July-born Leos should maintain a stand-off attitude between September 24th and October 12th in matters of human relations. Cash and carry propositions (calling for your dollars) must be avoided, if possible, between September 24th and November 17th. Play safe when investments lure you, promising super profits!

If your birthday falls between August 1st and 11th, you should also apply discretion in financial affairs. Speculation may be followed by loss. Law suits may prove a headache all around. Maintain a conciliatory attitude all of October up to November 6th.

Yet, 1946 may turn out to be a fortunate milestone year for the same group. And those who saw the light between August 6th and 16th, especially, may look forward to the coming twelve months as a turning-point period. Your individual horoscope will tell exactly from what department in your life such benefits may be accrued. It may well pay you to consult your astrologer for personal guidance.

According to your solarscope, these advantages result from influential contacts. Mingle freely with all types of people. Remember that money and social power is not everything and that sometimes a humble nobody can introduce marketable ideas.

The ladies falling in this group may expect some interesting friendships with the opposite sex. He may be a foreigner and the element of romance and adventure may spice such relationships.

All Leo-born should have their irons in the fire by the Fall Equinox. That is, your major ventures should then be launched. A follow-through aspect operates for October, November and December with the advice: hands off the purse strings.

There are some Leonians who may discover in their hearts (ruled by Sol) an irresistible urge to anchor their existence permanently in the wholesome aspects of home and marriage. Planetary rays favor those born in July in this respect for the second half of 1946.

1946 and VIRGO

(Those born Aug. 24th to Sept. 22nd inclusive)

The planetary setup for Virgoans in 1946 lacks last year's element of unexpected fortune and sudden expansion. Now accent falls on sober practical judgment with cash in view.

Your Mansion of money is excellently stimulated, provided you refrain from extravagant impulses. Do not bite off more than your can chew. Test all ventures carefully as regards their soundness and legitimacy.

This advice is prompted by the dual influence of Jupiter and Neptune in your fiscal affairs. Jupiter brings optimism to your economic outlook, while Neptune is apt to over-emphasize the rose-colored aspect of such ventures.

If you saw the light between September 5th and 15th, watch your step when changes loom. Financial pitfalls may abound without your knowing it. Therefore, adjust yourself readily to changes when they are forced upon you by conditions. Do not voluntarily leap into hazardous and untried undertakings — you will only jump from the frying pan into the fire.

While this undercurrent operates throughout the entire year, mark the following dates in your calendar as extra critical: June 20th to July 21st. Watch your pocket-book!

Excellent vibrations may propel the affairs of August-born Virgoans between September 23rd and the end of November. Plan something worthwhile in major business or career ventures for this period. Do not hesitate to forge ahead if residential changes or important journeys present themselves. It's a time for action and drastic decisions. Your individual horoscope will show exactly what department of your life is stimulated.

A very pleasant period lies ahead for all between September 5th and the end of 1946 with the exception of the days between October 15th and November 10th. Stars favor self-expression, a cheerful frame of mind, adventurous encounters on journeys, agreeable experiences with neighbors and relatives, and generally, harmonious relationships with those around you. A romantic marriage is not excluded—it's honeymoon time! The child of art or the ambitious matron should plan worth-while social functions, exhibits, or public appearances.

Virgoans are often deep souls, ponderous thinkers, inveterate readers. If you are the scholastic, intellectual Mercury man or maiden and born in August, you can expect 1946 to be a memorable year. Note particularly the period between August 2nd and the end of December as excellent for literary efforts, broadcasts, television and picture art, including photography. If you are an engineer or otherwise mechanically or scientifically inclined, well, this is an extra-splendid time for laboratory and research findings.

Mixed vibrations operate in mid-Summer for all. Your emotions will be hyper-stimulated—romance beckons. But at the same time a counter-current is in force from Mars, which may cause you to be too exacting. Do not jump to conclusions on ill-founded evidence that the one is untrue or not playing the game squarely. Above all, this is not the time to pen your grievances on paper. Avoid explanations and complaints. This ray is effective between June 20th and August 10th.

The year rings out with a promise of coming gain and prosperity for 1947. However, if your birthday falls in August, be frugal during the holidays when you make merry. December may be a bit over-stimulated. Curb temper. This influence affects mainly your private and family life.

1946 and LIBRA

(Those born Sept. 23rd to Oct. 23rd inclusive)

♀ 1946 brings in the tide for Librans. All Venus children should feel the benefic transit of Jupiter through Libra in one way or another, and for many the coming year should be extra good.

Those who saw the light on any day between October 6th and 16th may rejoice. Your life pattern is wrought in gold: there may be such things as interesting visitors from afar, rich foreigners, or valuable contacts while journeying. The latter may mean worth-while new projects and unique marketable ideas that will yield lucrative results at a later date.

Libra ladies should maintain a receptive attitude when meeting members of the opposite sex. Affairs of the heart may now culminate before the magistrate or minister. That includes those ever-ever friendships which you thought could never mature into matrimony.

These influences operate throughout the twelve months. But you better be on the alert and catch opportunity by the forelock before your birthday sails in this October!

A redress in court or a rather unique ruling may benefit you if you were born in September, or on October 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th or 6th. Conditions surrounding the event may be extraordinary. You may get a feeling of an invisible four-dimensional power at work in your behalf. Monetary gains are indicated; you may handle the estate of a minor or invalid who is not a relative. Have you once shown yourself helpful to someone in the past? This good deed may now bear fruit in the form of a gift or a legacy.

While every month of 1946 introduces some different aspects at once propelling and gratifying on the material plane, the above-mentioned group should note August and November as especially stimulating in this respect.

If you saw the light in October, between the 10th and 23rd inclusive, then follow through on career propositions. After June 16th these should yield financial profits. If a sale is involved, work on it the first five months of the year. Force a showdown between June 16th and the end of September.

Marriage aspects are very encouraging. Hymene (that's the Muse of matrimony) smiles between August 9th and November 8th while Venus in Libra rings the wedding bells. This is a super-fine period also for friendships, reconciliations, public appearances and all Venus commodities, such as fashion shows, exhibits and the sale or purchase of art objects.

Some health vibrations call for attention while Saturn afflicts the digestive and eliminative track. This applies especially to those born in mid-October (13th to 23rd). But on August 3rd a new set of planetary aspects favors Librans who celebrate their birthdays in September or on October 1st, 2nd, or 3rd as regards stamina and physical resistance.

All Libra folk may suddenly feel the urge to solidify their existence by anchoring their home front, by buying a house or a country bungalow—or by marrying and settling down. Just remember that alliances engaged in during the second half of 1946 and the next two years are apt to be binding; so let temperamental congeniality be the decisive factor when making your choice.

1946 and SCORPIO

(Those born Oct. 24th to Nov. 22nd inclusive)

When planning your major moves in 1946, think of the first half of the year as a time for preparation and of the second one as a showdown period. So keep cheerful even if initial attempts fail or are delayed. The change of planetary rays which may mean a turning point in your affairs occurs in August—but the whole year is splendidly activated.

November-born Scorpionians will find the early part of 1946 to be extremely active, although results may not come in proportion with efforts invested. You may slave like a Trojan and, still, the collection plate may be disappointing.

Keep on going with a hundred per cent momentum just the same, until the end of April. Then expect results in May and June. October, November and December may turn out to be memorable for gain and profits. But watch your direction during all these months. Be sober and practical. Highfaluting, neck-breaking ventures are taboo during this period.

If you were born during the first six days of November, 1946 may bring you some unexpected publicity. This may come as the result of a past achievement which all of a sudden may now gain recognition. Inspirational creation—literary, musical, or scientific—may be involved. Your brain child may win a prize. Gratifying remuneration is indicated during October, November or December.

By the same token, Scorpio-born with an October birthday should note the last four months of 1946 as rife with creative urges. Write until your inkwell is dry! No idea or novel thought should be discarded then. This period promises to contain the germ of future renown and material recompense. If you are engaged in routine business, count on this aspect to bring a new item or merchandise to your attention. A side line of your business may become a main one.

Law suits and squabbles with in-law relatives, if legacies or money are involved, should be avoided by those whose birthdays fall between November 12th and 22nd inclusive, during the first four months of 1946. If you are the plaintiff, postpone important court appearances; if you are the defendant, stall the issue—try to harass your opponent with delays and evasions until late in the summer. The Fall Equinox should introduce favorable legal aspects which will swing victory your way.

Health may give you trouble during the second half of 1946 if you were born on October 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th or 31st. Strengthen the digestive system during the first half of the year when aspects stimulate increased stamina. Never lose track of the fact that you, above all other Zodiacal children, are the mental healers. Practice mental science and let nature's forces keep you in perfect fit.

Here's a warning: are your premiums and insurance papers in order? Have you paid your instalment payments? Can your income tax returns stand scrutiny? Better have everything shipshape . . . or else! Avoid unpleasantness or troubles of this kind and note the period from May 13th to the end of June as critical in this respect. This goes particularly for those who celebrate their birthdays between November 7th and 17th.

Mars Maidens will be gladdened by the news that their sex appeal and personal charm are greatly enhanced throughout the year. There may be an "elderly" suitor in the offing, who's worth considering if he presents himself during the months of January, February, March, April or May. Or you may meet that dashing Lothario in the Summer months. Object in both cases: matrimony!

1946 and SAGITTARIUS

(Those born Nov. 23rd to Dec. 21st inclusive)

Regarded from an economic angle, the major part of 1946 (until end of September) looks excellent. But as regards human relations, especially affairs of the partner, make diplomacy and caution your passwords.

This bit of advice is addressed to all December-born Archers.

Gain and increased prestige loom in matters of career and profession for those who saw the light between December 10th and 21st. Plan and prepare your major moves until the middle of June. Then force issues one way or another between June 16th and the Fall Equinox (September 23rd). The aspects indicate culmination—so if business affairs claim your shrewd sagacity and foresight, remember: it's either this or that! Drop the matter entirely if a satisfactory agreement cannot be reached. Apply the same policy if sales or important real estate transactions are involved. At any rate use initiative in all such matters, and forge ahead with full steam.

Human relationships, however, require wise handling. If your birthday falls between December 7th and 14th, note this warning: people you contact or are associated with, including the marriage mate, are in a process of readjustment in their jobs. Their affairs seem to be unstable. So it behooves you to understand their pivotal conditions, and demonstrate tolerance and patience, particularly if defective health or nervous exhaustion seem to be the cause of their troubles.

By the same token, your own relations with friends, husband, sweetheart or business associate may be uncertain, perhaps unsatisfactory. However, 1946 is not the time to bring about a showdown, sever legal ties, or even "rush to Reno." After a while these disturbances (if they exist) will disappear like a mirage. Harmony will settle again upon romance, and Hymene, the Muse of marriage, smile upon your domestic life.

Archers born in November or early December (from 1st to 5th) are under extremely stimulating aspects for inspirational, creative, output. 1946 is the year when to apply the most daring originality, even if the elements of the "bizarre" enters into the picture. This goes for all those engaged in advertising, broadcasting, script writing, editing, or in art generally. The scientifically inclined Jupiter man or maiden may discover a new "atomic" marvel—and energy will be well-spent if exerted on work in shop or studio.

Your Personal Problems

of Capricorn. All this adds up to a rather cold, perhaps selfish nature, inclined to stray affections. This might of course be accentuated or modified by the Ascendant, but without the exact birth minute we cannot say about that. The time as given here puts just one degree of Gemini on the Ascendant, while a difference of a few minutes might give him the more stable Taurus there.

Mars in Taurus in the Twelfth House and Mercury, ruler of the Fifth, also posited there gives some indication of secret love affairs. But Mars is trined by Saturn, and the Moon has the very fine trine of both Jupiter and Uranus posited in his house of marriage.

Taking all things into consideration, this is by no means a hopeless case, inasmuch as the contacts between the two charts are very good indeed. It is quite possible that if the wife is really willing to forgive the past, as she says, and work hard for future peace and happiness, she may yet achieve it. The Sun and Moon in her chart are both in good aspect to his Venus. Mercury is conjunct Mercury from chart to chart, and her Venus is in friendly configuration to the opposition of Sun and Jupiter in his chart. Her Saturn is within orb of a good aspect to the Sun in his. So altogether she can be a wonderfully stabilizing influence for him. With Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury and the South Node in Taurus, she should have a plentiful supply of patience, stability and persistence to accomplish her desires.

Eclipses

There will be six eclipses in 1946; four of the Sun and two of the Moon. A partial eclipse of the Sun on January 3rd, in 12 degrees Capricorn; another partial eclipse of the Sun on May 30th, in 8 degrees Gemini; a total eclipse of the Moon on June 14th, in 23 degrees Sagittarius; a partial eclipse of the Sun on June 29th in 6 degrees Cancer; another partial eclipse of the Sun on November 23rd, in 1 degree Sagittarius; and a total eclipse of the Moon on December 8th in 16 degrees Gemini.

Only the partial eclipse of the Sun on November 23rd is visible in Washington.

Zodiac Suite

perfectionist type of individual I had in mind.

AQUARIUS is a light, happy and jovial composition. It is meant to portray such outgoing, humanitarian, people as the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. Barney Josephson, champion of young talent and owner of the Cafe Societies in New York, was also born under this sign.

The number for PISCES I composed while broadcasting one Sunday afternoon. There is no set pattern or theme in this music because I think of Pisces-born as freedom-loving and imaginative, as is Phil Moore, pianist and song writer. Of course some under this sign are considered arrogant and "high-minded" too, and as the music unfolds I have injected those notes which I felt best captured the spirit of these people.

So far as I have been able to determine, the only other composer who has utilized astrological concepts was the English musician, Robert Forsythe. And yet the stars with the mystic fascination and wonder they have held for men since the beginning of time should be a real challenge to every creative artist. I have worked all my life to write and develop music that is both serious and original. The composing of the "Zodiac Suite" therefore, has not only been a highly satisfying experience but the beginning of the fulfillment of one of my greatest ambitions.

induced misfortunes through greed for possessions and through the love nature.

Gemini on the Twelfth cusp: Uncommunicative mind. Worry and distress through or for brothers and sisters. Feels confined in his environment.

Cancer on the Twelfth cusp: Unhappiness because of home conditions or ancestral history. Over-sensitive to everyday affairs.

Leo on the Twelfth cusp: Difficulty in giving love in the chosen direction, or in expressing affection. May direct love into illegitimate channels. May dissipate estate in gambling.

Virgo on the Twelfth cusp: Vague, indefinite illnesses may cause confinement through invalidism. May work in chemicals in seclusion.

Libra on the Twelfth cusp: Possible secret marriage and great unhappiness therefrom. Grief and loss in partnerships.

Scorpio on the Twelfth cusp: Active secret enemies, whose identity will eventually be known. May be active in underground or occult organizations.

Sagittarius on the Twelfth cusp: Enthusiastic in all philanthropy and charity, the recipients of which will be ungrateful, even antagonistic.

Capricorn on the Twelfth cusp: Dejection and gloom caused by frustration in career. Desire to found institutions.

Aquarius on the Twelfth cusp: Progress is hampered by refusal to accept any restraint. Gives help secretly to those in trouble.

Pisces on the Twelfth cusp: Lives largely in his subconscious. Accepts his misfortunes with philosophy. Self-sacrifice often in vain. Ignores what he does not understand. Looks for the answer to his problems in drink or drugs. May be a great marine inventor. Invisible playmates. Four-dimensional experiences.

Hollywood Stars

Mercury and Jupiter conjoining the Fixed Star Fomalhaut, 2 degrees, 44 minutes in Pisces, first magnitude, nature Venus-Mercury.

The ruler of Ann's Second House is in the Twelfth, which shows that she responded in the right direction when she decided to make screen acting her career instead of school teaching which she started out to do.

Neptune, that nebulous planet ruling motion pictures, is in Ann's Sixth House. It has no doubt helped her in her work, but at the same time it has made itself felt as an uncertain influence so characteristic of this planet and difficult to define. She has had numerous misunderstandings with her superiors at the studio where she is under contract, and at the present writing, she is on the suspension list for not accepting a part for which she was cast.

With the ruler of her Tenth in Pisces, she would do well in portraying Twelfth House characters—unfortunates, or girls who have strayed from the path and have been sent to jail; she did a series of gangster pictures at the beginning of her career in which she was most successful. She would also do well in the role of a nurse.

The fact that her Sun, Mercury and Jupiter are in Pisces, and her Twelfth House is well tenanted, explains why Pisces predominates in her looks and manners. She is absolutely devoid of coyness and artifice. She is sympathetic and has the reputation of being a "regular fellow." She is kind and friendly and therefore very popular with everybody on the lot—hair-dressers, electricians, camera men. She is a considerate person; when she came to have her chart read by the writer, for instance, her secretary and business manager came with her to have their own horoscopes set up. Ann insisted that they be read first and so she was last to come to my office.

Tarot Cards

Both names and numbers may be used for divinatory purposes. But in association with their proper tarot correspondences, which reveals the exact nature of the thought-energy radiated by those thinking them, they also may be scientifically considered. And if, in addition, it is ascertained from the chart of birth of an individual how these particular vibrations will affect him, we are dealing, not with divination, but with the science of vibration as affecting individual life.

The Magic Seven Spread

Ten completes a cycle, but seven completes a form. Common divination is concerned with external life, hence with form, the problems of which are readily solved by the application of the Seal of Seven, or Solomon's Seal, as it is commonly called.

This seal is an astrological chart in abstract; for the sum of the angles of the two triangles equals 360 degrees, measuring exactly, but in a more concrete form, the number of degrees in a circle. The six external points of the star, together with the point in the center, express the planetary septenary in terms of Jod-He-Vau-He, the divine quaternary, both above and below, the final He, or product, being common to both and occupying the center of the star.

To use this magical figure as a tarot spread, first, as usual, clearly formulate the information sought and keep it constantly in mind while shuffling and cutting the 78 tarot cards. Then deal them face downward, one by one, on the points of an imaginary six-point star, in the order shown in the diagram on Page 45, the seventh card taking the center.

Turn the cards over one at a time, and read as turned.

The first card dealt, the upper Jod, signifies the past of the matter inquired about. It is the cause of the present condition.

The second card dealt, the upper He, represents the present of the thing inquired about. It is the effect of past causes already indicated.

The third card dealt, the upper Vau, signifies the past and present united. It represents the immediate future of the matter.

The fourth card dealt, the lower Jod, represents the power of the individual to control the matter. It is also the influence of those favorable to it to control the matter through initiative and effort.

The fifth card dealt, the lower He, designates the part that fate and environment will play in the matter.

The sixth card dealt, the lower Vau, shows the combination of fate and individuals in the future taking the form of opposition to the venture.

The seventh card dealt, the final He, corresponding to the seventh seal of the Apocalypse, reveals all the factors of past and future after they have undergone gestation and given birth to the final issue. It, therefore, represents the result of the thing asked about.

In the diagram of this spread here reproduced both Hebrew characters and planetary symbols are added to the figure to assist those studiously inclined to discern the astral and kabalistical meaning of the seal, and the method used in divination. These planetary symbols need not be considered by those interested only in divination. As the question asked may embrace any phase or activity of life, the application of this spread in divination with the tarot cards is universal.

put in rose jars that had two tops—one pierced to allow the fragrance to disseminate into the air when it was desired to freshen a room, and the other, or outer lid, kept the jar tightly closed in between times to preserve the fragrance longer.

To prepare a potpourri, purchase dried herbs or flowers from any herb garden or store that deals in botanicals or crude drugs. If you live in the country, you can gather the plants yourself at the season when they are in their prime. Dry carefully in a warm room free from dampness, and store in paper bags.

The formula for a floral sachet given below contains ingredients that have correspondence with all seven of the Chaldean planets, so I'll call it "Zodiacal Potpourri."

Mix the following dried leaves and flowers:

1 lb. Rose petals ♀
(Rugosa or Damask roses are most fragrant)
½ lb. Lavender flowers ♀
1 oz. Sweet Marjoram leaves ♀
2 oz. Lemon Verbena leaves ♀
2 oz. Vertivert root (cut fine) ♂
¼ lb. Rose Geranium leaves ♂
2 oz. Balm leaves ♀

Note: You may add any other fragrant dried flowers you happen to have gathered and like.

Then, in a large bowl mix the following ingredients:

½ lb. Powdered Orris-root ♀
1 oz. Powdered Cinnamon ♂
½ oz. Powdered Cloves ♂
¼ lb. Powdered Sandalwood ♀
1 Freshly grated nutmeg ♀
The finely shredded peeling of one orange ♂

Mix, and sprinkle over them

1 oz. Tincture of Benzoin (plain) ♂
10 Drops each of Oil of Rose geranium ♂
Oil of Bergamont ♀

Blend this with the dried herbs and store in a tightly covered container for a month before filling rose jars or sachets.

ASTROLOGICAL LORE OF ALL AGES

By Elbert Benjamime

This is the saga of astrology. It is as fascinating and easily understood as fiction, and as interesting as the most exciting novel. With information derived from traditional sources, reinforced by historical records, it traces through the ages the dramatic struggle of the heroic individuals who were successful in keeping alive, in the face of tremendous obstacles, the knowledge of the facts of astrology. This struggle is followed not only in the Old World, but also in prehistoric and later America.

Neither mathematical ability nor knowledge of the mechanics of chart construction is required to read and benefit by this unusual book. Packed into this volume is a vast amount of astrological information; information which can be used to entertain your friends, and interest them in astrology.

and at work, thereby saving money. Note the fancy triangles on the lower part of "y," which indicate that he is an expert in some hobby.

THE writing from Natalie Campbell of Elmira is a good example of a person attempting to maintain her usual letter forms while writing under a difficulty. Natalie's hand is in a plaster cast which leaves only the first and second finger free.

An writing this note to you holding pen between first and second fingers
Natalie Campbell

She makes the figure eight "g" in the words "writing" and "holding," which is used by many authors. She also writes large round "a's" in the words "Campbell," and "and," so characteristic of hospitality. Although the "t" crossings in the words "writing" and "to" show caution, those in the words "this," "note," and "between" indicate plenty of action.

Note also the special forms of "f" in "first" and "fingers." These stand for unusual hobbies which she may later develop along cultural lines.

The uneven lines of writing must be caused by the cast as she writes other lines quite evenly.

If you'd like to know the character traits of your handwriting, you are invited to write a short note to Maud Mosher, c/o CURRENT ASTROLOGY, for possible use in this department. Such letters must be written in black ink, on plain white, non-porous and unruled paper. Four or five samples will be used in each article. These will be selected for variety, individuality, etc.—depending on their interest and value to other readers. Write in your natural manner, and advise whether we may use your name in connection with the analysis. No personal replies can be given—analysis will be made only through this column.

aspects carefully, we find that there is hope in this Lunation's general tenor. The Twelfth is the natural House of Pisces; it is tenanted by Mars and Saturn in Cancer, and these planets are friendly to the Lunation. Furthermore, Venus is exalted in Pisces, and the Moon is applying for a conjunction with this planet.

This is a very good augury for Uncle Sam's victory in the peace. Our President should be complimented on his economic sagacity and foresight in political matters. He is winning friends everywhere; American prestige will increase abroad as a result of his wisdom.

A scandal may break this month because of deplorable conditions in prison camps, prisons or reform institutes. The Black Market may have reached into these organizations with a sinister, ruthless hand, depriving inmates of food and selling it for big money elsewhere.

Another unsavory scandal may be aired in the amusement world. Nightspots may get their share of criticism because of objectionable forms of entertainment. Rumors of graft in which disloyalty of officials may be an element, may be circulating.

Mercury is in conjunction with the Mid-heaven. This planet may be responsible for a lot of sordid publicity in the daily papers about these cases of moral turpitude. Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public will voice their displeasure in the contributors' editorial columns.

Labor gets a black eye this month.

The weather and crop situation, however, should be encouraging. The climate promises to be seasonal, and the Vernal Equinox should usher in a generally pleasant period. The health of the general public will improve. Some astounding medical or therapeutical discoveries may make headlines.

Taxations affecting inheritances, gifts, and excess incomes may be revised by Congress. An important political leader may pass out of the picture under spectacular circumstances, probably while on a journey or on a vacation.

Real estate should be on an all-time high. Prices for homes, apartments and building materials will reach their peak.

All in all an improvement of the stringent housing situation is in evidence everywhere. Relief should make itself felt in over-congested areas in the large cities, as the building of new homes and housing projects picks up momentum.

of experience, and he prays that when he hears Saturn's tone in his gong it may remind him to go slowly until he has gained enough experience and is ready for his just rewards.

He then meditates on Mars, sign of force and fire. He prays for divine energy and the power to practice White Magic. Having instilled into his gong the message and tone of these four planets, he returns to the temple to get the approval of the High Priest who now tests the gong for trueness of tone. After a special ceremony, the High Priest takes his pupil and sits with him under the stars. Together, they commune with the planet Uranus, the Great Awakener. Under this vibration, the High Priest blesses the initiate and tells him that he is a Child of Light, that nothing can cloud his mission and that he has now become a teacher. And the light rays of Uranus pour down upon them, leaving their tone and color in the gong.

The disciple has been accepted. The Moon puts her cloak of mystery around them and together, teacher and pupil walk into the temple, beating out on the newborn gong the music of the spheres.

I have another temple gong, a very large one, whose tones are entirely different from the one above mentioned. They are very deep and resonant and can be heard for some time, long after the gong has been struck. This gong is known as the Choir gong, for it contains many human voices that denote power, authority and maturity.

Then, I have a Korean healing gong, bell-shaped, whose tones are highly melodious. It will act like magic to a person who is weary. Upon striking it and holding it over the solar plexus, it has a magnetically relaxing and healing effect on the nerves.

All students of the occult know that the solar plexus is a very important psychic center, or chakra, as it is termed in the East. To the trained psychic who can see the different chakras in the body, they are like whirling wheels of varied colored light. So when the gong is toned over these centers, the colors in their vibrations pick up the colors in the chakra and recharge it with new energy. Many times during one of my lectures on gongs there have been persons in the audience who have been instantly healed of severe headaches and fatigue just by striking the gong softly and passing it back and forth over their heads.

The story of this Korean healing gong is very interesting. It was made by a highly evolved soul in a temple in the Far East. It is said that the priest who made it, in addition to pouring his heart and voice into it, also opened a vein in his wrist and rubbed some of his blood into the metal—which is supposed to enhance the tone. His own melodious voice is easily discernible. It is also said that the voices of the angels sing through its sound, blessing those listening to it.

Genius Vs. Insanity

Venus obviously bestows a genius for that which is agreeable to the physical senses without necessarily having the abstract aesthetic values pertaining to Neptune; for the relaxations of life, its lighter moments of reward for previous labor, its love-interest, and even to a limited extent all matters concerned with women and children, and the preservation and continuance of the race.

The Moon would primarily give a genius for memory, for the gathering and recording and storing of the tangible and intangible assets of the race. Also a genius for intercourse with, and a sensing of the pulse of, the masses, the public in general. Like Venus, but in a more practical manner, the genius bestowed by the Moon concerns itself with the preservation of the race through such routine matters as housing, feeding, nursing, etc.—in short, purveying in general.

The Sun, as regards its genius, once more plays its usual kingly role. That is, it gives genius for power, organization and rulership, and as mentioned before, adds the quality of vitality which enables such genius to become more than a mere design.

The function of Mercury has already been covered, it being essentially that of skill in expressing and communicating to others the quality bestowed by the other planet involved in the quintile. Mercury here, as in most astrological delineations, is a hermaphrodite planet whose function is to a large extent that of intensifying the qualities belonging to whatever other planet it may be associated with.

Of course, to make these delineations more concrete and definite one looks to the signs in which the planets concerned are posited, as well as to their house position, and to the aspects they may have from other planets to establish a reasonable relationship between the particular types of genius indicated and the aims and objects of the horoscope considered as a whole.

"The 7 Keys to Power alleges to teach," the Author says, "All the Mysteries of Life from the Cradle to the Grave—and Beyond. It tells you the particular day and hour to do anything you desire, whether it be in the light of the moon, sun, or in total darkness."

He claims, "The power to get what you want revealed at last, for the first time since the dawn of creation. The very same power which the ancient Chaldeans, Cuthic Priests, Egyptians, Babylonians, and Sumerians used is at our disposal today."

He says, "Follow the simple directions, and you can do anything you desire. No one can tell how these Master Forces are used without knowing about this book, but with it you can mold anyone to your will."

From this book, he says, "You can learn the arts of an old Science as practiced by the Ancient Priestly Orders. Their marvels were almost beyond belief. You, too, can learn to do them all with the instructions written in this Book," Lewis de Claremont claims. "It would be a shame if these things could all be yours and you failed to grasp them."

He claims, "It is every man's birthright to have these things of life: MONEY! GOOD HEALTH! HAPPINESS! If you lack any of these, then this book has an important message for you. No matter what you need, there exists a spiritual power which is abundantly able to bring you whatever things you need."

OVERCOME ALL ENEMIES, OBSTACLES & HIDDEN FEARS

ARE YOU CROSSED IN ANY WAY?

The Seven Keys to Power, Lewis de Claremont says, shows you how to remove and cast it back
The Book Purports to Tell You How to—Gain the love of the opposite sex.

Unite people for marriages.
Obtain property.

Make people do your bidding.
Make any person love you.
Make people bring back stolen goods.
Make anyone lucky in any games.
Cure any kind of sickness without medicine.
Get any job you want.
Cast a spell on anyone, no matter where they are.

Get people out of law suits, courts,
or prison.
Banish all misery.
Gain the mastery of all things.
Regain your youth and vigor.
Choose words according to ancient, holy methods.

THE ONLY TRUE BOOK OF SUPREME MASTERSHIP!

This is the Power, he says, from which the old masters gained their knowledge and from which they sold limitless portions to certain favored Kings, Priests, and others at high prices, but never to be revealed under a vow, the violation of which entailed severe punishment.

THE VOW HAS NOW BEEN BROKEN

This book, he claims, shows you the secrets of old which when properly applied make you able to control the will of all without their knowing it. If you have a problem and you wish to solve, he says, don't hesitate. Advertisements cannot describe or do this wonderful book justice. You must read it and digest its meaning, to really appreciate its worth.
